CURRENT COMMENT
By Chester H. Rowell

WE DISTINGUISH what we are convinced, is the better life of today from the harder life of the past by the things that have made it easier—machinery, transportation, sanitation and peace. And the greatest of these is peace. For machinery and transportation only make war more destructive, and no sanitation can compete with its havoc of lives. In peace, machinery does our work; transportation makes the whole world our garden and our shop, and sanitation keeps more of us alive to enjoy these things. So the civilized world has more people in it, living in more ease and comfort than ever before.

WHAT shall the future add? More of the same things, surely—a surer peace, better mechanics and longer life. And the greatest of these will still be peace, without which the others destroy themselves. But ever since Socrates there has been the demand for one thing more—for justice, as the supreme end of organized numan endeavor. It was justice which our fathers thought democracy would usher in, and it did not. It is justice which our dreamers imagine Socialism would attain, and it will not. Roman law and order and mediaeval piety did not reach it. If our successors can solve this human problem as well as we have solved the mcehanical ones, they will have done their part.

EVEN a governor who wants to do so can not get away from executive dictatorship. Governor Young, for instance, is trying to get the legislature to take its own responsibility in defeating undesirable bills, instead of dumping the whole mass on him, to be sifted by veto after the legislature adjourns. It is a good step in the right direction.

But what is the reaction? All the correspondents report that what it means is that the Governor has this legislature so well in hand that he needs only to pass the word quietly that he is opposed to a bill and it is shelved or defeated. So the legislative decision is still with the governor, though it is exercised more gracefully.

THE fact is, there is no way to get away from it, and if it were rightly organized, there would be no reason for doing so. Executive leadership in legislative matters is the established theory everywhere else, and it is the established practice even here, where we have inherited a contrary theory. It would not have survived so long nor become so universal if it were not fitted to a real need. The question then is, not how to get rid of it, but how best to use it.

IN INFORMED circles, there is very little question, even about that. Responsible executive leadership is not an evil. Irresponsible dictatorship, whether by the Executive or by any one else, is an evil, even when, as in the present instance, it is exercised with a high personal sense of responsibility. The machinery of responsibility is not there. What is needed, then, is to make executive leadership more visible and responsible.

THE present system, even when it works as well as it is working in Sacramento right now, reverses the normal functions. According to the reports above quoted, what the "word" from the Governor's office does is not to propose or advocate bills, but to decide them. The wholesale veto system, which it seeks to replace, does the same thing. But deciding ought to be precisely the function of the legislature. Proposing is not necessarily its function, though we treat it as the principal one. It is of little importance that legislators should introduce bills; it is the essential of democracy that they decide them. We, on the contrary, have the legislators introduce all bills, in form, and many of them in substance, and then leave it to the Governor to decide them. That is government upside-down.

GOVERNOR Young's proposed administrative reorganization, which will among other things give him a cabinet, is a long step toward responsibility. The governor will at least have the machinery to lead, and will be responsible for those who do the leading. The principal remaining step would be to give the legislature better machinery to hold them to that responsibility. And the best way to do that would be to permit the governor, and to require the members of his cabinet, to get on the floor of the legislature themselves, to be dealt with face to face and in public. If they have bills to introduce—as they always have, even now—they should introduce themselves, openly, instead of slipping them under the back door for a member to "sponsor." If they have bills to promote, they should argue for them, in the legislature, instead of lobbying for them, outside. And if the legislature wants information of them, it should have them there, on its floor, to ask the questions and have them answered, face to face and in the open.

When we have that, our executive leadership will be responsible, and nobody will think it an evil.

Also, the legislative session will be the most interesting and important place in California.

CAPTURE OF NANKING IMMINENT

INJURED ARE REMOVED TO HOSPITALS

DOZENS LOSE HOMES

Telephone and Telegraph Lines in Storm Ravaged Region Are Blown Down

(By United Press)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 18.—The death toll of a terrific cyclone that wrought destruction near Benton, Ark., late last night, rose to 12 today, as rescue workers went from house to house through the devastated area, seeking out the dead and injured.

At least 35 more have been seriously or slightly injured and have been taken to the hospitals in Benton and surrounding towns.

Telephone and telegraph lines in the storm ravaged area were blown down and the only information available here today came from the rescuers, who are making a canvass of the district and administering to the victims.

The dead were taken to the undertaking parlors in Benton early today.

Dozens lost their homes and belongings in the death dealing wind cone, which swept houses along with it and uprooted trees.

The twister struck first near Delight, Pike county, where four houses were blown down and a man and woman probably fatally injured by falling timbers. Many others barely escaped death by taking refuge in storm cellars.

The storm came without warning. It struck next near Benton, in Salina county, killing 12 persons in a farming community northwest of the town and injuring a score of others. A number of houses were blown down in that district.

It struck Collegeville, Klondyke, Willis, Alexander and Mountain View, inflicting injuries to farmers and their families and heavy property damage.

One girl was missing early today, although searching parties had combed the stricken area for her throughout the night.

The storm took the heaviest toll of life in the Edgar Smith home. Rescuers found all six of the Smith family dead or injured in the wreckage of the residence.

X-ray Taken of President's Hand

WASHINGTON, March 18—An X-ray of President Coolidge's sprained wrist has revealed the presence of a fluid causing distortion of a tendon, Maj. James F. Coupal, personal physician to the president, declared today. Coupal said it would be necessary to keep the wrist tightly bound with bandages for several days. The sprain, however, is not serious, he said.

College Student Commits Suicide

NEW ORLEANS, March 18. — Harold P. Bergeret, 26, an architectural student in Tulane university and brother of Gene Bergeret, former Tulane football star, committed suicide at the home of his father here today by firing a .38 calibre pistol bullet into his head.

He died instantly.

WEEPAH CAMP DESCRIBED AS GREATEST IN NEVADA HISTORY

Old Timers Say New Strike Will Fade Others Into Insignificance

BY STUART B. DUNBAR
United Press Correspondent

TONOPAH, Nev., March 18.—Weepah is not a chimera. Weepah is a gold camp that, according to the best available information, is going to outshadow every other gold camp in Nevada.

Tonopah and Goldfied are names that still signify great fortunes. Weepah, the old timers think, is going to make those names fade into insignificance, for those who know say "the stuff is here."

Today we saw it. Great broken chunks of rock, studded with scintillating gold particles. We saw a frying pan, the bottom of which was covered with gold flakes, panned out by the Horton boys, who made the Weepah discovery. And we saw a heretofore untraveled road, jammed with automobiles, as prospectors and promoters sped over the bumpy trail to Weepah.

Tonopah's population continues to grow hourly. Last night the Tonopah sleeper, an ancient institution, perpetuated by the Tonopah and Goldfield railroad since the days when those two camps were booming, was crowded, with an additional sleeper added and every berth taken.

Mob Reaches Tonopah

It was a tough pull for the little old locomotive, but a following freight was flagged and the combined effort of the two engines finally succeeded in landing an impatient mob in Tonopah.

Along the dusty 28 miles from Tonopah to Weepah, the automobile has taken the place of the burro train, which featured the gold rushes of bygone days.

The "desert rats," those wizened individuals who constantly roam the wide open spaces of Nevada, apparently received word of the strike at Weepah through the mysterious underground desert telegraphy. At any rate, they are on hand, having beaten the newcomers by many days.

Most of them have located claims and are selling them at prices ranging from $1000 to many thousand. Sales are for cold cash dollars. No "jawbone" goes at Weepah.

The biggest deal in claims yet announced was the purchase, by Thomas Lynch, president of the Belcher Extension Consolidated Mining company, of four claims adjoining the original strike of young Frank Horton and Leonard Traynor. The price was $30,000. Work of erecting camp headquarters started today and five miners will be put to work at once, Lynch announced.

Clear Weather Reigns

The storms, which have made life miserable on the desert the last few days, had passed today and clear weather reigns. There is a little nip in the air, but just enough to put the newcomers on edge to go up against the fight for big money.

Weepah is still mostly tents, a fluttering, raggity camp boasting two dance halls and, until last night, a restaurant. The proprietor of the eating place was sold out by sundown and, when hungry prospectors came swarming into the place and found no food available, they almost wrecked it.

The caterer piled his belongings into a decrepit car and sped down the road, shouting back that he would return today with a bigger and better food supply.

The two dance halls boast 20 girls between them and two one man bands.

For the most part, Weepah is quiet at night, with every one except the prospectors, who have valuable claims which they feel must be guarded, returning to Tonopah, which has a new lease on life.

All the regular citizens, along with the newcomers, have located claims. The district attorney, the county judge, the barber, bootblack and the baggage rustler were "in" on the strike and expect to reap fortunes.

H. L. WHITFIELD, MISSISSIPPI'S GOVERNOR, DIES

(By United Press)

JACKSON, Miss., March 18 — Gov. Henry L. Whitfield, of Mississippi, died at 4:15 a. m., today after a long battle with blood poisoning.

The governor lapsed into unconsciousness at noon Thursday, shortly after directing his funeral arrangements, in which he asked that his rites be simple and that friends send no flowers. He also requested that his military staff act as pall bearers and that the state flag be draped around his casket.

He had been sinking rapidly since his return here from Memphis on crutches, several months ago. His left leg was amputated in a Memphis hospital in an effort to check the spread of the poison.

League Is Probing Ship Booze Charge

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Anti-Saloon league today was privately investigating information attributed to a millionaire Arizona ranch man that stewards sold liquor aboard the U. S. shipping board vessel Leviathan.

Frederick Almy, the ranchman, landing in New York, was fined for having liquor in his suite aboard the ship and afterward said there was drinking on board, intimating stewards supplied the liquor.

While the league was silent in the absence of its own facts on the situation, the shipping board reiterated its recent statement that it discouraged law violations on its boats, pointing out, however, infractions might be expected occasionally in any community as large as the Leviathan's.

Girl Bandit Faces 30-Day Jail Term

LONG BEACH, March 18.—Rita Sutherland, 18, faced 30 days in the county jail today, following her plea of guilty to staging five bus robberies here, in company with C. G. Lund. Lund was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Lund told the court he was responsible for the robberies, making the plans and directing the girl to gain the attention of the bus drivers by appealing for help while he robbed the busses.

Lund was said to have been a former employe of a bus company and had pass keys to the cash boxes on the busses.

Suicide Attempt Report Is Denied

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Mrs. John Dempsey, sister-in-law of the former heavyweight champion, suffered a painful wound in her left breast, here today, when she slipped and fell on a knife while peeling an orange, according to police reports.

A physician, who was called to attend Mrs. Dempsey, said the wound would not prove serious.

Reports that Mrs. Dempsey had attempted to end her life by stabbing herself were emphatically denied by detectives, who were summoned to investigate.

GOVERNOR'S BUDGET BILL IN ASSEMBLY

See Early Adoption of Request for $193,000,000 To Operate Government

ADDITIONS EXPLAINED

Largest Item of Increase Is $100,000, for Teacher College in San Jose

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—Governor Young's $193,000,000 budget, providing the money to operate the state government from 1927 to 1929, was before the assembly today, with all signs pointing to its early adoption.

A vote was taken on the budget bill by the assembly ways and means commitee late last night, after A. R. Heron, chairman of the state board of control and the governor's budget maker, had appeared before the committee and explained the various changes in the document as originally presented.

Addition of approximately $250,000 in new appropriations was explained by Heron in detail, representing the needs of various departments and institutions as shown by further study.

$100,000 for College

The largest item of increase was for San Jose State Teachers' college, $100,000. This amount, Heron explained, is for the construction of a new training school building to replace the original building, which has withstood the shocks of three earthquakes.

"If California has a right to be ashamed of anything it should be in the way she has provided, or not provided, for veterans," declared Heron, explaining an increase of $10,000 for the Yountville Veterans' home. It is planned to expend $250,000 on the home within the next four years, including surplus money of the state boxing commission, he said.

Other items of the major increases over the original budget included:

Agricultural economic research at the University of California, $20,000.

California Redwood park, Santa Cruz, to construct roads and trails as a safety measure, $10,500.

For Additional Deputies

Additional deputies in the attorney general's office, $10,000.

Salaries of judges in the judicial council, $10,000.

Under a bill, which Senator H. C. Nelson, of Eureka, has asked permission to introduce, all future highways of the state would have 80-foot rights-of-way. The measure would cover only roads added to the system after the bill passes.

The proposal of Senator Fred Handy, of Ukiah, to extend the legislative recess between the first and last periods of the session from 30 to 60 days was tabled by the senate constitutional amendments committee.

In the afternoon session of the assembly, a bill was passed validating the creation of Ventura county harbor, formerly called Hueneme harbor.

Reduce Time for Nevada Divorces

CARSON CITY, Nev., March 18.—Three months instead of six months residence in Nevada before a person wishing a divorce may apply for it is provided in a bill passed by the state legislature in closing session today.

As a result of the action, this state, long known as the divorce center of the country, is expected to see a fresh impetus of this sort of business.

The bill also carried a provision making insanity a ground for complaint in a divorce action. Governor Balzar signed the bill this morning, making it a law.

Four Killed When Train Strikes Car

WELLSVILLE, Kas., March 18.—Four persons, including a mother and her child, were killed here late last night when the Chief, crack Santa Fe passenger train, dragged a small coupe more than 200 feet down the right-of-way and ripped it to pieces. A 4-year-old boy was so seriously injured by the terrific impact that he, too, may die.

MAP SHOWING REGION OVER WHICH WAR LORDS BATTLE

The region where China's war lords are at close grips is shown here. Northern forces, defending Nanking, prepared today to make a desperate stand to prevent that city from falling into the hands of the Cantonese. Capture of the city would give the Cantonese a new advantage in their drive to cross the Yangtze river and push across Kiangsu province, to the Yellow sea, to cut off Chang Chung Chang's army in Shanghai.

U. S. ATTORNEY FILES APPEAL IN COOK CASE

Justice Officials Intimate Thorough Investigation Is Under Way

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Mrch 18—The U. S. district attorney in Fort Worth, Texas, has filed there a note of appeal in the case of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who was ordered placed on probation from Leavenworth penitentiary by federal Judge Winson, of Fort Worth, Texas, the justice department said today, and it is understood that Attorney General Sargent will make a formal appeal on the probation issue to the U. S. circuit court of appeals. The note of appeal protects the government's interests in the case.

Justice officials intimated a thorough investigation was under way and that the warden at Leavenworth penitentiary had been ordered not to release Dr. Cook on the probation writ pending further instructions from the attorney general.

BENCH WARRANT FOR COOK IS ISSUED

CLEVELAND, O., March 18—A bench warrant for Dr. Frederick A. Cook was sworn out here today by U. S. Attorney A. E. Bernsteen. This was the first step toward forcing his return here and trial for mail fraud.

Simultaneously Bernsteen notified Warden T. B. White, at Fort Leavenworth federal penitentiary to hold Cook for U. S. authorities in Cleveland.

Bernsteen, reviewing the indictments said that Cook had defrauded Clevelanders of $1,000,000 by sales of his Petroleum Producers' association stock.

SAPIRO DRAWS REED ATTACK IN FORD SUIT

$229,950 Collected from 8 Farmer Co-operatives, Senator Charges

(By United Press)

DETROIT, Mich., March 18.—Senator James A. Reed, continuing his opening statement in the Ford-Sapiro libel suit, today charged Aaron Sapiro collected $299,950 in organization and counsel fees from eight of the more than 100 farmers' co-operative marketing associations, organized under the "Sapiro plan."

Reed promised to prove that the tri-state tobacco association alone paid Sapiro $122,000 in counsel and organization fees.

He charged that a manager allegedly forced by Sapiro on the Carolina peanut growers involved the association in litigation and Sapiro collected $35,000 for untangling it in addition to a $5000 organization fee.

Maine potato growers paid $17,500 for Sapiro's services in organizing their association, Reed charged; California tomato raisers paid $7500; the Kentucky burley tobacco men $48,500 for organization and counsel fees; the dark tobacco growers, $30,000 for organization and $22,850 for counsel fees; $6100 from Colorado potato growers, and $5500 from the fruit men of Oregon.

Came To Grief

According to Reed, in practically all of these and in many other instances, the organizations eventually came to grief. Minnesota potato growers sold at half the price, he charged, that independent growers collected; Colorado potato men paid $15 a car more than was legitimate to a San Francisco firm for handling their product, and in Kentucky independent growers sold their tobacco for cash while members of Sapiro's association waited as

WUKIANG AND ISHING FALL IN ONSLAUGHT

SHANGHAI IS PERILED

Possession of City by Attackers Would Virtually Isolate Chang's Soldiers

(By United Press)

SHANGHAI, March 18.—Capture of Nanking by the Cantonese was reported imminent today, after the fall of Wukiang and Ishing to the Nationalists.

Northern forces defending Nanking prepared to make a desperate stand in that city, capture of which would make the already perilous position of Shanghai still more critical.

A general strike was believed to be near in Shanghai, as labor troubles increased to serious proportions.

Terrorists were intimidating workers in the city. Strikers were gaining headway with 15,000 reported out of work. Labor murders have occurred almost daily.

Police accused provisional court judges of being intimidated into releasing gunmen.

Capture of Nanking would give the Nationalist armies a new advantage on their drive to cross the Yangtze river. Nanking is on the river northwest of Shanghai and once they had it in their possession, the Cantonese would be in a position to push across Kiangsu province to the Yellow sea, cutting off Chang Chung Chang's army at Shanghai fro mits northern allies.

ROTHWELL WILL FIGHT EXPECTED

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—With the cause of death established as heart disease, the body of Walter Henry Rothwell, famous composer, was expected to be released for cremation today and a certificate of death signed.

An official report, made by County Autopsy Surgeon Wagner, giving heart disease as the cause, dispelled the mystery that has surrounded the case.

Meanwhile, preparations were expected to be made here to contest Rothwell's will.

Mrs. Rothwell, from whom the musician was separated, was cut off entirely. Two-thirds of the estate, listed "in excess of $10,000," was bequeathed to Rothwell's two children, who are now in Germany with their mother.

The remaining third was willed to Miss Wanlyn Carswell, former wife of William A. Duporu, San Francisco business man. The friendship of Rothwell and Miss Carswell was based on a mutual interest in music.

90 Are Arrested In Gambling Raid

FRESNO, March 18.—As a result of one of the most successful raids ever staged in this county, 90 men are accused of conducting gambling games or visiting a gambling house today.

The raid was staged by Sheriff W. F. Jones on a farm house near here late last night.

Eleven Chinese are charged with operating the games, one negro is accused of being a lookout, and the remainder of the persons arrested are charged with visiting a gambling house.

Say Hijacked Rum Owned by Senator

WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Washington Daily News says this afternoon it has learned a U. S. senator owned liquor hijacked from a truck on the outskirts of the city recently. Without identifying the man ,it says he is "influential in District of Columbia affairs," adding this presumably accounts for the elaborate precautions of police and prohibition officials to keep secret the owner's identity.

ONE KILLED IN CRASH

COALINGA, Calif., March 18.—Earl Ashcraft, 30, Fresno, is dead and his companion, Ella Smith, also of Fresno, is seriously injured as a result of an automobile accident near here late last night. Ashcraft's car skidded and overturned.

AUTHORITIES FAIL TO GET D'AUTREMONT CONFESSION

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18—Balked yesterday in their efforts to wring a confession from Hugh D'Autremont, accused of participating in the Siskiyou tunnel train dynamiting, postal inspectors today resumed questioning the youth in an effort to learn the whereabouts of his two brothers, Roy and Ray, also charged with the crime.

Under heavy guard, D'Autremont will be taken north probably tomorrow, authorities said. It was indicated he would be taken to Medford, Oregon.

"I'll talk about anything but the train holdup," authorities quoted the dapper youth as telling them. "My father has engaged an Eugene, Ore., attorney and I intend to stand on my constitutional rights by saying nothing that might implicate me, at least until I confer with him."

D'Autremont is under heavy guard at the army prison on Alcatraz Island. Postal authorities said he appeared nervous when questioned in spite of his efforts to keep up a bold front.

SLAYER REPRIEVED AS HOUR FOR EXECUTION APPROACHES

(By United Press)

OSSINING, N. Y., March 18.—Harry Cowan, a pitiable shell of a man, looking forward with gratitude to an existence that most men would regard as living death, waited in the death cell at Sing Sing today for the papers that have spared his life.

Cowan, bereft of four or his five senses, lifted his sightless eyes just before midnight and thanked God that he had been spared.

Cowan, convicted of murdering his sweetheart in a jealous rage, was reprieved by Governor Smith a few hours before the time set for the execution. The news was sent to Sing Sing by telephone.

Cowan killed Miss Edith Burdon in December, 1925, in her Brooklyn apartment. He was found beside her body, a bullet in his head. His attempt at suicide failed, however, and he was brought to trial and convicted.

The bullet which he had meant to end his life injured his nervous system so that he became blind. While in the death cell he lost his hearing in one ear, his sense of taste and smell.

SAPIRO DRAWS REED ATTACK IN FORD CASE

Sapiro's officers, he charged, at the same time were spending the growers' money with a lavish hand.

Reed promised to show that Sapiro first said he would take any amount offered for his services to the Colorado potato growers, but finally started suit after asking $10,000 and was paid $6100 and costs.

Oregon fruit growers were told the same thing, he said, but later were asked for $10,000 and paid $5000.

"Sapiro insisted that the association make its contracts with firms owning stock in a fruit processing money," Reed said, referring to the Oregon fruit growers.

A contract was made with the firm of Butler and Sargent, he said, and then when a controversy arose between the firm and the association, Sapiro was retained as Butler's and Sargent's attorney and advised the firm to withhold money from the association.

Sold At Half Cost

The exchange, under Sapiro's counsel, bought certain fruit processing plants and then sold them "at one-half their cost," Reed maintained.

Reed told the jury he would show that a $65 a month stenographer in California was raised to $600 a year when Sapiro reorganized the California Prune and Apricot growers' association; that the president was paid $25,000 a year and the field managers, $12,000. Reed said these figures were exorbitant. He charged that Colorado and Idaho potato growers were coerced into making an exclusive contract with the San Francisco commission firm of Weil and Zuckerman to market their product and that, as a result, Colorado growers paid $12.50 a car more than they should have paid for the handling of their potatoes.

Reed broke his rule of not mentioning the word "Jew"—he maintains the Jewish race is not involved in the case, and Ford's anti-Semitic campaign has no relation to it—by describing Weil and Zuckerman as a "Jewish firm," but he qualified it by explaining that he meant it n no derogatory sense.

Weepah Strike Is Called Greatest In Nevada History

ping Springs valley showed signs of abatement today, as seasoned prospectors began to question the quantity of gold at the west's latest bonanza.

Between 75 and 100 automobiles from four western states have brought in gold seekers and many new claims have been staked.

The preliminary rush from neighboring towns has died down awaiting word of new strikes. Several claims are running between $40,000 and $50,000 a ton.

Easterners anticipating frontier hardships are wiring for reservations. Scores of wires asking for "two rooms and bath" suites and other combinations have been received, while others express themselves as being satisfied if they can obtain double beds and baths.

Residents of the valley, inspecting the large pile of requests in the Winkleman telegraph office, declared that there was not a single bath in the mining camp, but that visitors were welcome to use the Gila river, now running high with unusual spring precipitation.

PRIEST CONDEMNED TO HANG ARRIVES IN SANTA ANA TO TESTIFY AT MURDER TRIAL

With the stage set for the dramatic scheduled appearance of the Rev. Father Philip A. Goodwin, interest in which was attested by the early morning jam in the courtroom, the trial of Albert Dewey Gaines, accused confederate of the convicted priest, today commenced narrowing down to the vital issues of the Patterson murder case.

Milton Carlson, famous "examiner and photographer of questioned documents," to give his own title to the handwriting expert was on the stand throughout this morning's session, resuming his testimony that was started yesterday.

He lectured on the quirks and peculiarities of handwriting at great length, devoting much care to an analysis of admitted specimens of the handwriting of Joseph J. Patterson, murdered man, and Gaines, who is charged by the prosecution with forging the dead man's name to checks.

Brands Checks Forgeries

Carlson yesterday examined two checks, one for $14 cashed after Patterson's death, and the "Samuel Reader" check for $130, cashed just before Patterson was slain. Both checks were forged against Patterson's bank account, it is alleged. They were so declared as forgeries by Carlson yesterday, but the expert has not yet expressed his opinion as to the identity of the forger. It is known to be the prosecution's theory that Gaines forged both checks.

Carlson was not called upon by the prosecution, however, to give his opinion as to who committed the forgeries. Privately, he stated that he would not do so, unless forced by the defense.

"I'd rather leave it to the jury," he said. "I want to be strictly fair even though I am testifying for the prosecution. But, if I am compelled to, of course I will give my opinion."

Cross-examination of Carlson started at 11 a. m. and promised to be a spirited clash of wits between the expert and Defense Counsel George Halverson. Attorney and witness openly disagreed on certain phases of the handwriting speciments, Carlson several times flatly contradicting assertions made by Halverson. Prosecution attorneys frequently objected that Halverson was not allowing Carlson to complete his answers, before starting a new question.

Goodwin Arrives in S. A.

Goodwin, the actor-priest, arrived in Santa Ana at 10 a. m., in care of Deputy Sheriffs Joseph Ryan and F. R. Howard. He was held incommunicado at the county jail, despite efforts of Attorney Kitt Gould to see him. Gould and his daughter, Miss Rhoda Gould, expressed indignation at their failure to see the priest, declaring that his constitutional rights were being violated.

The prosecution announced that Goodwin would be called to the stand at the completion of Carlson's testimony, if—

The "if" was his own willingness to testify. It was admitted that he could refuse to testify if he desired, on the ground that he might incriminate himself. He holds the same rights in that respect that the defendant, Gaines, enjoys, it is said. Although he has been convicted and sentenced to hang, his appeal to the supreme court is still undecided.

Goodwin Letter Offered

Chief Deputy District Attorney L. W. Blodget yesterday introduced the letter written from New York City by Goodwin to Gaines in Denver, on April 15, 1926, a month after the Patterson slaying. The same letter figured in the Goodwin trial. In it Goodwin called Gaines a "dear," and signed himself as "your own admiral." He asked Gaines to "let me know all the dirt." At one place, the letter apologized to Gaines for Goodwin's treatment of him while Gaines was "visiting" in Los Angeles.

The latter portion of the letter is regarded by the prosecution as of significance to the case at trial. It reads:

"Mr. Rockett (of the Patterson boarding house) called on me just before I left (Los Angeles), said he was very anxious about the man who roomed next to you. Then his friend phoned and said he understood he went south with a priest. I told them he did not go with a priest, and then in a few days Rockett called me to say he got a letter from the man and he was in Tuijana with an army pal. Rockett said he had phoned his girl and she said he often went away for 3 or 4 weeks at a time and they never heard of him—so I guess they don't worry any. That's the news as I left it. Will write more soon."

Another Letter Introduced

Blodget also introduced the latter, ostensibly written from Tia Juana by Patterson to the Rockett boarding house, to tell Rockett he was in the Mexican town with an old army pal. This letter was dated March 25, at which time Patterson had been dead for 10 days. In this letter, the name of the town was spelled "Tuijuana." At the Goodwin trial, the prosecution stressed the misspelling of the word in this letter and compared it with the misspelling of Tia Juana in the Goodwin letter from New York to Gaines in Denver, in which the name was spelled "Tuijana." The Goodwin prosecution claimed that the priest forged the Tia Juana letter after he had learned that Rockett was anxious about Patterson's disappearance.

SPEED DAY IN COURT BRINGS $270 IN FINES

Although 150 speeders were reported as having been arrested by Orange county state traffic officers, last Saturday and Sunday, "speeders' day" in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court showed little more than the usual activity today, the date set for their appearance.

Only 11 persons were fined in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, and but 35 were scheduled to appear, according to Morrison. Total fines collected were $270 from the 11 motorists.

That a vast majority of the motorists who were arrested were cited to appear in Justice John Landell's court at San Juan Capistrano, this afternoon, was declared by motor police today. Judge Landell holds his "speeders' court" every Friday afternoon.

Among those fined here today were Mildred M. Jordan, Long Beach, $50 for speeding, and B. D. McClure, Ventura, $50 for speeding. They were driving 49 miles an hour, according to arresting officers.

W. M. Weeks, charged with speeding, was the only Santa Ana resident in court. He was fined $15.

PISTOLS TO SHOOT LIQUOR CONCRETE

OAKLAND, March 18—Powerful "pistols" that "shoot" liquid concrete, eliminating the time-using method of pouring concrete, are being used to speed work on the Mokelumne water project, a monster tunnel which will provide Oakland with water enough to supply many times the amount of the city's population.

The "gun" is a boiler-like tank, with a big snout at one end and a compressor at the other. Attached to the spout is a movable six-inch pipe, through which the cement is forced. The tank is filled with liquid cement, driven into the tunnel. And the cement is driven between the rough walls of the tunnel and the wooden inside form, through small openings.

That the system is fast and efficient is proven by the fact that many engineers are visiting the work to study the methods in use, according to Arthur P. Davis, chief engineer.

About 105 feet of tunnel a day can be finished with the machine, working two shifts of eight hours each. One filling of cement is blown out in about five minutes.

Under this method, 1600 feet of the tunnel has been cemented and the work is progressing much more rapidly than if the old pouring methods wereused.

NOW! YOU TELL ONE!

If experience has gold in it, as discerning folks agree, then there is quite a little fortune stored up somewhere in me.

To the Voters of Santa Ana

You no doubt realize that I cannot make a personal campaign and meet you personally because of my work in the office. I am therefore taking this means of letting you know, that I am just as much interested as if I had the time to meet you all individually. I have had experience in the line of work involved in the conduct of the office which I am seeking, having been elected and served three terms as prosecuting attorney and two terms as Judge of the District Court in the Sixth Judicial District Iowa, composed of five counties; I have served as your City Recorder for two years, and if my record and experience warrant your approval, I will greatly appreciate your support at the coming election.

A WORD OF COMFORT

When we hear of a boy's "whistling to keep up his courage" we are amused. When we read St. Paul's advice to "sing and make melody in your hearts" we recognize that the writer is among those who have suffered and struggled against depression and triumphed in the fight.

Learn to give rein to the music of God's love in your heart. It will soothe your pain. It will help to restore harmony throughout your tortured being. It will heal your wounds and rouse the latent courage within you.

BAY CITY SEEKING G. O. P. CONVENTION

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—San Francisco is being looked on with added favor as the site for the 1928 convention of the Republican party, according to sources in the east.

Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco are favored by Republicans, while Detroit, Kansas City, Cleveland and St. Louis seem to be the strongest contenders for the Democratic session.

Selection of a site means more politically to Democrats than Republicans because none of the Republican factions would be helped or hurt by the choice. Many Republican factions would be helped or hurt by the choice. Many Republicans desire to go back to Cleveland because of the successful 1924 convention there. Chicago also has been considered as a "luck" site, but the accommodations there do not fit some leaders who lean toward the west as a convention site.

The Democratic problem of selection, however, is more involved. After the experience of the last convention in New York, where local influence was naturally brought to bear for selection of Gov. Al Smith, many leaders have asserted the convention should be taken to some community wher no favorite son is in the race.

Smith men would like to see Detroit selected, it is said, and are not willing to come to San Francisco because California is considered the home state of Smith's old opponent, William G. McAdoo.

Litten was born in Santa Ana and lived here until about 12 years ago, when his family moved to the northern city. He leaves several relatives here, including Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Litten, 3000 North Main street, uncle and aunt; two uncles, Fred and Billy Devenney, and an aunt, Mrs. T. S. Harlin.

LINCOLN & LEE UNIVERSITY TO OPEN IN 1928

KANSAS CITY, March 18.—On the state line between Kansas and Missouri here, Kansas City is preparing to build one of the great educational institutions of the nation.

Lincoln and Lee university, so named to honor two of the United States' greatest heroes, will memoralize the reconstruction of the republic and will serve the educational needs of one of the most populous territories of the great middle west.

Climaxing a movement started 45 years ago, the acquisition of 261 acres of land in one of the most beautiful sections of Kansas City furnished stimulus for concerted effort to build a university in Kansas City, the geographical hub of the nation.

Mrs. Kate W. Hewitt, of Kansas City, donated 146 acres for the site and the city added 115 acres by purchase. Donation of the land was immediately followed by a drive for funds on the part of several Missouri and Kansas Methodist Episcopal church districts, representatives of which will control the affairs of the institution.

$1,300,000 Now Subscribed

More than $1,300,000 already has been subscribed for the original fund of $5,000,000 with which to start construction of buildings and cemmence instruction.

It is the aim of the sponsors to offer a curriculum that will be second to no other and to provide buildings and equipment for the university as fast as increasing registration demands them.

Congress will be petitioned to erect a shrine on the campus to depict the college spirit of Lincoln and Lee. It is planned to inter the bodies of an unknown Confederate and an unknown Union soldier in the shrine. It would be made the final resting place of martyred heroes, the burial ground of civil strife between the states Lincoln and Lee aims to generate the spirit that inspired the reunion of the north and south.

Promoters of the university point to the fact that Kansas City is the meeting place of the north and south and an ideal location for a university with the spirit and purpose its founders have conceived.

Dental College Absorbed

A dental college with 400 students already has been absorbed by the university, which recently was granted a charter. One of its great departments will be the medical school, which will fill a long felt want in this territory.

A college of arts and sciences will be the foundation for the institution. When necessary buildings are constructed, departments for instruction in law, commerce, engineering, music and vocational subjects will be added. It is hoped the college of arts and sciences will open for the 1928 fall term.

Leaders of the endowment campaign are seeking $5,000,000 with which to found Lincoln and Lee. Of that amount, $2,000,000 will be expended at the outset for buildings, $2,000,000 will be set aside for endowments and $1,000,000 for maintenance.

Bishop Ernest L. Waldorf is president of the university corporation recently formed, and Bishop William F. McMurray is vice president. A board of 75 members, selected from the Methodist church districts will form the directorate. A board of 11 trustees will be vested with power of regents and will actively direct the affairs of the university.

Bed Studded By Nails Is Relic Of Inquisition

MADRID, March 18.—Relics of the Inquisition are still encountered in Spain.

During the restoration of the palace called the "Audiencia" in Granada, where the tribunal of justice has been sitting for four centuries, several instruments of torture used in the old days were found.

One of the most striking was the "caja de Pandora," which looks like a wooden bed, placed at two feet above the ground and with two wooden sides, studded with nails. Around this bed four lanterns placed on long posts threw light on the sufferings of the man or woman questioned in that position.

Notable Visitor Starves As Host Forgets Dinner

PARIS, March 18.—Minister of War Paul Painleve, several times premier and government minister of France, and one of the outstanding scientists of the world, is extremely absent minded.

His friends tell this story on Plainleve: Edouard Herriot, now minister of public instruction, expremier, who also is recognized as having one of the best minds of France, received an invitation to dinner from Plainleve. The latter, on receiving Herriot, expressed his pleasure, and the two statesmen engaged in a customary learned conversation. The talk drifted from the political situation to the Einstein theory; came nine o'clock, 10, 11. Herriot by this time was ravenous, and exploded:

"But, Monsieur le President, I thought you invited me to dinner!"

Painleve was astonished. "Why, I forgot all about dinner, and, let me see, there is nothing prepared. But, come, we will find something."

And the two statesmen went to the kitchen and prepared an improvised meal, mostly consisting of eggs, wine and bread.

MORALITY VANISHES

'CAL PET' CUTS GAS PRICE TWO CENTS ON GALLON AS OPENING GUN OF OIL COMPANY BATTLE

Motorists of Santa Ana and Orange county, as well as throughout the state, today were pricking up their ears in anticipation of lower prices on gasoline, resulting from a war among the companies inaugurated by the California Petroleum corporation.

That company today slipped the price down 2 cents a gallon, the retail price being 16 1-2 cents a gallon, as against 18 1-2 cents charged for other gasolines.

The Standard, Union, Shell and General Petroleum, as well as some of the smaller wholesale distributing concerns, were standing pat on prices that have prevailed for months past.

Local managers for the major distributing companies refused today to discuss the situation, in most instances pleading innocence of any knowledge as to what their respective companies intended to do to meet the competition of "Cal Pet."

Watch Battle Develop

Retail dealers have been sitting on the side lines for some months watching developments that presaged a bitter war by the big companies for increasing the output of their products.

It is asserted that many subterfuges have been resorted to in the keen competition, and it is a known fact here that the Union Oil company has increased its differential to permit station dealers a porofit of 6 cents a gallon. Three cents has been the differential for some time past, so far as is publicly known, although it is charged that a greater profit has been allowed secretly.

It is asserted that some of the companies have resorted to the practice of subsidizing independent dealers by paying their rent in return for contracts for exclusive use by the independent station owner of products of the subsidizing companies.

Many Stations Subsidized

According to telegraphic advices from Fresno, some 30 independent stations there have been subsidized in the last two weeks by the Standard and Shell companies, limiting them to the sale of but one brand of gasoline and curtailing their handling of lubricating oils and greases.

According to statements by independent dealers at Fresno, Texas has just gone through the same period of lease and license contracts as is now being offered independent dealers in this state. They say these contracts literally mean signing over the station to the company in exchange for a ground rent subsidy.

The telegraphic report from Fresno is to the effect that, although official confirmation was lacking, the last of the Associated Oil company's service stations there went into the hands of the employes of the company last Saturday, to be operated by the employes on a basis of ownership by them, ground rent being paid by the company, which controls what gas he may sell.

Profanity Curse Of Home, She Says

Profanity was the curse of the Edward Worden home—and that was not merely a pun—according to the divorce complaint of Mrs. Ada Madge Worden, just filed in superior court.

Her husband, Mrs. Worden charges, swore at her, at their three children, at the household bills—at everything and nothing. He told her, she said, that the children were millstones about his neck, and once he told her to take them and get out, she alleged.

The Wordens lived in Santa Ana, where they separated a fortnight ago. They were married in 1913, at Calgary, Canada, where they own 360 acres of land, according to the wife. She seeks an unstated amount of alimony and custody of the three children. Also, she asks for a restraining order to prevent her husband from molesting her or the children, charging that since the separation he had continually annoyed and harassed her.

MAYOR WALKER WILL NOT SEEK OFFICE AGAIN

NEW YORK, March 18.—Over this story one might just slap the caption—"The Man Who Is Afraid He Will Forget How to Play," and let it go at that.

The reference is to a quick-witted imaginative and altogether pleasing gentleman just turned 45. He has all the appearances of the early thirties. His hair is black, thick, unruly. His eyes are dark, restless. He has the build of a cabaret dancer. He dresses like a vaudeville hoofer, smokes cigarets continuously, knows the head waiter in every night club, talks in flippant nifties and grins daily at you from all the newspapers—Jimmy Walker, the jazz age, cavalier mayor of America's metropolis. Hey! Hey!

He startled Tammany and his host of followers by announcing his retirement at the end of his current and exceedingly popular term.

"Because I am afraid," he answers the questioning interviewer, speaking very earnestly and leaving for once his customary smart patter on the shelf—"afraid it will get me.

"There are square pegs and round holes. There are ponderous types who take their responsibilities lightly. There are others who sink deep, dragged by the ball and chain of duty. Candles burn at both ends, and this work is very gruelling."

Such a philosopher is this shrewd, sardonically humorous, wise-cracking young man! He takes in the races at Louisville, Saratoga, Havana, Miami. He goes to the fight at Philadelphia. He is a loyal first nighter on Broadway. He gladhands queens and channel swimmers. But he is determined to work at being mayor of New York.

"Being a competent mayor of a city that spends $1,000,000 each day and whose organization is exceeded only by the federal government is unbelievably exacting," Walker said. "I have worked long and hard, because I knew if I neglected anything the cry of 'Play-Boy' would be raised. It is raised anyhow.

"New Yorkers are the kindest people in the world. They let me deliver a speech on any subject, do anything and they try to convince me they like it. I feel now I want to shake everybody's hand and tell one and all confidentially I do not consider myself half so much a show as they seem to think."

Jimmy Walker nearly died in the harness.

During the first months of his office, he accepted every invitation. He spoke at two or three dinners a night, granted audiences to a hundred committees, galloped from function to function: result—a bad collapse. Obituaries were written in newspaper offices and rushed into type. Jimmy came out of it weak, wan and chastened.

He cannot give up his gay ways and he cannot betray the trust that hangs on his slender shoulders. He works late and plays still later. Dawn may find him stepping out of a party and into the city hall for a day's schedule.

And still he's clever, brilliant, conscientious—even his enemies will admit that. His daily work consists of swift, definite, solid accomplishments. He surrounds himself with experts. He gets results—then goes out to play. The pace is too swift. He has to choose between martyrdom of either the pagan or the political spirit.

Jimmy once made a never-to-be-forgotten dramatic speech defending his party, his friends and himself: "They are all decent, God fearing men and women," he burst out impulsively, tears in his eyes. "Nearly all the humane measures which have been passed in recent years came from them. I am striving to make this the decentest, the most wholesome as well as the best governed city in the world."

Won't Give Up

Jimmy found the going hard but he sticks by faithfully.

"I meant every word of that. But I would rather laugh than cry," he said, raising his right eyebrow in that distinctive manner of his. "I like the company of my fellow beings."

And so if you do not see this brilliant young man in the public prints after his term of office is over, you'll know why.

He is the man who is afraid he will forget how to play.

PASTOR IN LONG BEACH IS FREED

LONG BEACH, March 18.—Rev. Adolph H. Englehart, pastor of the First Christian Church of Divine Healing, was free today and the cause of his recent confinement in the city jail, A. B. Crowley, was reported to have left here for Porterville.

Englehart was held for investigation following charges made by the Porterville man that the pastor had held Mrs. Crowley under a hypnotic spell, after she became his secretary.

Crowley, who was held after an asserted attempt to commit suicide, was released with Englehart. The latter was reported to have left at once for the north, leaving his estranged wife here.

Police announced, following an investigation of 36 hours, that they had been unable to recover any evidence to substantiate the charges.

Suit On Mortgage

Suit has been filed in superior court by the First National bank, of Santa Ana, against Louise G. Myers and others, to foreclose a $15,500 mortgage against ranch property at Orange. Judgment for the amount of the mortgage, together with $2000 as attorney fees, $35 for title search and costs of the suit, was asked. Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus represent the bank.

ECZEMA LASTED FOUR YEARS
Itching and Burning Severe. Cuticura Heals.

"My eczema started with an irritation and when I scratched the parts they would get red, and in a short time pimples would break out. After a few days the pimples would fester and I would open them. Pegasus Club Members Conspire to Honor Young Matrons While yesterday's meeting of the Pegasus club with Mrs. Ray Brown in her home at 519 East Pine street, seemed to promise the usual program of original poems and stories, yet the most of the members knew that certain plans were afoot, and by the end of the afternoon, Mrs. Clarence Bond an Mrs. Bruce Switzler learned that they were the objects of their friends' friendly generosity.

For the two young matrons were complimented by a surprise shower which followed the program directed by Mrs. Caleb Jackson. Mrs. Jackson had assigned "Beauty" as the theme for contributions and the results seemed to exemplify the theme in excellent manner.

Mrs. W. E. Foote opened the formal session with a narrative poem on "His Beauty" and was followed by Mrs. Brown who departed from the general theme by reading the article prepared for a former afternoon on "Memory." Her contribution was an appreciation of the teachers of her childhood days. Mrs. Earl Morris gave a description of the waving blossoms of the San Jose valley prune orchards in "Blossom Day."

Two members chose the story form, Mrs. Bruce Switzler in a clever tale titled "In Search of Beauty," and Mrs. George Bond who developed an interesting story from "Pass It On." Mrs. Clarence Bond held the close attention of her hearers with a paper on "The City Beautiful," and Mrs. Fanny Lash read a short poem on "The Rose in My Back Yard." Like a fragrant memory of the past, was the poem, "We Were Together," read by Mrs. Frank Lansdown, and written many years ago by her father, to her mother.

A sketch, "Beauty," by Mrs. Charles Bond, was followed by a piano solo, "Romance" by Gliere, played by Mrs. Switzler, and the musical interlude continued with two pretty lullabies, "Cradle Song" and "Hush My Baby," sung by Mrs. Jackson to her own accompaniment.

The appropriateness of the songs was established when Mrs. Brown's two small daughters, Winifred and Jeannette, one in pale blue frock with blue hair ribbons, the other in pink with pink bows, entered, each bearing a basket decked in the pretty colors.

One basket was placed before Mrs. Switzler, and the other before Mrs. Clarence Bond. The contents were the daintiest things imaginable, with enough amusing gifts added to keep everyone laughing. The pink and blue motif appropriate to the occasion, was apparent later at the tea hour, when Mrs. Brown served refreshments. The trays served Mrs. Bond and Mrs. Switzler, were each presided over by a stately stork.

Asked to join the Pegasus members for the pleasant afternoon, were Mrs. M. J. Switzler, Mrs. Perry Ballard, Mrs. Richard Cribaro, Mrs. Pearl Smalley, Mrs. LeRoy Hall, Mrs. R. D. Garner, Miss Helen Gallagher and Mrs. Frank Was.

MAN ENROLLS AT COLLEGE 17 TIMES

HOOD RIVER, Ore., March 18.—If good things come hard, then the education being won by Alexander B. Brooke, local rancher, should be worth several gold mines.

Brooks has filed his enrollment card at the College of Puget Sound, at Tacoma, for the 17th time. He is preparing for a bachelor of arts degree, and all the time he can spare from his ranch is a month or two each year.

Hard labor in tending to his orchard is his lot for 10 months, but in spring time, when nature is taking her course with growing things, Brooke becomes a "collegiate." His ranch is next to Billy Sunday's, and his annual absence does no harm, judging from its well kept appearance.

On the campus, Brooke is known as "Dad." He belongs to a fraternity and takes part in al lstudent activities, never missing a dance.

He entered school in 1907 and has returned for a short time each year since then. He "calculates" to graduate before many more years.

Jaqua Will Head Scripps College

CLAREMONT, March 18.—The Scripps College for Women, which opens here in September with a freshman class of 50, will have as its first president Dr. Ernest James Jaqua, for four years dean of the faculty at Pomona college. The appointment and subsequent acceptance of Dr. Jaqua was announced yesterday, following action of the Scripps college board of trustees, at which time Dr. Jaqua's resignation as dean of the Pomona college faculty was accepted.

Much Interest In School Election

INGLEWOOD, March 18.—Inglewood's grammar school board election today indicated new interest as a result of the city charter increasing the numbers from three to five. Polling through the morning hours, while light, indicated that a representative poll of more than 6000 registered voters would be cast before night.

THREE NOTED ARTISTS ON P.-T. A. CONCERT COURSE

The second event of the Parent-Teachers Artist Concert course, will take place a week from tonight (Friday, March 25) when Eleanor Woodford, dramatic soprano, Vera Barstow, eminent violinist, and Clarence Gustlin, nationally known pianist, will present a pleasing varied program at the high school auditorium.

Each of these artists has won enthusiastic praise of critics in practically all parts of the United States. The Los Angeles Herald recently referred to Eleanor Woodford as "A very intelligent artist with a really lovely voice. Her extremely refined and attractive appearance and her familiarity with her material, combined with a remarkable talent for interpretation, instantly won her large audience."

The New York American classifies Miss Barstow as "unquestionably one of the most talented woman violinists now appearing before the public." She is declared by those acquainted with her, to have charm of personality as well as rare artistic ability, and no lover of the violin should miss her Santa Ana appearance.

Mr. Gustlin, who is a Santa Ana resident, although he has been spending the past three or four seasons on tour, has won the highest praise of critics in the principal musical centers in thirty-five states. He will present two contrasting piano groups and will be heard in solo numbers only, excepting for the finale when he will join the other two artists.

The artists will also present a shorter program for the school students of the city as a part of the regular afternoon series. The special aim of the Parent-Teachers in promoting these artist concerts, is to acquaint younger listeners with the best in music. This worthy undertaking can succeed only by the patronage of the public of the evening series. The concerts are offered at most moderate prices.

Clarence Gustlin, nationally known pianist of whom Santa Anans are proud, and who will be one of the three artists on the second number of the P.-T. A. concert course, Friday night, March 25, in the high school auditorium.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Presbyterian Aid

The meeting of the First Presbyterian Aid society was held Wednesday afternoon and opened with a piano solo, "The Witches' Dance" by Paganini, rendered by Mrs. Harold Pollock.

The devotionals were led by Mrs. J. H. Nicholson who chose as her subject, "Rest and Peace." Fredda Moesser Barger then sang a solo group, "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "Mavourneen," playing her own accompaniments. Little Miss Ruth May Rimel of the Christian church, gave two readings, "Why" and "The Menagerie Diet," which closed a very enjoyable program.

Annual election was held and Mrs. Clyde Bach was returned to the presidency. With her will be Mrs. Harold Pollock, first vice president; Mrs. R. J. Goodwin, second vice president; Miss Louise Brokaw, secretary; Mrs. Cynthia Davis, treasurer; Mrs. C. H. Baird, Mrs. W. W. Anderson, Mrs. E. B. Smith and Mrs. F. E. Dearth, board members.

Woman's Union

A large group of women gathered at the hospitable home of Mrs. W. B. Tedford Wednesday afternoon to listen to the program presented by the missionary department of the Woman's Union of the Congregational church. Mrs. C. F. Crose opened the meeting with a devotional service on the subject of prayer, speaking of the lack and the necessity of prayer and what might be accomplished through its use in the modern life. She finished the devotional service with a sketch of the life of Miss Edith Parsons of Brousa, Turkey.

Mrs. E. M. Blake, department president, then introduced Mrs. Green of Portland, Ore., who gave a most interesting talk upon Pleasant Hill academy, Tennessee, a Congregational church school. Mrs. Green was a native of Pleasant Hill and one of the youngest pipils when the work of the academy was first organized. Its growth and the influence of the pupils as they have gone out from the school, show how great a work it has accomplished and how worth-while it has been.

Mrs. F. C. Rowland then reviewed the third chapter of "The Moslem Faces the Future." This deals with a question that is puzzling the Christian world of today and Mrs. Rowland vividly brought before her hearers the importance as well as the difficulties attending its solution.

A message of love and congratulation was sent with flowers to Mrs. M. M. Crookshank in remembrance of her birthday, March 16. After the business meeting which followed, refreshments emblematic of St. Patrick's day were served.

Foreign Missionary

The W. F. M. S. of the First M. E. church, went to the home of Mrs. Horace White, of Tustin, Wednesday afternoon for its regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Charles F. Seitter gave the devotions. During the business part of the meeting, two new members were taken into the society. Many things of importance to the work were discussed.

Mrs. McGarraugh reviewed the chapter from the study book, "Moslem Women," which was so very interesting to all present. Mrs. Steward, a returned missionary from Nanking, China, talked on her work and answered questions about the same.

There were 45 members present. The auxiliary is looking forward to April 13, when the quarterly meeting of the Pacific branch will meet in the First M. E. church of Santa Ana. All members are asked to keep that date in mind.

Hostesses Plan Party For St. Patrick Day

Five hundred was the chosen diversion of a friendly group of guests who assembled last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Morris, 925 Fairview avenue, upon invitation of Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Oliver West.

The hostesses made it a typical St. Patrick party using green in all their decorations and appointments. Shamrock score cards were distributed, and when they were collected at the close of the series of games, Mrs. Ben Keeler and Jay Brooks were high. Mrs. Keeler was presented a pretty green crystal sandwich plate while a green smoking set rewarded Mr. Brooks. Consolation gift of a vase (also in green) was given Miss Betty Mann and an amusing green serpent consoled Ben Keeler.

In serving refreshments. Mrs. Morris and Mrs. West made the card tables very attractive with pretty linens, centering each table with a graceful basket of green candles. Sandwiches, coffee, ice cream garnished with green pineapple cubes, and angelfood cake were served.

Enjoying the evening with Mr. and Mrs. West and Mr. and Mrs. Morris, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowen of Whittier, Mr. and Mrs J. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Clem, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brooks, Miss Betty Mann and Joe Allen.

St. Patrick Luncheon Is Pretty Event in Conover Home

"Th' top o' the marin' to you" was aptly expressed by Mrs. Fred Conover yesterday when she welcomed a group of friends consisting mainly of members of the Quill Pen club, to her Mountain View avenue home in Tustin, for an enjoyable St. Patrick luncheon.

The gardens in which Mr. Conover takes so much pride, yielded the loveliest of spring flowers to deck every room of the home, but in the dining-room, everything was in green, with shamrock doilies laid on the beautiful damask cloth of the dining-table. An impudent little Irishman surveyed the scene from his post of vantage in the midst of a large pot of shamrocks in the center of the table flanked by tall green tapers, and paper shamrocks outlined each place.

Original place cards in which each guest traced her name by illustrations, were used, and the menu featured green in every possible manner.

Amusing contests were introduced, one of word building, one of impromptu verse or story writing with "Pat" as the theme, and one of guessing book titles from displayed and numbered pictures. Mrs. Marshall Harnois as winner of one, received a copy of Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Tish" and an exquisite little water color rewarded Mrs. J. F. Adams for her skill in another.

One of the pleasantest features of the afternoon was when Mrs. Conover read the eloquent description of scenes and happenings of an interesting three-months' trip back through Salt Lake City to Duluth and thence into Canada to Seattle and down the coast home. Another enjoyable interval came when guests were allowed to roam through the pretty garden and visit the little greenhouse where Mr. Conover spends many happy hours.

Enjoying the varied features of the day, were Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. J. U. View, Mrs. Frank J. Was, Mrs. Eleanor Elliott, Mrs. E. E. Boething, Mrs. Harry M. Smith, Mrs. Blanche Brown, Mrs. Marshall Harnois, Mrs. E. A. Noe, and the hostess, Mrs. Conover.

Gift Shower Planned For Recent Bride

When Mrs. Alvin Rohrs (Ida Bowe) joined her friends of the Fa-Ho-Lo class of the First Baptist Sunday school in the home of Mrs. Minnie Holmes, 309 East Seventeenth street, for an evening party, she was unaware that it was to be a gift shower with her as honoree. But Miss Mildred Holmes and Miss Vera Coad had planned the special feature, in which over 30 class members joined, to compliment the recent bride.

Peach blossoms were used in decorative effect, combined with many green St. Patrick emblems. St. Patrick games were introduced as entertainment. One of the most interesting features was the informal talk given by Miss Jennie Lasby in which she described an engagement and wedding which she saw while in Germany last summer.

This paved the way for the next feature, when a knock at the door was followed by the entry of Miss Coad in raincoat, rubber boots and carrying a big umbrella over a basket of packages. She declared that she had been instructed to deliver the basket, "rain or shine," and presented it to Mrs. Rohrs.

Its contents were articles for the bride's kitchen and dining-room and were both useful and lovely. When she had examined and enjoyed the last gift, Mrs. Holmes and Miss Lasby created much amusement by waving a rainbow scarf, and asserting that the shower was over.

At the refreshment hour, the hostesses passed attractively arranged trays with delectable little toasted rolls, a molded green salad and coffee as their inviting burden.

Mrs. Rohrs has continued her membership with the Fa-Ho-Lo class (the former Junior Philatheas) although she is a teacher in the primary department of the Sunday school. Mrs. John P. Williams is class teacher and Miss Naomi Keller is president.

Friends Find Hostess Off Her Guard on Birthday

Because Wednesday was Mrs. Joe Plank's birthday, her friends thought it a fitting time to celebrate with a party, and made very careful plans so that their arrival that evening at the pleasant Plank home at 1907 Valencia street, should come as a complete surprise to that young matron.

Every plan was most successful, and the evening was a highly enjoyable one to hosts and guests alike. Bridge was played, and special scores were rewarded with gifts which yielded much entertainment as they were unwrapped. The gift giving extended to the hostess, who was presented with pretty birthday remembrances.

Nor were refreshments forgotten, and such appetizing items as chicken salad, sandwiches and home-made cake figured on the supper menu planned by the guests. It chanced to be the birthday of Robert Collins, as well, who came in for his share of the good wishes expressed.

Mrs. Charles Nussbaumer and Mrs. Roland McCalla were the ones to whom the management of the surprise was left, and were complimented upon the success of their planning.

Enjoying the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Plank, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, Dr. and Mrs. Dale Brockett, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Struble, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Foltz, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schaniel, Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Beaty, Mr. and Mrs. L. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. H. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Nussbaumer, Mr. and Mrs. McCalla and Messrs. Franklin Grouard, Robert Collins and Herman Zabel.

Special Session for P.-T. A. Members

With a situation arising which requires immediate action, Mrs. W. W. Hoy, vice president of the City Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, today issued a call for a special meeting of the organization to be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock in room 6, of Frances Willard junior high school. Without revealing the nature of the matter requiring such immediate attention, Mrs. Hoy said it was of such importance as to claim the attention of every member of the organization, and urged attendance by as large a number as possible.

It is estimated that there are 40,000 users of wireless sets in the Irish Free state, but only about 5000 persons have complied with the law by taking out licenses.

BRILLIANT COLORS FOR MEN STYLISH

LONDON, March 18. — Well-dressed Londoners this spring will look like perambulating vegetables

According to James Weddell president of the National Federation of Merchant Tailors, the following colors for men's clothes will be all the rage:

Tomato red.

Pumpkin yellow.

Raisin purple.

Or if tastes run toward the wood-patch more than the vegetable garden, one may choose "cherry wood" or "mountain ash" as one's favorite. For people of a light and airy disposition there is the new color "Alpine blue" to suit their fancy.

"But," warns Anthony Bradley, one of London's leading tailors, "it must be remembered that ordinary commonplace men cannot wear these bright colors. One should have a good presence, and a large amount of confidence to wear with the proper effect, a suit say of tomato red or pumpkin yellow."

The design of the new fabrics is the result of a "brighter men's wear" movement that has been urging its cause to tailors and to the general public for a number of months.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Ten million dollars—pooh, pooh!

There are men who could say that, but there is probably only one would say it and mean it.

The exception is the Hon. James Couzens, senator from Michigan, and he said it in the face of a government tax suit, which is actually likely to take more than 10 millions away from him.

When the government's $40,000,000 suit against former minority Ford stockholders began in Detroit, the defendant Couzens was conspicuously absent. Each day he was to be seen on the floor of the senate and his genial grin was as frequent as ever.

"That's what I hire lawyers for," he replied when someone asked him why he didn't go out to his home town and take more interest in the attempt to take this big slice out of his fortune.

After weary weeks in Detroit, the trial before the tax board of appeals came here. Surely, his colleagues thought, the senator would spend some time now that the proceedings were brought to his very feet.

They didn't know Couzens. He stopped in twice on his way to the senate, but only to greet friends of the old days when the Ford Motor company, of which he was then manager, was just an industrial infant. He never bothered once to sit in on the testimony or to hear his lawyers do their stuff in behalf of those ten millions—plus heavy interest.

The Couzens wealth is estimated all the way from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

When the huge tax suit was brought against him and his co-defendants—not on the grounds that they had cheated the government but on the allegation that the government had bungled its valuation—he said the amount of money didn't interest him at all. He had undertaken to expose crookedness in the internal revenue bureau, however, and he did admit considerable interest in the principle of the thing.

He allowed his friends to make the charge that this was Secretary Mellon's way of hitting back at him. But he himself has refused to comment for purposes of publication. His attitude is that the government has grabbed a wild bear by the tail and—

He was a hard-boiled executive as Detroit's millionaire police commissioner. The beauty of his position has been that, with all his money, he has never had to truckle to anybody. He made numerous enemies in Detroit when he insisted on enforcing the law regardless of whom it hit.

Couzens achieved national prominence as mayor of Detroit when he bought the street railway there for the city. The street cars had always been an issue and when Couzens ran for the mayoralty he promised to clean up the situation. The traction owners offered to sell at a stiff price and Couzens laughed at them. They laughed at him, too, but when their franchise was up, the city's workers began at midnight to tear up the tracks preparatory to laying down tracks for the city.

The owners, bluff called, hastened to Couzens and fixed on what Couzens regarded as a fair price. The street railway is now clearing up all its indebtedness and operating at a low fare. Its admitted success is largely due to the saving Couzens made for the city with his hard-boiled tactics.

Walrus Catch In Caspian Sea Big

ODESSA, March 18.—Reports from the Caspian sea, which is a land-locked salt water ocean, indicate that there never has been so many walruses there as there are this season. Fishermen and hunters are busily engaged in catching them for the value of their hides and fats.

POPULATION OF BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 18.—The present population of Brazil is estimated at 37,350,000, basing the approximation on the figures of the 1920 census. The population of the federal district, which includes the city of Rio de Janeiro, is now calculated at 1,650,000.

DAIRYMAN PLACES RADIO IN BARNS

MODESTO, Calif., March 18 — "How you gonna' keep 'em down on the farm?"

"Just wait 'till the cows come home."

John Galliazzi, Modesto dairyman, has solved the problem of how to keep the hired help. And in solving it, he has stumbled across a means of getting Bossie Bovine to give her milk more freely, and at the same time without kicking the milk bucket over with a wayward hoof.

Galliazzi has "radioized" his dairy. A plug-in has been hooked up in his barn and when it comes milking time on goes the radio. He maintains the music, whether it be a Wagner sonata by a symphony, an aggravating blues number by a jazz band, affects a cow's milk, giving capacity and it also keeps the hired hands in good humor.

The help milks to the time of the music. The cows, Galliazzi asserts, are equally appreciative of grand opera and jazz.

The wildest syncopation of jazz, however, holds no dance lure for Bossie. On the contrary it is soothing to her temperament, and she peaceably submits to the milking operation to the strains of radio music.

FEW HAVE FAITH IN CURE BY MADSTONE

LEITCHFIELD, Ky., March 18 —One of the few madstones in the United States is owned by a citizen here and is said to have served many persons during the numerous generations it has been in the family's keeping.

Modern schools of medicine have never placed faith in the madstone as a cure or preventive of hydrophobia, but its alleged powers still are believed in by several Grayson county residents.

It is supposed to have the property of absorbing poison from any wound. The stone adheres to the wound, the belief is, until the impurities are absorbed, and then drops off.

The famous madstone mentioned by Scott in "The Talisman" is in possession of a Virginia family and is closely guarded. It was brought from Scotland in 1776.

STRIFE LOOMS OVER SALE OF TEA AND TIFFIN

Trouble between owners of the Tea and Tiffin cafe at Laguna Beach and Fred A. Leach, Laguna Beach real estate operator and Cecil V. Irish, wealthy Los Angeles man, loomed today over the reported sale of the Tea and Tiffin cafe.

Leach, in a statement today, is alleged to have reported the sale of the Tea and Tiffin cafe to Cecil V. Irish, for a consideration of $55,000. The cafe is one of the best known on the coast. Leach claims to have placed the deal in escrow, with the assistance of N. Elliot West, manager of the Yoch company at Laguna Beach.

Miss Alice Parker and G. R. Parker, of Laguna Beach, owners of the Tea and Tiffin, today denied, through their attorney, M. B. Wellington, that the property had been sold.

The price said to have been involved in the reported transaction was at the rate of $550 a front foot. The property has a 100-foot frontage on the Coast highway.

Miss Parker is well known in Santa Ana. She formerly was employed at the First National bank. She founded the Tea and Tiffin cafe several years ago and, with her brother, operated it for some time. Recently it has been leased to Mrs. Mabel Dabney Salter.

Reports today were to the effect that Leach and Irish will make efforts to make the deal valid. Miss Parker and her brother are reported to have placed the matter in the hands of their attorney.

BREAK GROUND FOR SCHOOL AT SAN CLEMENTE

Ground was broken today for the new school building to be erected at San Clemente, according to advices received by R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools. The plans, as approved by the county school authorities, call for a Spanish type modern school building, containing four standard classrooms and one auditorium.

The building, located on a site, 260 by 360 feet, will face the plaza of the Spanish village, and will be surrounded by trees and shrubbery. Space at the rear of the building will be used for a playground.

Upon completion of the structure, both the lot and the building will be deeded to the county for school purposes. The building itself, it was learned, involves an outlay of about $32,000.

Contract for the construction has been awarded to E. D. Bartlett, of San Clemente, and it is expected the building will be ready for the opening of schools next September.

S. A. KIWANIANS LA HABRA GUESTS

Telling of the idealism and brotherhood of the Kiwanians, the Rev. Charles F. Seitter, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, spoke yesterday at the Kiwanis luncheon in La Habra, when members of the Santa Ana organization put on the program. The Rev. Mr. Seitter also gave an interesting discussion dealing with individual characteristics of the literature of different nations.

Lloyd Roach aided in making the program a success through his presentation of a number of Irish songs. Robert Speed directed several stunts, the purpose of which was to collect fines from the members.

The program was one of four which will be put on this year by Santa Ana Kiwanians when they visit the Kiwanis clubs in other cities in the county. The purpose for these visits is to create a greater feeling of friendliness between not only the clubs, but the cities represented.

FRENCH PREMIER HAS GOOD MEMORY

PARIS, March 18—Premier Raymond Poincare has a "photographic mind."

This remarkable gift, which is extremely rare, enables the French premier, after he has written a document, letter, etc., to repeat the text word for word from memory, without misplacing even a single word. The length of the text makes no difference.

Poincare gave a vivid example of this recently in connection with his appearance before the chamber of finance commission with regard to France's financial situation. Poincare gave out in advance to the press a long, written statement of what he would tell the commission. The stenographic record of what Poincare told the commission, speaking extemporaneously, with no notes or paper before him, accorded exactly with every word of the statement given out previously at the ministry of finance.

Child Found Who Likes Queen's Hats

LONDON, March 18.—Whatever the world's gentlemen or their blonde friends may prefer, there is at least one person who likes Queen Mary's hats.

This person is "Nancy," a patient at the London hospital in the poor Whitechapel district. King George and Queen Mary recently spent an afternoon among the children in the hospital. During the tour, the queen stopped at Nancy's cot. She bent over and patted Nancy on the back, but Nancy was not perturbed by the royal presence.

"Ah," the queen responded," "I've left it at home."

"Don't you think I am wearing a much nicer crown?" she added, smilingly, refered to her feather-trimmed hat.

SECOND EFFORT MADE TO LOOT HOME OF GEMS

Orange county police officers are today investigating the second attempt made during the last week to rob the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Haley, of Green street, Los Alamitos.

Four bandits are alleged to have attempted to enter the Haley home night before last by cutting a screen. Fourteen shots are reported to have been exchanged between the bandits and Ray Serrano, brother of Mrs. Haley.

One of the bandits was said to have been hit by a bullet. A pool of blood was found near the window through which the thieves were trying to gain entrance to the house, according to reports.

The bandits were thought to have been seeking several thousand dollars worth of diamonds owned by the Haley family. An attempt was made Monday night of this week to secure the diamonds, according to Serrano. Bandits are reported to have held up Mr. and Mrs. Haley, Ray Serrano and E. J. Serrano, Monday night, stolen $75 and beaten Ray Serrano unconscious.

BOARD WINDING UP SCHOOL BUSINESS

With less than a month to complete its four-year term, the present city board of education is taking steps to clean up all unfinished business, thus leaving a clean slate for the incoming board, it was declared today. The greater portion of unfinished business will be disposed of at the regular meeting set for next Tuesday evening, March 22, and what may be left will be taken care of at the last meeting of the present board, scheduled for April 12.

To the new board, which takes offices next month, falls the work of preparing and passing upon the budget for the school year of 1927-28.

Dr. Roy S. Horton, member of the present board, is the only one to seek re-election. Three trustees, Alex Brownridge, president; Ed T. McFadden and Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, have indicated their willingness to retire from the board. While there is some doubt regarding Charles F. Smith, he has not as yet taken out his nomination papers.

1600 AT DANCE SPONSORED BY PEACE OFFICERS

Approximately 1600 persons attended the annual dance of the Orange County Peace Officers' association, held at Seal Beach, last night.

More than 400 tickets were sold at the door, and, according to officers who were in charge, the dance was the most successful ever staged by the association. The amount of profit made for the association is not known at this time, as reports on sales of tickets have not all been received, F. G. Yoder, a member of the committee, said.

The Black and Tan orchestra, of Huntington Beach, furnished music for the dance, donating the services to the association. Dancing continued until 2 a. m., today, officials of Seal Beach granting the officers a special dispensation by allowing them to dance two hours after the regular closing time for dances in the beach city.

"The striking feature of the dance was the conspicuous absence of sheiks," a member of the committee said today. "Every year we are worried by hundreds of slick-haired sheiks at the officers' dances, but this year the crowd was more mature."

TRAINS TIBETAN APE

MOSCOW, March 18.—Col. Peter Kozloff, explorer, is back from Tibet with a story of training a hideous ape of extraordinary intelligense so well that he became a member of the expedition. Simians outnumber men in the country. The explorer found a sacred island, the sole inhabitants of which were Buddhist monks with large, hairy bodies and enormous shaggy heads. They ran in terror when the Russians approached.

OIL DISCOVERY BRINGS RICHES TO NEGRO BOYS

CHICAGO, March 18.—The second-rate soil of a small Arkansas farm has turned to gold for two small colored boys who until a few weeks ago lived unobtrusively in the Chicago negro district.

Oil wells on their mother's farm, which they inherited when she died three years ago in Cameron, Ark., are producing an income of $12,000 a month each for Arthur and John Sewell, 8 and 10 years old ,respectively.

Arthur Sewell, father of the young millionaires, came to Chicago after their mother's death and later married again. He worked in a factory. Debts accumulated faster than he could meet them.

As a result, he negotiated a loan of $400 on the Cameron farm. The mortgage came due and he had nothing with which to pay it. The "gold mine" almost slipped away for want of a sum which the wells are now producing in a few hours.

Sewell was able to borrow enough to save his boys' property from the firm for which he worked, however. The discovery of oil and sudden wealth followed.

The father of the lucky youths has decided they will not be "spoiled" by their money.

"I won't permit them to 'live it up' if I can help it," he said. "They will have the finest education the world has to offer, but they will have to learn to work ad appreciate their money.

"I've thought a lot about sending them to Africa when they grow up. I think intelligent colored men could do a lot of good there for themselves and other members of the race."

Sewell has made no effort to establish title to a portion of the farm on his own account.

"It belongs to the kids," he explained, "and I won't take any of it by going into court about it."

Legion Post to Seek New Place For Home Site

ORANGE, March 18.—When Carl Jorn, owner of the lot at West Amond avenue and Lemon street which the local post of the American Legion was planning to purchase for their new home, raised the price, the committee, in charge of Paul Muench, abandoned plans to purchase the lot and located another lot on West Chapman which it believes can be purchased for less money, it was reported at the semi-monthly meeting of the post last night.

The new location is situated near Citrus street on West Chapman, it was reported, and can be purchased for less than $2000.

Following the discussion of the location change, the post members voted to stage an intensive campaign for new members during the next two weeks. Claude Potter and Oscar Dennis, leaders of the two membership teams, will have their teams working overtime to sign up the full quota of 200 members, it was reported. The post now boasts 120 members according to Max Boethin, secretary.

That an untenanted plot of land near the Santiago Orange Growers' association plant can be obtained for the summer indoor baseball games was the report of Claude Potter, committee chairman. The high school field will be unavailable for the league games, it was reported, because it is to be sown to turf during the summer season.

Co-eds Complain Of Date Shortage

LINCOLN, Neb., March 18.—Co-eds of the University of Nebraska complain of a shortage of "dates" this year.

Not that eligible young men are scarce. On the other hand, they outnumber the co-eds.

A survey of the fraternities disclosed that many men students have found that "dating" the co-eds is too expensive. Most fraternities are urging their members to refrain from too many "dates" during the week in order to bolster scholarship averages.

DIRECT FACTORY BRANCH OF RUDOLPH WURLITZER CO. TO OPEN DOORS HERE SATURDAY

Santa Ana adds another nationally famous name to its great list of business houses with the opening of the Wurlitzer Music store at 420 West Fourth street tomorrow, Saturday, March 19. The Rudolph Wurlitzer company with headquarters in Cincinnati, Ohio, and stores in all important cities, has selected Santa Ana for its preferred list of cities in which to locate a direct factory branch.

For some time contractors have been busily engaged in remodeling the building at 420 West Fourth, according to Wurlitzer specifications and the result is said to be one of the most modern and up-to-date musical instrument establishments in Southern California A long lease has been signed on the premises according to Thomas Cave, local manager

One of the features of the opening which is expected to draw a record crowd from Santa Ana and surrounding territory will be the presence of pretty Sally Phipps, Wampus Baby star of 1927. Miss Phipps will officiate as hostess during the evening from 8 until 10 p. m. and will present each visitor with a miniature Wurlitzer piano with the compliments of the company.

Among the opening features will be a dazzling display of lights which will be sent to Santa Ana from Hollywood's film studios.

The new Santa Ana Wurlitzer store will carry a complete stock of the many musical instrument lines manufactured and featured by the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, including pianos, victrolas, radios, band and orchestra instruments, harps, radio accessories,

To Show Violins

Among the many interesting features of the stock will be a representative showing of original violin masterpieces from the Wurlitzer New York collection which is conceded by authorities to be the finest in the world.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company through its vast chain of music stores is credited with being one of the greatest factors in selling the public the convenience of credit buying. The greatest percentage of its business is done on a convenient weekly or monthly payment plan.

An interesting feature of the Wurlitzer business is the fact that the financing of all time-payments is done by Wurlitzer instead of discounting the "paper" to bankers or brokers. Wurlitzer officials point out that this effects a saving to the purchaser and insures a continued interest by the firm in keeping the customer satisfied and happy.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Company is celebrating its 70th anniversary in America, the firm having been founded by the late Rudolph Wurlitzer in Cincinnati in 1856. The Wurlitzer family has been closely associated with the making of musical instruments for over 200 years and is in control of the business.

Financial authorities credit the Wurlitzer company with the highest rating in the music industry with over $27,000,000 in resources. In addition to a great chain of retail stores the firm manufactures all types of pianos, organs, radios and band and orchestra instruments. Notable among the Wurlitzer factories are the great plants at North Tonawanda, N. Y., and De Kalb, Ill.

According to Mr. I. H. Lyons, a member of the national board of directors and general manager of the southwest division of the company, the expansion program of the company now under way calls for a total of about 50 branch stores in Southern California. There are now 34 stores in this territory.

Cave in Charge

Thomas Cave, a music store executive of national experience has taken charge of the local Wurlitzer business and points out that the entire staff of Wurlitzer employes will be Santa Ana residents. He also says that the local store will be operated on the same plan as the largest branches of the company. The same prices and terms will prevail in Santa Ana as at the eastern factory points.

Mr. Cave in speaking of the new store said: "Few Southern California communities will poast a finer music store than Wurlitzer opens in Santa Ana tomorrow. Our stock will be representative of the most complete line of instruments sold under one trade name in the entire world.

"We will aim to carry at all times such a complete stock that no music lover will find any advantage in going to Los Angeles or elsewhere for selections. In fact I know of no instrument made that cannot be obtained directly or through our Santa Ana store.

"The store itself is the result of months of planning and building toward one ideal—a music store as perfect in lay-out and equipment as money and skill can produce. Our radio and phonograph demonstration rooms are the very last word in soundproof construction. Fixtures have been planned with a thought to the utmost in efficiency as well as simple beauty.

"In addition to selling the finest instruments that 200 years' experience and almost unlimited financial resources can build we are very anxious to cultivate the friendship of professional musicians and teachers in Santa Ana. We hope that they will look upon this store as musical headquarters and make use of the many wonderful facilities our modern store affords."

Snell, Wagner to Clash at Stadium

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Doc Snell, Tacoma druggist, makes his bow as a lightweight tonight at Hollywood stadium when he meets Eddie ("Kid") Wagner in the 10-round main event.

Movie Chatterbox

HOLLYWOOD, March 18—Hollywood, first capital of the moving picture world, got quite a shock a few years ago when the big producing companies began to build studios on Long Island. Now Hollywood is breathing easily again.

The reason lies in an announcement just made by Jesse Lasky, who says that hereafter Famous Players-Lasky will concentrate all of its major activities in Hollywood.

For some time this company had been making a good 25 per cent of its films in the east. Hollywood, sensing a possible diminution in the strength of its own claim to overlordship of the movie industry, never liked it; hence Lasky's announcement is greeted with acclaim.

The Long Island studio, Lasky adds, will be kept up, but will be used only for short feature productions. All big pictures will be made in Hollywood, where a new enlarged studio has just been completed.

It probably doesn't matter to anybody—but Jobyna Ralston is never going to get that bob she has been wanting so long.

The young actress for a long time played opposite Harold Lloyd. In her contract was a stipulation that she allo wher curls to dangle free and unshorn.

And then she contracted matrimony with Richard Arlen. Arlen, according to one of Hollywood's most reliable press agents, abhors bobbed hair.

James Cruze, Paramount director, is seeing the world just as thoroughly as any naval rookie that ever lived.

First Cruze took his megaphone to sea, in the filming of "Old Ironsides." Then he went to the French Alps to make Wallace Beery's "The Big Sneeze."

Now he is going to the Sahara, or some other desert-y location, to transfer Percival Christopher Wren's "Beau Sabreur" to the screen.

This picture will be in the nature of a sequel to "Beau Geste." It deals with the French Foreign Legion, and its principal characters are Hank and Shorty, the Americans who figured in minor roles in "Beau Geste."

Climaxing a series of war pictures that had their beginning with "The Big Parade," William Wellman is now completing "Wings," an air version of the World War with red-haired Clara Bow as his star.

In "Wings," the picture-going public will see only a very human love story woven behind the spectacular air battles of army birdmen. To Wellman this production is the realization of a long smouldering ambition—an ambition to pay a fitting tribute to the darng of hs brother fliers in the Lafayette squadron during the World War.

"Since my first assignment as a director, I have wanted to make a picture that would give justified credit to the aces of the air," Wellman told me one day.

It sems more or less odd that a girl should be chosen for the leading role in such a vehicle. It is stranger still that the star of an air film does no flying. As an ambulance driver, Clara stays right on the ground at all times. However, she does manage to wreck a perfectly good ambulance—and she did it all by herself without the assistance of any stunt driver.

All of the airplane "shots" are left to Richard Arlen, Charles Rogers and U. S. army aviators from Kelly Field, Tex. Arlen and Rogers, both experienced fliers, make their bows as leading men, in this production. Strangely, both are "there with the goods" when it comes to acting. With "Wings" only in its final stages, plans already are being made to co-star them in another big feature.

After looking at a "rough cut" of the reproduction, I am convinced it will equal either "The Big Parade" or "What Price Glory?" — the two outstanding war enterprises in the cinema field. Never before have I seen suc ha spectacle as the battles waged several thousand feet above the earth. And behind them lies a humanness—humanness of the same nature that put "What Price Glory?" over the top.

Wallace Beery used to be one of the most villainous villains that ever menaced the safety of a heroine.

As such he made a big hit.

Then, one day, they transformed him into a comedian.

Wallace proved such a good laugh-producer that his villainous past was forgotten forthwith. It's a safe bet that he won't get a villain part again to the end of his days.

Now his brother, Noah Beery, apparently is going to follow in his footsteps.

Like Wallace, Noah was a villain of repute. He could scowl and leer with the best scowlers and leerers in the land. In "Beau Geste," to cite a recent instance, he reached new heights of villainy.

In his next picture, however, he will be a funny man.

Noah has been cast to play a comedy part in "Evening Clothes." Adolphe Menjou's next picture. In this part Noah will get a chance to show whether he can be funny as well as wicked.

He thinks he can, and is tickled to death to get the chance. Movie fans, it is safe to predict, will watch eagerly to see if he can do as his brother did.

Two great cycles in movie production, begun in 1926, will be carried through in 1927, according to B. P. Schulberg, west coast executive for Famous Players-Lasky.

These cycles are war drama and comedy.

"The Big Parade," naturally, started the war pictures. It was followed by such pictures as "What Price Glory," "Old Ironsides" and "Beau Geste," and the trend will be continued by the forthcoming "Wings" and "The Rough Riders."

The comedy trend started more slowly but is gathering momentum. Now, according to Schulberg, a good 40 per cent of the films which his organization will turn out in the next three months will be comedies.

7 Wives to Cast Lots for Husband

WARSAW, March 18.—Seven women are to cast lots two years hence for the possession of "their" husband.

The husband, during a period of two years, married each in turn. The father of his seventh wife discovered his duplicity and denounced him for bigamy.

The judge sentenced him to jail for two years, although each of his seven victims testified in his behalf. This friendly testimony so pleased the seven-times husband that he told them he would marry one for keeps as soon as his sentence expired. When asked by them to name the lucky one, he replied that they must settle this among themselves as it was all the same to him. The seven consulted and decided to cast lots for him.

H. C. WESTOVER IS WINNER OF THIRD PRIZE IN ESSAY CONTEST

Will Get $100 for Paper on Telling Why He Desires To Attend Paris Session

NOT OFFICIALLY NOTIFIED AS YET

Santa Anan's Composition Considered One of Best Of Over 1000 Entrants

Harry C. Westover, young Santa Ana attorney and member of Santa Ana post, No. 131, American Legion, who lives at 1527 East Fourth street, won third prize, $100 in cash, in the national essay contest conducted by the American Legion in connection with the coming Paris convention, it was announced today by George J. Hatfield, San Francisco, member of the Paris convention committee.

Faustus P. Hardesty, a disabled veteran, of Buffalo, N. Y., won second prize, of $150, and Robert McKinnis, New Brighton, Pa., won first prize, of $350.

Westover has not been officially notified of his winning, as yet, according to a statement made by him today. "It's all news to me, but good news," he said.

More Than 1000 Entries

Westover won third place in a field of more than 1000 entrants in the contest from every state in the union. The judges of the contest were Frederick Palmer, war correspondent and author; Richard Henry Little, columnist of the Chicago Tribune, and William Allen White, publisher and author. The contest opened June 1 and closed Sept. 15, 1926, and was conducted under the auspices of The American Legion news service.

Westover had four years of military training while attending the University of Arizona. He entered the fourth officers' training camp, at Camp Freemont, Palo Alto, Calif., and was commissioned a second lieutenant. Following his training there he was transferred to Camp Hancock, Ga., where he attended the machine gun school, preparatory to going overseas. His overseas orders never came and the war ended with him on this side. Discharged from the service after the armistice, Westover took an active part in Legion affairs and helped organize the Arizona department and the H. H. Donkersley post, in Yuma. Later he came to Santa Ana to engage in the practice of law. He now heads the legal department of the Orange County Credit associa-

TIME IS SHORT FOR FILING OF OFFICE PAPERS

Santa Ana residents who are bothered with "bees in their bonnets" must smoke out the bees before next Tuesday noon, if they have ambitions to get their name on the ballot for the city election on April 11.

Ed Vegely, city clerk, today warned prospective candidates for city elective offices that the gavel of the law will drop on nomination petitions at 12 m., Tuesday, March 22, which said Tuesday is the next one in the procession of days of this month.

Only one nominating petition taken out has not been returned and filed with the city clerk, and that is the petition of W. G. Knox, former city engineer, who yesterday announced his candidacy for the council from the third ward.

George A. Barrows, building contractor, today stated that he had definitely made up his mind that he would not make the race for councilman from the third ward. According to friends, Barrows has had the matter under consideration for the past few days.

Clyde Downing, who yesterday was complimented by the directors of the chamber of commerce when they broke a precedence of one term only for a president and elected him to a second term as president of the organization, for several weeks has been prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for the board of education. Downing said today that he had not yet made up his mind to become a candidate.

"I have many civic obligations at this time and I do not want to take on another unless I am certain I can give it the time and thought necessary," the chamber president said.

MYSTERY ABOUT CALIFORNIA'S GREATEST ROMANCE IS LIFTED

BOOK EXPLAINS REZANOV'S LOVE AFFAIR

BY TERRY E. STEPHENSON

Sweetening the greatest of California's historical romances, clarifying the mystery that shrouded the intentions of Count Rezanov toward Concepcion Arguello, comes a book that will be welcomed by every student of California's history, by every lover of California's colorful past.

The title of the book is "The Rezanov Voyage to Nueva California in 1806." Just that alone will attract the attention of many hundreds of Californians who have read the story of the wooing of the daughter of the Spanish governor of California by the Russian officer. And when it is learned that this new book answers a question that remained unanswered throughout the long life of Concepcion Arguello, that has remained unanswered in California now for 120 years, deep indeed will be the interest in the book.

First, let us briefly recall the story of Count Rezanov and then tell something of the publication of this book by Thomas C. Russell, who holds a unique place among publishers of books.

Was Russian Explorer

In 1806, upper California was held by the Spanish with a handful of soldiers, scattered among barracks at missions and at presidios. The great Russian Bear was strolling through Alaskan waters. He was seeking new lands. Among the Russian explorers was Count Nikolai Petrovich Rezanov. In February, 1806, Count Rezonov left Sitka on the ship Juno, bound for Spanish California for the purpose of securing provisions to relieve the starving Russians in Russian America.

Arriving in San Francisco he found Don Luis Antonio Arguello, commandante at the presidio, to be an affable Spaniard, quite willing to listen to Rezanov's proposals for trade. Don Jose Joaquin Arrillaga, coming up from Monterey, gobernador of Nueva California, was fearful of trouble with the mother country because of orders to look upon foreigners askance.

While pleading his cause with the officials, Count Rezanov was received at social functions at the home of Don Luis.

"While awaiting the arsival of the gobernador," wrote Rezanov in his official reort, now translated and printed in English in full for the first time, "we made visits daily at the residence of the hospitable Arguellos and soon became on intimate terms with them. Loveliest of the lovely sisters of Don Luis, the commandante temporal, the Dona Concepcion is the universally recognized beauty of Nueva California and your excellency will concur with me when I say that our past sufferings were thus delightfully requited for our time was passed very joyfully."

Concepcion and Rezanov fell in love with each other Because she was of the Catholic faith, there were objections raised. It was decided to appeal to the pope for permission for the marriage.

Sails for Sitka

Thus, almost as a member of the Arguello family, Renazov's purpose in coming to San Francisco was soon realized. His vessel was filled with grain, lard and other foodstuffs. Promising to return at the earliest possible moment, he sailed for Sitka.

And when the Juno sailed out of the Golden Gate, Dona Concepcion's heart went with it. Months grew into years and then many, many years went by. It was whispered that the Russian had made love to the beautiful senorita merely that he might get into the good graces of the authorities and secure food for his starving countrymen.

Did Count Rezanov, in truth, intend to return to marry Dona Concepcion? Was he a lover or a schemer, a rascal?

That question has been sent down from Spanish days, through the olden, golden days of Mexican rule, down past the days of '49 to this year of ours, 1927, 111 years since Count Rezanov turned the good ship Juno northward toward the cold waters of Alaska.

Worn by waiting, disappointed, Dona Concepcion took upon herself religious vows and throughout a long life she was famed the length of the two Californias not only as the central figure in the great romance but also for her charitable deeds.

Dies in Siberia

It was many, many years before word came of the death of Rezanov. He was crossing the plains of Siberia when death came upon him, following injury in a fall from a horse. This word was brought by the Englishman, Sir George Simpson. But let us quote the closing paragraphs from Bret Harte's poem:

"Quickly then cried Sir George Simpson, 'Speak no ill of him, I pray,—He is dead, He died, poor fellow, 40 years ago this day.

"'Died while speeding home to Russia, falling from a fractious horse. Left a sweetheart, too, they tell me. Married, I suppose, of course!

"'Lives she yet?' A deathlike silence fell on banquet, guests, and hall, And a trembling figure rising fixed the awestruck gaze of all.

"Two black eyes in darkened orbits gleamed beneath the nun's white hood; Black serge hid the wasted figure, bowed and stricken where it stood.

"'Lives she yet?' Sir George repeated. All were hushed as Concha drew closer yet her nun's attire. 'Senor, pardon, she died too!'"

Concepcion Arguello died, a nun in Benicia, in 1857.

Was Count Rezanov a lover or a rascal?

Thomas C. Russell has answered the question by the publication of his book. The report of Count Rezanov to his government shows his intention of returning and marrying Dona Concepcion.

Now for a word concerning Thomas C. Russell and his private press, located at 1734 Nineteenth avenue, San Francisco.

CIRCUS CROWDS AT Y. SHATTER PAST RECORDS

Department of Physical Education Puts on Performance of Big Thrills

All previous records for attendance were broken last night, when a capacity crowd filled the big Y. M. C. A. gymnasium for the opening performance of the third annual indoor circus, staged by the physical education department of that institution, under direction of R. R. Russick, physical director.

Quality as well as quantity featured the two-hour program which, in addition to unusual demonstrations of physical education and recreational work, included several pleasing displays of motion and color in mass drills by boys and girls.

Prior to the big parade by the company, the crowd was entertained by the Hi-Y orchestra. A riot of color was the opening procession, with its 200 performers circling about the arena.

Smedley As Ballyhoo

Ralph C. Smedley, general secretary of the association, gave an imitation of the old-time ballyhoo man of the sideshows, as he announced the various numbers on the program.

Living up to the traditions of the "big top," there were plenty of clowns, comedians, freaks, tumblers, music and noise, not to mention popcorn, pink lemonade, peanuts, candy and a few other things that make for atmosphere.

Included in this class of entertainers was the old-time singing clown, who accompanied himself with thrills on a mouth organ. Then the freaks—what shrill shouts from tiny throats? A buzz of childish wonder went through the house as Zip, way up in the rafters, spun and hurtled in the air.

Now for the other clowns and comedians. They were born funny and have been getting funnier from year to year. Chico, the rubber-haired man from Africa; Herman, the funny man from Petrograd; Joseph, the Egyptian mystic from Cairo; Jolly Irene, the fat lady; Iko and Eko, the gold dust twins; Madame Ima Whale; and Count Pico, the smallest man who ever spoke four languages at the same time.

A pleasing number, featuring grace and beauty, was the "Opening of the Rose," presented by the prep girls' class. An act of pure fun, introducing unique feats of gymnastic feats, was the "Horse Trainers," presented by the older boy's class. Equally entertaining, giving proof of consummate skill in balancing, swinging and twirling, was the number listed as "Spring Board Frolics."

Perhaps the most spectacular number of the program was the "Fire Bugs," a mystery act, presented by the seniors. A series of exciting races and contests, including a six-round boxing match, filled other parts of the program. From start to finish, the program this year represents work being done in the regular classes of the physical education department.

New attractions, including a balancing and equilibristic act of unusual skill and daring, will be added to the regular program for tonight's performance.

LION GOES VISITING

BOURGES, France, March 18—Finding the door of his cage open, a menagerie lion stepped into the open and began to make the rounds of the village. His last stop was at Mme. Cotineau's bakery. There he jumped upon the counter and sampled all the pastries. Next he decided to visit M. Cotineau, who was still in bed. The startled Frenchman leaped through the window just as the lion tamer arrived and led the jungle king back to his cage.

INQUIRY ON "BABY FARM" IN SUDDEN SHIFT TO ANAHEIM

This is Mrs. Winnie Williams Foss Hines, accused of having dealt wholesale in babies at a "baby farm" at Moneta. Inset is Hines. Authorities fear some of the children may have been slain. The investigation of the "baby farm" case yesterday shifted to Anaheim, where Mrs. Hines is said to have resided about a year and a half ago.

ORANGE PASTOR TALKS TO LIONS ON NEGRO RACE

The modern jazz is a mutilated form of negro music was the declaration of the Rev. Earl Cochran, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Orange, who spoke before the Santa Ana Lions club yesterday. The Rev. Mr. Cochran told of the negroes, spiritual rituals, their music and costumes and illustrating his address with a number of negro songs. He was assisted by Mrs. Cochran at the piano.

Rhythm is the basis of African music, according to the Rev. Mr. Cochran. The pastor told of the early history of the music of the colored people and reviewed the history of the colored race in the United States. He declared that the soft tones of the negro had much to do with influencing the speech of white people in the south.

Robert Bradford Sings

Robert Bradford, well known Santa Ana singer, sang. He was accompanied at the piano by Madame Manuela Budrow, well known Santa Ana musician.

Frank Purinton, president of the city board of trustees, was chairman of the program committee.

The Rev. Mr. Cochran, in his address, berated the attitude taken toward the negro in many parts of the United States. He declared that many of the best known and well educated colored people could meet the most prominent people in Europe, but that in certain parts of the United States the same persons were required to walk up a back alley to a hotel.

The pastor declared that the condition must be remedied. He has spent many years studying the negro situation, customs and habits and his talk was well received by the local Lions.

Effect of Christianity

That Christianity has had a great influence upon the negro and upon his music, was the declaration of the pastor, who also stated that the African race, with its almost perfect rhythm, and the Spanish race, with its melody, have contributed much to good music.

Announcement was made at the meeting of the stag party, to be sponsored by local Lions at the Santa Ana Country club, Tuesday evening, at 6:30. Local Lions will attend the party in a body.

FLOWER LOVERS WILL ORGANIZE GARDEN CLUB

Definite decision to organize a garden club in Santa Ana was reached at a meeting of citizens interested in the project, held last night at the city council chambers.

The meeting was called to order by W. F. Whiting, local gardener, who explained the purposes of the conference, and called on Kenneth Morrison, justice of the peace, to officiate as chairman.

Talks were made by Harold E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, Whiting and others, in which opinions were expressed that organization of such club would tend to create greater interest in pretty home gardens in Santa Ana.

Whiting was elected president of the club and Russell Adkinson was chosen vice president. Miss Margaret Livingston was named secretary-treasurer.

Whiting, Morrison, C. D. Swanner and Mrs. Cood Adams were appointed a committee to draft a constitution and by-laws. The committee will recommend the amount of dues for membership and the name to be selected for the club.

"The big purpose of the club is to promote beautification of Santa Ana, to stimulate interest in home grounds and to co-operate with the park and planning commissions," Whiting said today.

It was tentatively agreed that the next meeting of the group would be held on April 7, when it is hoped people of Santa Ana interested in growing better gardens in the city will be present and become identified with the club.

Girl Kisses Editor To Get Publicity

MANDAN, N. D., March 18—Persuasive approach of press agents reached a new height—for North Dakota—when a young woman seeking free newspaper publicity announced herself to the managing editor of the Mandan Pioneer by implanting a resounding kiss on his cheek. She failed to get much space. The editor's wife was working at an adjoining desk.

Investigators in Search Of Mystery House Fail To Find Definite Clew

Investigation of a report made by V. W. Koehler, a grocer, living at 1119 Lincoln avenue, Anaheim, to the effect that Mrs. Minnie Hines, alleged proprietor of a Moneta "baby farm," had resided in Anaheim, at 1415 Lincoln avenue, a year and a half or two years ago, was halted today by Chief of Police J. S. Martin, of Anaheim, pending word from Los Angeles, where the woman is held, as to whether Koehler's identification could be of any material benefit in her prosecution.

Koehler told police and newspaper men that Mrs. Hines, who also is said to have used the name of Foss and two men, believed to be Foss and Hines, each of whom she is said to have described as her husband, traded at his store.

Claims He Was Oil Worker

Hines represented himself to be an oil worker, who had been transferred from Bakersfield to Huntington Beach, and who, therefore, was out of funds. Mrs. Hines, or Foss, used the account to obtain expensive articles and when the bill mounted to about $50 Koehler took steps to collect it, he said.

He took the numbers of the two cars used by the men and wrote to Sacramento to determine their ownership. He was informed that the cars were owned by Ray Foss, of Long Beach. Koehler told newspapermen that he investigated and found that the Long Beach address was fictitious. He also learned that neither of the men had been employed in the oil fields. He attached the cars and the family left mysteriously the next evening, he said.

Grocer Recognizes Pictures

When the pictures of the men were printed in a Los Angeles newspaper, Koehler said he recognized them as his former customers.

Reporters searched the house at 1415 Lincoln avenue, and even dug in the cellar, but found nothing that would connect up with the occupancy of the house by the Hines or Foss families. Letters found in an obscure part of the house were later proved to have been written by members of a family which had occupied the house after the alleged "baby farm" operator and her male friends had moved out.

WOMAN'S HEARING SET FOR MARCH 23

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Mrs. Minnie Hines, alleged proprietor of an extensive "baby farm" operated in Southern California over a period of more than three years, during which time twoscore unwanted babies were farmed out to childless parents, will come up for her preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge McCoy, Wednesday, March 23.

She was arraigned yesterday before Judge McCoy and her bail set at $5000.

Mrs. Hines was arraigned under the name of Jane Doe Foster on charges growing out of the selling of Baby Hines, who later died at the county hospital. She is charged specifically with violation of section

LIONS WON'T OSCULATE

JERSEY CITY, March 18.—Married in a lion's cake, Ernest P. Gervais, chauffeur, and his bride are on their honeymoon with a substantial gift of cash and furniture. The Lions club arranged matters in order to help a children's home. A trainer kept sharp watch on three lionesses, but they sat perfectly still gazing at the bride, and didn't even try to kiss her.

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS SENT TO RICHARDS, THE MAGICIAN

SEND NO MORE QUESTIONS

Many of the questions sent to Richards the magician, he will be unable to answer through these columns. Although announcement was made last evening that no more questions would be accepted, hundreds of them were received on the morning mail. The questions are being answered in the order that they are received, but it will be a physical impossibility to answer them all. Richards will be glad to answer your questions at the Yost Theater.

Do not send any more questions to Richards, the Magician, to answer, as he has been flooded with thousands of letters and it would be a physical impossibility to answer them all and give proper consideration to each, therefore Richards is putting in every minute of his spare time when at the Yost, Spurgeon Street Theater in preparing all the answers possible and he is taking them in the exact order they have reached the office of the Register. No partiality has been shown anyone—first come, first served—and if your answer has not already appeared, do not feel discouraged, but watch the register again tomorrow evening. If your question was sent in early enough your answer will appear. Richards is presenting his big show all week, ending Sunday, at the Yost and making a tremendous hit, for he carries a big production beautifully staged with two carloads of effects, a big company and special orchestra. The following is the fourth installment of answers:

RICHARDS

E. H.—I have never heard from my brother Walter since we moved out here from the east. What became of him?

Ans.—Your brother is now living at the Rex Apartments in Marion, Indiana.

M. F.—Will I ever get married again?

Ans.—Yes, you will marry Grace B. the latter part of August. You will make your home in Ventura for the next two years.

M. A. N.—(Garden Grove) Have property tied up under heavy mortgage. Will we ever be able to dig out and have anything left?

Ans.—You cannot come out under the present conditions of the mortgage. If you will arrange for an extension of more time you will come out okay.

F. W.—I have lost my fraternal pin. Where can I find it?

Ans.—You failed to remove the pin from your coat when you sent it to the cleaners. When your coat is returned the cleaner will return the pin.

G. L. D.—(Buena Park) Will I win contest in paper?

Ans.—You will not win although you will make an excellent showing.

W. C.—When will I sell my Ford car and what will I get for it?

Ans.—You will sell the car next Tuesday for $275. You will later buy a Studebaker.

F. B.—Will my daughter be home Saturday as she wrote? How long will she stay?

Ans.—She will be here Saturday and remain about two months.

W. R.—Who was it that stole the tools out of my father's garage two weeks ago?

Ans.—You are entirely wrong in your suspicions. I cannot mention the name in the Register, but if you will bring your question to the Yost theater I will give you his name and details from the stage, or else secure one of my private question blanks at the theater ticket office.

J. P. W.—(Tustin) Will our estate ever be settled?

Ans.—The estate will not be settled for about a year and a half. You will receive a small, fairly satisfactory share.

M. McD.—What causes my constant headaches? Have I high blood pressure?

Ans.—Your trouble is due entirely to improperly fitted eye glasses. Have your eyes thoroughly tested, get correctly focused glasses and your headaches will cease.

G. S.—What has become of some oil shares and bonds that are missing?

Ans.—You will find these all misplaced among a lot of other papers, etc., on top shelf of a large bookcase or similar cabinet at home. Your recently deceased sister put them there and then forgot to mention the matter.

H. P.—Will I marry the boy I am now keeping company with or will I marry George?

Ans.—You will marry Edward, the boy you are now going with. You will marry in July.

This is Mr. Richards' last answer today although another and final installment of answers will appear in the Register again tomorrow. If you sent your question in early your answer should appear, however Mr. Richards will be glad to answer you at the Yost theater tonight or Saturday and Sunday during the mental part of his massive big show of amazing wonders, thrills, laughs, pretty girls, music, dancing, mystery and splendor. He has a mammoth show that is making a tremendous hit and the finest and most gorgeously staged production of the kind ever witnessed in Santa Ana, the performance lasting nearly three hours and is in three acts and nineteen elaborate scenes, with more than usual pep and action.—Adv.

WORK IS BEGUN ON NEW RAILWAY LINE IN MEXICO

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 18.—Actual construction of the Kansas City-Mexico & Orient railway from Chihuahua City, Mexico, to the Rio Grande at Presidio, Tex., is now in progress. Contract has just been let to the firm of Terraza & Matquia of Chihuahua City for the last gap of the railroad in Mexico—78 kilometers from Las Norias, Mexico, to the banks of the Rio Grande.

The survey has been completed from Alpine to Presidio, and letting of the contract is expected as soon as definite decision is reached as to the route to be traversed to this point.

The Orient has a line now operating from Wichita, Kas., direct to Alpine, Tex., and has another link running north from Chihuhua City in Mexico. Construction of the road from Alpine to Presidio, and from Presidio to Las Norias, will complete the gap, and will afford a through connection to Mexico. The two gaps to be completed with total approximately 150 miles of new road. An international bridge is to be constructed across the river, joining Presidio and Ojinaga, by the Orient.

This project was contemplated by the Orient when the road was first built. It was postponed, however, by the war and other conditions. Flourishing conditions of the railroad, due to oil activity in west Texas and to valuable oil concessions made to it recently by the Mexican government, have made construction of the road possible.

The railroad is expected to bring a great development to this section of Texas. The road will connect at San Angelo and Sweetwater with railroads to Fort Worth, Dallas, and other Texas centers. Announcement of the letting of the contract brought great commercial activity to Presidio and other points along the route

AT THE THEATERS

A scene from "Prisoners of the Storm," picture featuring House Peters, which is now at the West Coast-Walker theater.

Warner Baxter and Lois Wilson in a scene from "Great Gatsby," current attraction at the Yost Broadway theater.

WEST COAST-WALKER

The picture is "Prisoners of the Storm," and House Peters, as forceful and dominant a personality as ever, is the star of the production.

Aside from the locale, the picture is essentially a highly dramatic and intense tale. Combined with the gripping, compelling story, is a beauty and reality of settings rarely found.

The very spirit of the northwoods is captured in the impressive northern scenes and the climax, which comes in a tremendous blizzard and a snowslide which wrecks the tiny cabin in which the principals of the story have taken refuge; is as thrilling a bit of drama as has ever been made for the screen.

The story is expertly woven together, with every scene forming a bit of the symmetrical structure of the plot. Through the clever direction of Lynn Reynolds, the intensity of the situations, and the drama is sustained through every bit of the picture, and the suspense is built bit by bit until the smashing climax is reached.

Peggy Montgomery makes a beautiful and appealing leading woman in contrast to the star's rugged and forceful personality, Walter McGrail, as the determined and relentless Mounted Policeman gives a splendid characterization, as do Harry Todd, Fred DeSilver, Clark Comstock and other members of the cast.

On the stage is Fanchon and Marco's "Specialties" featuring William Le Maire, black-face comedian who has just completed a contract on the Orpheum circuit. Accompanying him is the equally famed artist Miss Ralston. These two comedians have caused much favorable comment in the larger cities with their clever comedy skits.

Others on the bill include Miller and Peters, two versatile dancers, and Helen Aubrey, who offers new novelty song and dance numbers.

Bobby Wolf and his band of gloom-chasers have worked up some new and delightful numbers that will more than please the most critical.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

Search for superlatives. "The Great Gatsby's" here!

Paramount's latest production is at the Yost Broadway theater.

It is by all odds one of the finest dramas to reach us this season. In it, Warner Baxter blossoms out as an actor of depth and feeling. The title role which he enacts is truly an amaizng one. Gatsby, a poor boy who has scaled the heights by accepting aid from unscrupulous parties, and who lives but for one thing—the love of a weak-minded society girl, now married to another man—all at the same time. His is as complex a character as has ever reached the screen.

Lois Wilson, with a brand new hair bob, gives a fine account of herself as Gatsby's idol. Neil Hamilton and Georgia Hale, (Chaplin's leading lady in "The Gold Rush,") the two other featured players, are both seen to advantage.

F. Scott Fitzgerald wrote "The Great Gatsby" as a society satire, and Becky Gardiner who scenarized it, and Elizabeth Meehan, the adaptor, have carried out the author's motive.

SHERIFF IS HOME FROM CONVENTION

Sheriff Sam Jernigan returned to Santa Ana last night, after attending a meeting of the state sheriff's association, in Sacramento, at which more than 35 sheriffs from California counties attended.

The purpose of the meeting was for reorganization, and Sheriff Tom Finn, of San Francisco county, well known northern politician, was elected president. R. R. Veal, sheriff of Contra Costa county, was re-elected secretary.

Following an executive meeting of the organization, the sheriffs paid an official visit to Gov. C. C. Young, who entertained them for an hour and promised his aid in their work of enforcing the laws of the state.

REDUCE WEIGHT OF LOADS ON TRUCKS

Overloaded trucks, which formerly caused the state traffic department much trouble in Orange county and created wails from the board of supervisors, because they tore up concrete roads, are fast becoming things of the past, in the opinion of Capt. Henry C. Meehan, state traffic head here.

Last week, Meehan pointed out, 30 trucks were weighed by officers and 20 others were stopped on the San Diego-Los Angeles highway. Of this number, only two were found to carry overweight loads.

The drivers of these two were arrested.

"Diligence on the part of my night crew is responsible for the decrease in the number of overloaded trucks found in Orange county," Meehan said. Members of the night crew, who are responsible for watching trucks, are Pat Hurd, D. D. Adams, Ben Craig and Ernie Sawyer.

Cathedral Periled By Fall of Rhine

MAYENCE, March 18.—Lack of foresight by 12th century builders has resulted in cracks in the walls, towers and arches of the ancient cathedral here.

The builders of 800 years ago apparently did not reckon with the possibility that the level of the Rhine would sometime fall. The piles driven when the cathedral was built served well in supporting the masonry so long as they were immersed in water, but, due to the fall in the level of the river, the water-logged soil dried and shrank and the piles decayed.

The wall apparently sagged and cracks appeared. Due to possible danger through using the cathedral, the authorities closed it some time ago.

H. C. WESTOVER IS WINNER OF ESSAY CONTEST

tion and the Business Men's association in Santa Ana. He is married and has a daughter. Mrs. Westover is active in the affairs of the Legion auxiliary.

Didn't Reach Other Side

"'Why I want to go to France..' Even after all these years there still is that thought of an anticipated desire and a blasted hope. For I belong to that vast body of men, who, though they were in the army, never got to reach the other side.

"We marched many a weary mile, to the tune of "Long, Long Trail," but the trail for us never led to the sea and France. We stuck our sharp bayonets into many a sand filled Hun; we advanced, we attacked, we stormed the heights of many a trench in "No Man's Land," in the good old U. S. A. My hand has felt the carees of a Browning in action; I have held the gun on many a target, dreaming and planning of the days to come in France, but real battles are not made of dreams and we "fit" the whole war through on this side of the pond.

"And then....

"The guns went dead and the war was won
And the last mad drive was through,
And there we lay with the big job done
And a home to go back to.
Mud-grimed, wire-torn, from our battered hats
To our sodden, frayed puttees,
And our fists still clenched our empty gats
And our thoughts across the seas.'

"The war was won....The last fight had been fought——Dirty and worn from battles (?)——Our fists still clenching the empty gats we had never got to use in France.... We were ready to turn our faces home once more, with our thoughts across the seas.

"And now there comes the second invasion of the American army. Even though we were not privilleged to go gun in hand, it may be that the good Lord in looking down from his throne on high will take pity on some of us who were left behind before and see to it that we can be a part of the invasion of 1927."

Radium Treatment Benefit to King

BUCHAREST, March 18.—King Ferdinand's health is improving under the radium treatment he is undergoing, according to Queen Marie. In an interview with the Bucharest newspaper "Universal," she said:

"I have good news. For the first time since I returned from the United States, I am in gay spirits. The king's health has improved. After examination, his physicians have told me that the radium treatment is giving favorable results. It is too bad that the treatment did not commence sooner. Then perhaps we would have been spared much unhappiness."

Queen Marie revoiced her appreciation of the good time she had had during her trip in the United States, and her praise of Americans.

HENS ARE COAXED

FLEETWOOD, Eng., March 18—High prices that eggs are claiming in England this year have led many poultrymen to install elaborate systems of artificial sunlight in their coops to increase production. The lights are switched on at 3 o'clock in the morning, making the hens think it is time to be up and laying.

Of 22,000,000 dolls made in the United States in 1926, only about one million were blondes.

not only sought but attained in this press. For each book special new type is made and when the book is finished the type is destroyed. Were a prize offered for the discovery of a typographical error in anything printed by Mr. Russell, there could be no prize-winner.

Mr. Russell's work in itself is a distinct service to history and historians.

That it is so regarded by historians is shown by the fact that the entire edition, 260 copies, has been practically sold without circularization.

The volume, "The Rezanov Voyage to Nueva California," contains a great deal of value and interest beside the translation of Count Rezanov's enlightening report of his experiences and observations in San Francisco in 1806. cepcion Marcella Arguello, taken There is a facsimile of the baptismal record of Maria de la Confrom the records in the mission in San Francisco.

nominees for the city council from each ward, the big battles of the coming election are going to be in the first and third wards, as there are four candidates in each ward.

It appears at this time that "the bloody fifth" will be limited to two candidates, one of whom is Mayor Frank L. Purinton. Wards 2 and 4 also are limited to two candidates in each, according to indications at this time.

Apparently City Clerk Ed Vegely and City Attorney Charles D. Swanner will not be worried by competition, for political gossip has failed to reveal anyone who cares to contest with either of the candidates.

PARK COPS MUST WED

MILWAUKEE, March 18—Believing that unwed park policemen are apt to be too solicitous of nursemaids and flappers, the city service commission has ruled that all "sparrow-cops" must have wives.

RUNS GANTLET

The whine of machine-gun bullets entertained Mrs. Mae Hawley, of Los Angeles, pictured above, as she rode a steamboat 1200 miles down the Yanste river from Ichang to Shanghai, China, recently. Bandits and soldiers, on both sides of the river, used the boat for daily target practice. .They killed two of the sailors aboard. .Mrs. Hawley's dog "Lady," shown in the photo, went through the experience with her.

Movie Chatterbox

She could live a life replete with luxuries and be a social leader in cinema village. But Mrs. Harold Lloyd, known on the screen as Mildred Davis, prefers a career in films.

It would be easy for Mildred to gain fame by capitalizing upon her husband's popularity. The name Mrs. Harold Lloyd would be a great box office attraction. But it's as Mildred Davis that she has returned to the kleigs, deserted four years ago when she quit as Lloyd's leading lady to become his wife.

For the last four years, Mrs. Lloyd has been kept busy caring for Harold and their baby daughter, Gloria. Gloria, now 3, no longer needs her mother's full time. So a few weeks ago Mildred Davis again opened her make-up box and started work in "Too Many Crooks,' a farce comedy.

Harold's Greatest Booster

"It isn't that I have tired of home life or became jealous of Harold's success. In fact, I am his greatest booster," she declares. "It's just that I want to make something of my own career which I abandoned when I married. I don't want to always be just Mrs. Harold Lloyd, a 'somebody' because my husband is a prominent man. I want to do something creative—something I can call my own achievement.

"My last picture was with Harold in 'Safety Last.' I also played with him in a number of others. No, I don't think I will ever be his leading lady again. Husbands and wives shouldn't work together in pictures—they know each other too well. It is better to play in separate productions."

No Professional Jealousy

Professional jealousy hasn't entered the Lloyd homestead. Mrs. Lloyd is just as proud as she can be of her husband's progress and he is equally enthusiastic about her celluloid ambitions and exploits. Miss Davis is of the opinion that a family is happier when both are intensely interested in the same subject—thereby being able to give each other more sympathetic encouragement when needed.

Mildred Davis' first announcement that she would return to the screen drew but mild interest from the film colony. Too many other actresses have voiced their intentions of renewing their cinema activities after marriage. Few of them have actually stepped before the camera.

Judging from some "rushes" of "Too Many Crooks" that I have seen, Miss Davis is not only back on the screen but this first picture will start her on the road to new heights. The story is a trifle weak but her performance will more than make up for that.

FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH IN RIO DE JANEIRO

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 18.—A genuine fountain of youth was discovered in Rio de Janeiro, when police routed 12 youths, mostly street urchins, from a fountain in a public square in which the boys were making their headquarters.

The realization of Ponce de Leon's dream came about when a woman from a suburb, seeking work in the city, seated herself before a large statue, surmounted by a fountain, in Plaza Fifteenth of November, and scanned the help wanted column of a morning newspaper. She placed her pocketbook on a bench beside her. Soon two urchins appeared, and while one engaged her in conversation, the other grabbed her pocketbook and ran.

Both boys made directly for the statue, climbed up its side, and vaulted over the edge of the fountain. The woman called police, who followed the route taken by the boys, but found only gently spraying water instead of the two culprits. Further investigation revealed a hole down which the boys had disappeared, and after threats of being drowned or smoked out, several boys climbed reluctantly from their refuge of stone and bronze.

The boys told police that the members of their band, 12 in number, slept every night in the fountain of youth.

Deputy Sheriff Stensland yesterday declared that bigamy charges may be filed against Mrs. Hines. He is awaiting the receipt of marriage records of Mrs. Hines and her present husband. These will prove whether the woman was divorced from Ray Foss, her first husband.

CANCER PROBE WILL BE TAKEN UP BY LEAGUE

GENEVA, March 18—The League of Nations has assigned itself the task of ascertaining to what extent cancer is a matter of geography and race.

With more than 700,000 persons dying annually from the scourge, the problem is one of the most important that has been undertaken by the international health organization of the league.

While the theory has long been held that cancer is less frequent and less deadly in certain countries and with certain races than with others, efforts to arrive at any scientifically established conclusions have met with serious obstacles.

Comparison is Difficult

In the first place, the different manner in different countries of diagnosis, registration and the establishing of statistics rendered comparison difficult and in the second place the problem was too great for individual physicians or scientists to undertake alone.

With the preparatory work already done by the international health organization of the league in providing for a common system of statistics in a great many countries and with the whole organization of the league back of it, it is believed that definite results can now be obtained.

The investigation will last for a year at least and will embrace virtually the entire world. It will have as a basis certain results that have already been obtained in Europe and which indicate that geography and race play a very important role in the matter of cancer.

Worst in North Europe

These observations today show that the northern races of Europes are the heaviest sufferers from cancer. The Celtic race is less seriously affected while the races of the Iberian pennisula and the island races are least afflicted.

As regards the island populations, these of the northern islands have a great deal more cancer than those on the Mediterranean islands.

That this tendency to have cancer is not merely a matter of geography, but also of race, is demonstrated by the fact that races transplanted to America maintain the same general tendency for the disease.

In Belgium, it has been established that the Flemish part of the population has greater disposition for cancer than the Wallons.

In France, cancer is especially general and fatal in Normandy and Picardy, where 30 per cent of the deaths are from that disease. Here also it has been demonstrated that in the Celtic part of the country the death rate is 16 per cent against 13 per cent in the Mediterranean portion.

Big Feet Needed For Orchard Jobs

MEDFORD, Ore., March 18 — Employment, with big feet as the prime requisite for crashing onto the payroll, is offered in the fruit orchards surrounding this southern Oregon city.

The flat-shaped foot qualification is necessary because of continued seasonal wet weather, which has caused orchard soil to become so soft that unless you wear a size 9 brogan, or better, you are useless.

Most any man who has a foundation the size of a couple of satchels can walk right into an orchard and land a job as a pruner.

The employing orchardist will select a few sample wet spots for the applicant to step on. If you don't sink in the mire above your shoetops, you'll swim right into a job.

Fire Department In 150,000 City Only Volunteers

READING, Pa., March 18. — Reading, said to be the largest city in the United States to maintain a volunteer fire department, boasts of what it claims are the three oldest, active volunteer departments in the nation, and probably the world.

The Rainbow fire department, organized three years before the outbreak of the Revolutionary war, has just celebrated its 154th anniversary.

The Junior company recently celebrated its 114th anniversary and the Reading Hose company will celebrate its 106th birthday on July 4. On April 11, the Neversink company will celebrate its 98th birthday.

In spite of the fact that Reading's sole protection from fire is furnished by volunteer firemen, the city thus far has successfully combated all efforts to displace the volunteers by a paid department.

Reading has a population of approximately 150,000 persons, and has the largest volunteer fire-fighting organization of any city in the country.

CAMPAIGN FOR CHICAGO MAYOR IS UNDER WAY

CHICAGO, March 18.—A campaign involving Chicago's politicians is under way here preparatory to the mayoralty election April 5.

Such men as George E. Brennan, Democratic boss, Fred Lundin, Republican boss, U. S. Senator Charles Deneen and William Hale Thompson, have been drawn into this year's contest, which promises to be one of the most spectacular in the history of the city.

The primaries resulted as might be expected. "Big Bill" Thompson was nominated on the Republican ticket. However, primary day was replte with sanguinary acts of gunmen, abduction of election workers, thefts of ballots and appearance of machine guns in the hands of police. It was a bitter contest but Thompson won handily.

Trouble Expected Election Day

Already the warning has gone out that trouble may be expected on election day and police and county officials are taking precautions to prevent a similar outbreak of violence.

The issues involved are somewhat submerged behind personalities. Mayor Dever, who has served one term, is centering his fight on the success of his administration and the promise that the city shall have a chance to vote on whether subways are to be installed in Chicago. This traction problem is one of the main civic questions before the public now.

Former Mayor Thompson, who served Chicago two terms, is making his plea on a list of national topics. He favors "America First." He recently went to Washington to give aid for passage of the Boulder dam bill. He says that gang rule will be deleted from Chicago, that he will fight for repeal of the state search and seizure law and that his police department will spend its time ending crime rather than the drinking of intoxicants.

Attacks Thompson Regime

Dr. Robertson has spent most of his time attacking the former administration of Thompson, saying it was marked with graft and inefficiency. Robertson was city health commissioner under the former Thompson regime.

Throughout the campaign the workings of the big political machines of Chicago can be seen. The Brennan machine has been started behind Dever. Thompson is being backed by the Crowe-Barrett Republican machine and peace has been restored so that the Deneen faction is at least not fighting Thompson, if not giving active support to him. Thompson was opposed by a Deneen candidate, Edward R. Litsinger, in the primaries.

Robertson is supported by the Lundin faction. Lundin is a powerful member of the Republican group in Chicago. He formerly was the sponsor for Mayor Thompson but they broke during the last year of Thompson's administration.

He gave his support to Dr. Robertson for the primary battle and shortly before the primary election Robertson withdrew from the Republican race and announced he would be an independent candidate for mayor.

This Woman Has Leopards as Pets

PARIS, March 18.—Early promenaders in the Bois de Boulogne these days have been astonished, and at first a little frightened, at the spectacle of two leopards disporting themselves on the lawns and capering about the trees. They are pets of a Chicago society woman, Mrs. John Wentworth, who brought them back with her after a hunting trip in Africa, which she undertook with her husband and a party of friends.

The animals are really cheetahs, generally referred to as "hunting leopards." Mrs. Wentworth, who got her pets when they about a month old, said they respond easily to training and answer her calls just like well trained dogs. They grow to the size of leopards but are not harmful.

They are housed in the Parisian zoo and their mistress goes every morning to take them out for a stroll. Mrs. Wentworth intends to take them with her to Chicago.

By the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine the territory of France was enlarged by 5600 square miles, and her population by 1,700,000.

CITIES IN WEST GROW FASTEST, SURVEY SHOWS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18—Cities of the Pacific coast area are growing at a pace more than 50 per cent faster than are cities of eastern states. To provide adequate housing for newcomers, the citizens of these western cities are investing in new buildings 32 per cent more per capital than is being invested by the citizens of eastern cities.

Although climatic differences, affecting the cost ratio for many classes of buildings, and the congested conditions of business areas in the larger communities, occasion a greater relative cost of Pacific coast investment in new construction per newcomer is but 25 per cent less than that of the eastern centers of population, according to an estimate of S. W. Strauss and company, national building statisticians.

An analysis of the most dependable population estimates obtainable for 11 leading cities of the Pacific coast and for 20 principal cities of the east in which the greatest building activity is centered, shows that during the two years from Jan. 1, 1925 to Jan. 1, 1927, the latter have gained in population an aggregate of 4.43 per cent, while the Pacific coast cities have increased in population by 6.86 per cent.

PIONEER HOTEL IS TO BE TORN DOWN

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 18.—The "Dyer House," a pioneer building which 60 years ago was the finest hotel north of Denver and east of Salt Lake City, has been condemned by city building inspectors and its demolition ordered.

The two-story brick structure was built by Timothy Dyer a few months after Cheyenne was founded and still is in his ownership. In the late '60s and early '70s the "Dyer House" restaurant was so renowned that cattlemen and cowboys rode 200 miles on horseback to enjoy a meal there. The old hostelry housed many famous frontier characters, including "Wild Bill" Hickok, "Buffalo Bill" Cody while he still was a scout, Slade, Big Bat and Little Bat, Jim Baker and Jim Bridger.

The building condemned is on a site just across an alley from that of the Whitehead block, the first two-story business building in Cheyenne, which was torn down a few weeks ago.

London Disturbed By Wrong Numbers

LONDON, March 18.—London is suffering under the "wrong number habit" in its telephone system.

Similarity in names of exchanges, coupled with the wide difference of pronounciation between the inhabitants of Limehouse and Mayfair, is held responsible by many persons.

One woman recently complained to the post office department that she had been called out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning to answer an urgent call for "the doctor to come quickly."

The exchange which the caller had asked for was more than three miles away. Before noon, she said, her "tormenters" called at various times asking for a surgical instrument maker, an undertaker, a brewery, the war office and a Frenchman, who demanded to speak with his consul.

When a Winnipeg man opened a newspaper sent him from Honolulu, a blue and white butterfly dropped out and fluttered about the room. It had travelled more than 4000 miles through the mails.

JUDGE TALBOTT STARTS DRIVE FOR ELECTION

Judge John F. Talbott, Santa Ana's city recorder, who is seeking the office for the next four years, after having served two years as an appointee, today unlimbered his first guns in the political campaign he will wage for the support of the voters of Santa Ana.

"I will not be able to make as extensive a campaign as I would like to because the duties of my office keep me fairly well confined, but I want the people of Santa Ana to know that I am a candidate for city recorder," Judge Talbott said today.

The judge was one of the first to take out his nomination papers for the coming election. He already has filed them.

His friends believe that Talbott's two years as city recorder clearly show the ability of the man to handle the office. They point with pride to his record. Judge Talbott was appointed two years ago, to fill the unexpired term of the late Colonel Heathman.

In a statement made today, Judge Talbott said:

"I have had experience in the line of work involved in the conduct of the office which I am seeking, having been elected and served three terms as prosecuting attorney and two terms as judge of the district court in the sixth judicial district of Iowa, comprising five counties. I have been city recorder here for the last two years. If my record and experience warrant the support of the voters of Santa Ana, I would greatly appreciate it."

Judge Talbott, who resides at 710 Mabury street, has been a resident of Santa Ana for the last six years.

POINTS OUT THAT WORLD TODAY IS GROWING BETTER

Editor Register:—I met a man recently who was grieving over crime conditions of the country and was persistent in his statement that "The world is growing worse." Crime conditions are enough to cause any person to grieve, but is the world growing worse?

Most Americans are familiar with developments of the steel industry from the former shop with a few forges, to the present mammoth steel rolling mills of today; and with the development of travel from the "one hoss shay" and the bicycle to the modern sedan and flying machine. These changes are indicative of the contrast of primitive operations of only a few decades ago with the intricate industrial methods of today. But these changes are not confined to industrial activities. Every activity of the human mind is constantly changing and meeting new conditions and problems to be solved.

We are frequently confronted with the remarks that our sons and daughters do not think the thoughts that we did when we were young and learning the three R's in the little red school house, expressing the thought that they are not seriously minded. It is our belief that the complaint comes from those whose youthful pleasures were in keeping with the small forge and the "one hoss shay" and they are unable to grasp the more modern development of activities. Why should the young generation follow in their footsteps instead of meeting with a cheerful and happy heart the physical, mental and spiritual development the succeeding decades have brought about. If they followed in the footsteps of their fathers and grandfathers they would be a misfit in modern conditions.

Educational facilities have kept pace with industrial changes and the student today is absorbing new ideas. If each generation followed in the footsteps of its predecessor all progress would cease. We must be generous, without losing control, in granting freedom of thought and action to the rising generation. Our mothers did not wear short skirts but how ridiculous would our daughters look with a long skirt trailing in the dust. Too much repression in the home results in excesses when young people get from under the restraint. Lead and not drive is our motto in the development of character and we elderly people must keep pace with modern development and with our experience in meeting problems in the past assist the youth in acquiring knowledge of conditions that will make for betterment of the community. We admit there has been a "letting down" in the home instruction and this lack of companionship in the home is largely the cause of the revolting stories of crime.

There is no fixed and fast rules for planting seed, but there is a law which governs its growth. The seed may be scattered on the ground and out of the latent forces within, it springs into being and grows. The power of growth governed by the life within assistetd by the power of environment without makes toward complete development. The child with power of growth governed by the life within assisted by the influence of proper environment without, nurtured with tenderness and compassion develops a beautiful character. The trend of the increasing new social order is toward developing motives and inspirations of relationship existing between individuals into that higher and nobler aspiration that will lead to the goal of human fellowship.

Is the world growing better? Yes, History has no record to compare with the intense activity of young people as is being shown all over the country at the present time. This activity of young people is not heralded forth through the press as is the crime conditions. Publicity has kept pace with all other development and it seems to be the policy of the press to give far greater publicity to crime than to the ideals that go toward development of character. The fundamental basis of society and the community is the home.

WILLIAM CALVIN.

Arrest Women for Street Swearing

BUDAPEST, March 18.—Women swear more than men in Budapest, if police statistics are to be believed.

Following a recent decree of the minister of the interior prohibiting swearing on the streets, the police arrested three women, and no man, in the first two days the decree was in operation.

The first woman arrested was 60 years old, and she was fined $5, the judge remarking she was old enough to know better.

The other two women, both considerably younger, were fined lesser amounts.

ESCAPES FROM PRISONS FEW IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, March 18.—Ten escapes were made from British prisons last year. All the fugitives were recaptured.

The number of escapes was abnormal—the total during a year rarely exceeds two or three. The fact that those who make a dash for freedom were soon back again in jail was an ordinary matter of procedure.

The rarity of escapes is a marked tribute to British prison discipline as exemplified from the governor of the prison down to the lowest paid jailer. It is also illustrative of the immunity of prison officials from grafting.

The practice of selling dope, liquor and even guns to the inmates of jails, known to occur in the United States, is an unheard of thing in Britain. When the question was put to a high police official as whether such a practice had been attempted, his denial was emphatic.

Try to Smuggle Tobacco

"Impossible," he declared. "There have been minor attempts at smuggling tobacco, but that is the extent of grafting in this country. Even that offense is being gradually wiped out in consequence of the severe penalties incurred by the miscreants."

Escapes from prisons result in quick action by the British Prison commission — a body governing prison conditions here.

In the summer of last year, three escapes, each within a short period of one another, were made from Pentonville prison, in the suburb of London. A few weeks later, an announcement was made in the newspapers that the governor, Maj. F. W. Blake, had resigned from his position.

This typical incident is of the secrecy with which the authorities desire happenings inside British jails to be kept. Major Blake contracted with a certain newspaper to supply a series of articles on the lives and habits of prisoners who had passed through his hands.

Quotes Famous Murderer

In one article, he quoted the last words of a famous murderer—Frederick Bywaters. Bywaters, on the morning of his execution, had a conversation with Blake relating to Mrs. Edith Thompson, his co-operator in the murder, also sentenced to death and hanged. Bywaters was reputed to have said "It's her I want to speak to you about, sir. I'll swear she was not guilty."

For revealing that fact, Major Blake was fined $1250 in addition to the costs of the prosecution as having contravened the officials secrets act.

Thus even governors come under the same rigid code of discipline as the convicts themselves.

Jailers in charge of a gang from which an escape has been made, are suspended until the prisoner has been caught. They then have to give before a judge a very thorough reason for the escape.

Dismissed if Unsatisfactory

If the explanation is not satisfactory, the jailer is instantly dismissed. No second chance is given. They want as jailers in British prisons only men who never let up; never accept bribes; never allow prisoners to escape from the fear of their surroundings. The remarkable thing, from the American public's point of view, is that they get them.

That is the main reason why crime in Britain is on the decline.

A prison sentence is given as a deterrent, and with the methods adopted in British prisons, it is an excellent deterrent. Many observers believe it might with advantage be copied by the United States.

'Red' Badgro Is All-Around Star

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Not merely a participant but a star in every sport in which he indulges—that's Morris ("Red") Badgro of the University of Southern California.

The Kent, Washington, boy plays football, basketball and baseball at the Trojan institution. Last fall he completed his gridiron career by making the All-Pacific Coast eleven at one end.

Last month he wound up his second season in basketball by being named All-Pacific Coast forward and becoming captain-elect for the 1928 season. Now he is leading his team in batting for the second consecutive time. To date Badgro is clouting .666 and has a perfect fielding record.

Combs Reports In Camp of Yankees

Babe Ruth played first base for the yannigans but didn't do any hitting. His injured leg is encased in a rubber bandage which won't permit him to run.

OBITUARY

Jonathan Knight Horne, son of Andrew and Lydia Horne, was born near Zollersville, Washington county, Pennsylvania, January 25, 1857. His boyhood home was on a farm near Nineveh, Greene county, Penn. At the age of 17, he was baptized on confession of faith, and ever after lived a consistent Christian life. In 1882 he married Belle A. Wolfe. For many years, he was in business as a contractor for oil derricks and tanks. Coming to California in 1911, he finally chose Costa Mesa for his home, where he resided until his death, March 10, 1927, beloved by all who knew him. He is survived by his widow, Belle A. Horne, one son, George H. Horne, of Glendale, Calif., and a host of friends, who pay tribute to his sterling worth and splendid Christian character.

DEFEAT MOTION TO RECONSIDER YOUNG'S BILL

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—In a dramatic session behind locked doors, Governor Young's administration today won an overwhelming victory over the little group of assembly insurgents who had organized to defeat his reorganization bills.

The lower house defeated a motion to reconsider the bill creating a new state department of natural resources by a vote of 62 to 10. Before the roll call was taken, the chambers were locked on a "call of the house."

Assemblyman B. J. Feigenbaum, of San Francisco, who introduced the bill, which carried in the lower house yesterday, argued against reconsideration, declaring it "is not only a slap at the administration, but a slap at me."

The insurgent group was led by Assemblyman Walter J. Little, of Santa Monica, who insisted that the bill was railroaded through the lower house without property consideration.

Other members voting in favor of reconsideration were:

BELIEVE ROBBERY WAS 'INSIDE JOB'

SAN BERNARDINO, March 18.—Deputy sheriffs engaged today in investigating the burglary of the J. N. Spears store here, at which merchandise valud at $7500 was taken, have expressed the opinion that the looting was an "inside job."

It is believed that a member of a gang of thieves was secreted in the store before closing time Wednesday and that he or she subsequently opened an alley door to admit confederates.

The loot, comprised of clothing, was evidently carted to the rear and there loaded into a motor truck.

Southland peace officers have been asked by Sheriff W. A. Shay to co-operate in an effort to locate the stolen merchandise.

HELD AS BOLSHEVIST

MANILA, P. I., March 18.—Secret service officers today arrested Rudolph Hilderbrand, a German subject, who arrived from San Francisco aboard the S. S. President Cleveland, charging him with Bolshevist activities. Hilderbrand was dressed as a priest.

The earliest form of the printing press is the seal, used to mark official documents, which dates back to 4000 B. C. Usually cylindrical, seals first were made of bone, ivory and alabaster.

FRENCH NATION NEED HAVE NO FEAR OF ITALY

By A. L. BRADFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Copyright, 1927, by United Press)

PARIS, March 18.—At the present time, France has nothing to fear from Italy, either on land or sea, according to a serious investigation of the comparative strengths of the two armies and navies.

With her total military strength at the beginning of this year of 31,208 officers and 647,434 men, France, not so much from the standpoint of numbers, but taking into consideration the recognized generally high standard of her units, probably still has the strongest army in the world. The great bulk of the total of troops is stationed in the interior of France, the Rhineland, Algeria and Tunisia, but large numbers also are found in Morocco, the Levant, China, the Sarre and other colonies.

The navies of France and Italy are more nearly equal, and so far as special ships are concerned seem to be in a process of equalization in conformity with the provisions of the Washington Limitation of Armaments treaty.

Compulsory Military Service

Generally speaking, the armed forces of France and Italy are organized in an identical manner. In each country, the principle of obligatory military service is the basis of military organization, and at the present time the length of military service is 18 months in each country. The territories of both countries are divided into regions of army corps, with the principal unit in time of peace being the division, composed of three regiments of infantry and one regiment of artillery. On paper, the analogy of the two armies is further indicated by the fact that each is at present composed of 30 divisions, with an advantage on the side of Italy, however, when there is taken into consideration the presence in the Alps of 27 Italian Alpine battalions not incorporated into any division.

On paper at least, Italy has superiority on her side if there is taken into account the present tendency in Italy togive a military role to the "Voluntary Militia of National Security," the origin of which was political. The strength of this militia is variously estimated. The participation of units of the militia in the great Italian maneuvers, the premilitary instruction which is assured by the militia, are characteristics of the tendency in Italy to give a military this organization.

Fear Advantage by Italy

Military experts here also fear that in the future Italy will continue to mark an advantage over France. The application in France of the new military laws, which are considered here as an absolute proof that France is not militaristic, will reduce the length of military service in France to one year and the number of divisions of her army in France proper to 20.

On the other hand, Mussolini, on March 9, 1926, in presenting to the senate his project for the organization of Italy's army—an organization which now has been virtually realized—, said:

"This organization is not definite and I would be extremely happy if tomorrow the state of our finances would permit me to increase the number of divisions."

The following is the disposition of forces of the two armies on each side of the Franco-Italian frontier:

In Italy, of the 30 divisions which constitute the Italian army there are 17 divisions installed on the plain of Po, with in addition the 27 battalions of Alpine troops. Of these forces, six divisions and 12 battalions of Alpine troops are stationed between the French frontier and the line of Milan.

French Alpine Troops

On the French side, of the 30 divisions which constitute the French army in France proper and in the Rhineland, only four divisions are stationed between the frontier, the Rhone and the Mediterranean, and of these four divisions there are only two composed of Alpine troops the two other divisions, being constituted almost entirely of colonial and North African units subject to call elsewhere than the Alps.

Therefore, it is seen that Italy wants to have ready at the foot of the Franco-Italian Alps, which in case of war between the two countries would be the starting point, a large part of her entire forces. On the other hand, France seems to expect that the special nature of the region utilized by her troops of cover, supported by her fortifications, would give her time to put into the field the necessary reserves.

There is an important geographical reason, however, for the greater number of forces maintained by Italy on her side of the frontier. Except in the Alps Maritimes department of France, the summit of the Alps constitutes the Franco-Italian frontier. But the frontier line does not divide the Alps region in two equal parts. Toward Italy, there is a rapid descent toward the plain of the Po, where are found concentrated the greater part of the industrial and agricultural resources of Italy; whereas on the French side there is a much longer extent of mountainous region, with divergent objectives of importance, but which do not command the economic life of France. Thus nature has rendered Italy more exposed at the frontier than is France.

Strength in Mediterranean

The respective naval strengths of France and Italy in the Mediterranean at the beginning of 1927 were as follows: Battle cruisers, France, 8; Italy, 5; cruisers, France, 9; Italy, 10; torpedoboat destroyers, France, 4; Italy, 8; torpedoboats, France, 26; Italy, 40; submarines, France, 32; Italy, 42.

Both navies are in a process of renaissance. In capital ships, the situation of the two navies is about the same. In torpedoboats and torpedoboat destroyers, Italy has a decided superiority, which will continue until units now under construction in France can be put into service. It is largely in submarines that France's naval strength lies—and this is why she does not look kindly on President Coolidge's proposal for a second naval disarmament conference. The superiority that Italy has in numbers of submarines is only paper, for of Italy's 42 submarines there are 24 of an old type and which are of only 250 tons. Certain of the French submarines are of 1500 tons, while the average of the others is 600 tons. France's submarine power will continue to be reinforced as she puts into service undersea craft now under construction.

Italy's naval aviation is superior to France's having 19 squadrons to Italy's 13, but in case of war the French military aviation, far superior to Italy's, would aid the naval aviation.

Financial and Market News

WALL ST. JOURNAL

NEW YORK, March 18.—Stocks broke scharply in the trading today, losses ranging from fractions to more than four points. Norfolk and Southern broke 4⅛; Continental Baking 'A' 3⅞; Houston Oil 3⅝; National Lead 4; Norfolk and Western 3¾ and others in proportion.

American Telephone and Telegraph continued under pressure, dropping nearly three points while General Motors and U. S. Steel eased off fractionally. Motor shares, oils, amusement and food shares alike shared in the decline, heaviest losses being ustained by the high priced issues.

Describing the market, the Wall street Journal's financlay review said:

The bear crowd in the stock exchange forests today was in quest of vulnerable spots in the speculative structure. They succeeded in uncovering substantial liquidation in stocks like Burns Brothers 'A" American Brown Boveri, Studebaker, Hudson and Willys Overland. The first two broke in a fashion that suggested that the selling was on a distressed variety and this was the explanation for their weakness advanced in well informed quarters. However, attempts to spread the reaction through the general list encountered stubborn resistance.

CHURCH WORK ENDANGERED BY CHINESE STRIFE

FULLERTON, March 18.—The missionaries in China are experiencing many difficulties as a result of the political affairs in that country, according to a letter received by Rev. S. Fraser Langford from Dr. Evesham who is a missionary at Swatow. He refers especilly to the American Baptist missionaries in China. He states that the anti-religious wave promoted by the Soviet agitators has much to do with the difficulties experienced by the missionaries.

Grave fears that all American missionaries might have to leave China, and that the mission work might have to be turned over to the natives entirely, were expressed in the letter, the particular part dealing with this phase, being in the following:

. . . "Things have been upset since Christmas. . . . Some anti-Christian boys distributed posters after a lantern parade by school students . . . Our local government now is controlled by radical, Soviet-taught non-Christians. They have brought charges later the boys in the high school against their fine principal and went on strike, demanding that the principal and five of the teachers be dismissed and that the management and finances of the school be turned over to the students. Later they sent for Mr. Page (the principal) and 'beat him up.' It was reported in the Swatow papers that Mr. Page and his wife attacked the boys with guns and I believe that Honk Kong correspondents cabled a dispatch to American papers of that canard.

"We realized then that the story was a deliberate attempt to arouse public opinion against Americans for whom up to that time there had been a friendly feeling. . . . Later the girls in the school went on strike, making demands. Five teachers had to leave. . . . So far the medical work has not been disturbed."

Orange Men Hope For Success In Texas Oil Wells

ORANGE, March 18—Three local business men are living in expectation since the arrival of a letter from F. B. Ranger, trustee for the three in an oil drilling venture at Brownwood, Texas, that the first well on their 160 acre lease had been spudded in and that prospects indicated that the well would be put on production within two weeks.

A. W. Armstrong and Ray Wallace are two of the local men interested in the well. The other partner's name was not learned. Ranger, the trustee for the Orange Oil company, is the founder of the town of Ranger, Texas, and is an experienced oil operator. He has interests in several Southern California fields as well as in those of Texas.

CHAMBER TAKES STAND AGAINST SURF DRILLING

NEWPORT BEACH, March 18.—The Chamber of Commerce here last night adopted a resolution opposing Senate Bill 743 and Assembly Bill 714, both measures being designed to permit the drilling for oil below high tide land on the beach. The measure is understood to have emanated from interests desiring to drill beach land below tide line at Huntington Beach, but this city feels that the welfare of all of the bathing beaches is menaced by this movement.

The city trustees also forwarded a telegram of protest against the measure. Standard Oil company now has half a dozen rigs on the beach at Huntington Beach, above tide line, but is understood to desire to drill out in the ocean, setting derricks on piling. Federal permits can be secured for this work, it is understood, providing the permission of the state can be obtained.

The chamber also adopted a resolution to be forwarded to County Superintendent of Schools Mitchell and the county delegation in the state legislature asking that this section be segregated from the Santa Ana high school district and be permitted to form a union high school district.

NEW P. O. BLDG. REPORTED FOR LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, March 18.—This city is soon to have a new post office, according to reports here today. Growth of the office coupled with the fact that the office is soon to change from a third class to a second class station, is expected to bring about the building of the new building.

The present office is said to be too small and conditions too cramped to allow the proper distribution of mail. Postal inspectors are said to have recommended a new post office building with at least 1500 feet of floor space.

There are no buildings available here with that much floor space and it is expected that a new post office building will be constructed. Several prominent property owners are reported to have made offers to build a new post office building.

The peculiar topography of the city of Laguna Beach, coupled with the fact that few sidewalks are laid in the town, has caused the government to refuse the city free delivery, it is reported. Instead the postal inspectors have recommended an extremely large post office so that several hundred lock boxes can be accommodated, it is declared.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

Constipation! How to Keep Bowels Regular

To Dr. W. B. Caldwell of Monticello, Ill., a practicing physician for 47 years, it seemed cruel that so many constipated infants and children had to be kept "stirred up" and half sick by taking cathartic pills, tablets, salts, calomel and nasty oils.

While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills, he constantly advised mother to give only a harmless laxative which would help to establish natural bowel "regularity."

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin mothers have a regulating laxative which they can depend upon whenever a child is constipated, bilious, feverish or sick from a cold, indigestion or sour stomach. All children love its pleasant taste.

Buy a large 60-cent bottle at any store that sells medicine or write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, for a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE and just see for yourself how perfectly it cleanses and regulates the bowels of infants and children.

PARLIAMENT OF NORTH IRELAND OPENS SESSION

BELFAST, March 18.—The parliament of North Ireland opened here yesterday afternoon with prospects of a peaceful session unless difficulties with the Free State in its border tariff program are aired in debate.

Ulster is enjoying a revival of prosperity, especially in the shipbuilding line, and the youngest daughter of the mother of parliaments is in splendid health.

The prime minister, Viscount Craigavon, formerly Sir James Craig, appears very secure in his leadership. His peerage will have no effect on his political life and he has stated that he will continue to direct the affairs of Ulster as long as the people want him.

Peer Can Sit in Commons

Regulations governing the house of commons here differ from those in the British parliament. A peer in North Ireland can sit and vote in the house of commons if he is returned as a member. Hence Viscount Craigavon continues to hold his seat in commons.

The senate of North Ireland has 24 members and the house of commons 52. The division of parties in the lower house is as follows: Unionists, 32; Nationalists, 10; Independent Unionists, 4; Labor, 3; Republicans, 2; Tenant Farmer, 1. This gives the government a clear majority of 12.

It is not expected that the border tariff dispute will require legislation during this season. The threat of the Free State to impose a tariff on all vehicles, including motor cars, crossing the border from the north, is open to negotiation.

In Position of Britain

Ulster is in the same position as Great Britain with reference to the Free State, and therefore subject to any tariffs that are imposed, but Viscount Craigavon has stated that if the south goes too far with a tariff wall Ulster will "lay brick for brick."

Prohibition will not be allowed to take up much of the time of parliament. Viscount Craigavon has said that there will be no more restrictions on the selling of intoxicants as long as he is prime minister, but the Temperance society is strong in Ulster and always active. The latest restriction was the cancellation of the law granting special privileges to travelers wishing to obtain drink on Sunday, when all saloons are closed. On week days, the saloons are open from 10 to 10, and the government is determined that these hours shall be maintained.

ELEPHANT CARRIES CIRCUS GIRL ACROSS PUDDLE ON LOT

When Margaret Graham, one of the stars of the Al G. Barnes circus, wished to cross a puddle on the circus lot, she enlisted the aid of "Ruth" to assist her.

The management of the Al G. Barnes circus, which exhibits Monday, March 28, at the circus grounds on West Fifth street, Santa Ana, claims the best herd of elephants in America. They all help with the work around the circus—moving wagons, contributing their strength to putting up the tents, pulling on the ropes and in other ways making themselves useful.

The new spectacular feature of the circus this year is called "Aladdin and the Parade of Gold," in which nearly 1000 are portrayed, and the mighty cast is headed by the Chinese beauty, Lola Lee Chong.

O. HENRY HELD EXAMPLE FOR OHIO CONVICTS

COLUMBUS, O., March 18.—"O Henry" was the pseudonym used by W. S. Porter after July 24, 1901, and it was under that name he won his reputation as one of the world's greatest short story writers.

But the pen name before July 24, 1901, was not a name but a number. From April 25, 1898, until three years and four months afterwards, W. S. Porter was known as No. 30,664 in the Ohio penitentiary. He won all honor possible under his first nom-de-plume.

The "O. P. News," the newspaper of Ohio penitentiary, holds up W. S. Porter as an example and a model to the 3229 convicts now incarcerated behind the gray walls of the prison, in a recent editorial.

The parole system, based upon the indefinite sentence law now in use, was not in force at that time, and prisoners were given definite periods of imprisonment, with days deducted for good behavior.

O. Henry earned more than 600 days off for good behavior, in little more than three years.

The prison paper also used O. Henry's later achievements in the world of letters as an example to the men in prison, suggesting that "a record" need not prevent them from attaining success.

O. Henry was 31 years old in April, 1898, when he entered Ohio penitentiary. While in the penitentiary, No. 30,664 was assigned to work in the pharmacy. Early training as a pharmacist enabled him to fill such a position.

Although biographers generally agree that O. Henry was not guilty, that he was not even employed at the Austin (Tex.) bank on one of the days upon which he was charged with embezzling $1153, and that he was convicted largely because of his flight to South America, the "O. P. News" concerns itself but little over that possibility.

It only mentions that W. Sydney Porter "served time" behind the walls of Ohio penitentiary, and left behind him a record that all prisoners would do well to emulate.

Quinine Cocktails Served In London

LONDON, March 18.—"Cocktails" made from cinnamon and quinine instead of the usual ingredients were offered to quench the thirsts of members of the committee in charge of the arrangements for London's biggest public ball of the year—the Stage Guild ball—when they met to draw up final plans recently.

Nicholas Hannen, chairman of the committee, was responsible for the 'dope,' because he thought cinnamon and quinine was so much better for his colleagues than cocktails.

"The mixture," he said, "looks like a cocktail and tastes like one."

Holding their noses and making wry faces, the committee bravely swallowed the mixture and was rewarded by the real thing.

Murder Recalled By Find of Gold

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 18.—The murder of a father by his two sons nearly half a century ago was vividly recalled in the community of Rosendale, Mo., recently when workmen tore down the old farm residence of Dr. P. H. Talbot and found a number of $20 gold pieces inside the walls of the room in which the doctor lost his life.

More than $100 was found the first day and it is thought that there is more money hidden in the walls.

Dr. Talbott was shot by his sons the night of September 18, 1880, and died a short time later. The sons were hanged July 22, 1882, after three trials.

TRIBE PROTESTS RELIEF OF TAXES

MOSCOW, March 18.—Word has reached the capital that the tribe of Samoyeds living in the arctic ice fields 1600 miles from the nearest railroad at Tobolsk, Siberia, is deeply offended because the Soviet government relieved tribesmen of all taxes. An epidemic had killed many of the tribe's reindeer and improverished tribesmen to such an extent that the government cancelled all tax levies to give them a chance to recover.

"It is a sign of disrespect to us," a speaker declared at a meeting of the Soviety of Samoyeds, amid cheers. A resolution demanding that taxation of the tribe be resumed was overwhelmingly adopted. It developed that the Samoyers were afraid that if the government did not tax them it would not care for them.

At the recent Soviet elections, 43 per cent of the eligible Samoyeds voted, families traveling long distances in their skin-covered sledges to discharge their civic duties. Notices of the election had been "mailed" to the voters months ago on wooden postal cards guaranteed not to be damaged by ice and water.

SHIP'S CREW ALL WOMEN

ROME, March 18—The Russian freighter Karl Marx recently arrived at the port of Leghorn manned by a crew composed entirely of women. They wore men's uniforms and had short hair. The ship's captain, a man, said he never had sailed with a more diligent and active crew.

Furniture repaired and refinished. Fix-It Shop, 105 E. 3rd.

Abandon Castle As Military Station

BELFAST, March 18.—A recent decision of the war office to abolish Carrickfergus castle as a military station makes very uncertain the future of one of the most historic spots in the British isles.

The castle is situated on the shore of Belfast Lough and was founded in 1128 by Sir John de Courcy, one of the Norman invaders, and was for centuries the scene of much strife between Ireland and England.

King William III landed there in 1690 on his way to the Boyne and some years later the French privateer Thurot was captured there.

PIMPLES AND BLACK-HEADS ALL OVER FACE

Was ashamed to be seen—simple remedy brought quick improvement

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley.

LAGUNA ART IS ON DISPLAY AT RANKIN'S STORE

Paintings from the brushes of the master artists of Laguna Beach have been transported from the beach colony to Rankin's store, where they are being used as backgrounds in window displays of the Fourth street store.

Marines and spring paintings predominate and add a note of beauty to the spring styles that are being exhibited.

The paintings in the exhibit include: "Springtime," by M. Cuprien; "The Song of Spring," by Anna A. Hills; "The Spell of the Sea," by Anna A. Hills; "Springtime on the Desert," by M. Griffith; "Liberty and Self-Expression," by Ruth Peabody.

An interesting story was given Mr. McKnight, regarding the inspiration for the decorative picture entitled "Liberty and Self-Expression," painted by Ruth Peabody. She related the story to Mr. McKnight. This monkey you see in the picture is really a reproduction of a live monkey which was owned by Joe Skidmore, of Laguna Beach, and which escaped, and made Miss Peabody's garden his objective. When she noticed him there, the thought came to her that she would just leave him alone, unmolested in every way, and see what he would do of his own accord in a fruit and flower garden. She watched him and received the inspiration seen on this canvas. In his mad glee, he grasped a bunch of grapes, flung them down, then at another kind and discarded it, and lastly investigating the large flower vase, picking the flowers to pieces to see how they were made. Everything in the picture features the circle—the monkey's tail is curved, the table is round and every object in it has this shape.

Rankin's opening this season is devoted almost exclusively to the new spring apparel on the second floor. To give this floor a realistic spring appearance, peach and apple blossoms hang from every pillar, and real California ferns decorate every ledge and counter. In addition to this, the department is full of real singing birds in gilded cages.

Although the opening mostly features ready-to-wear, the main floor of the store as well as the other floors have their "best foot forward" and have out their choicest merchandise. The center ledge also of the main floor is furnished with new modes in apparel, to call attention to the big display on the second floor. The silks and wash goods, their appropriate trimmings and the smart accessories such as gloves, hosiery, hand bags and jewelry are joined up with the other display, making one complete and grand display of new spring togs.

Santa Ana, March 13.

Dear Lois: For the last two days I have been chuckling about a conversation I happened to overhear between Sam and Bud. The topic under discussion was yeast and its effect upon a person. For some reason Sam had decided that he might like to try it and he said as much to Bud.

"Aw, you don't wanta take that stuff," Bud answered.

"Why don't I?" Sam asked.

"It won't help you any," Bud assured him, "for I used to take it and I didn't feel a bit different than I ordinarily did."

"Huh! That's funny, and it didn't help you a bit?"

"Naw, just cost me that many cents each day," Bud said disgustedly.

"How long did you take it?" Sam inquired.

"Oh, let me see—I guess I must have taken it two days," Bud answered in all seriousness.

And so Sam announced later that after all he guessed he wouldn't take any yeast because Bud took it and it didn't help him.

Your description of Bradley sounds interesting and I think that I should become very fond of him if I were you. But, my dear, have you considered what it means that he smokes? You know nowadays so many girls smoke and so many boys abstain that it is reaching the stage where a boy feels that it is effeminate to smoke. Boys of high school age, particularly, feel that way about it, I am told on good authority.

The subject of girls' smoking is a pertinent one with me right now, as I have recently discovered, to my great disgust, that several high school girls, with whom I am familiar, have decided that the very latest thing is to smoke. These girls seem to have no qualms about smoking wherever they happen to be as long as members of their families, or close family friends, are not around.

I wonder if they think it adds to their charm or makes them more attractive? Or do they do it merely to seem wild? If their parents ever find it out, there is apt to be a great cry. It's too bad that they can't see themselves as others see them, or they certainly would abandon the stunt. It is so awfully cheap and common—but here am I preaching a sermon about something which probably is none of my business.

I followed your suggestion and inspected some of the new spring dresses and hats for you. Taking the place of the sports jersey of last year is the Golfex, or chiffon jersey, which is generally made in two-piece sports costumes in various of the pastel shades, although both red and white are popular.

Another charming outfit is the crepe de chine pleated skirt, with white blouse and Cardigan coat. The coats are generally in the same color as the skirt, although I found a number of stunning combinations. The coats are called Cardigan, I was told, because they have no buttons on them. The blouses are sleeveless or not, as the wearer desires. I should think that the ones with sleeves would be much the wisest, however, for then you can remove the coat when you wish.

There also are sleeveless coats to be worn with the pleated skirts and blouses. At one of the largest Santa Ana stores, I was shown a Golfex dress, which had been advertised in the Vogue magazine, which proves the desirability of the frock. It was in a shade of tan and was trimmed with a blue velvet bow on the shoulder and a narrow blue velvet belt.

Felt hats to match the dresses are considered very good, especially are the Dobbs hats appropriate for the Golfex frocks.

Remember to write soon and tell me more about Bradley.

Love,
LOUISE.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, March 18.—Sixty-five men of the community attended the banquet given Tuesday evening at the church hall by the Wintersburg Men's Movement. The chicken supper was climax to a membership contest.

E. Ray Moore, captain of the losing side, and his committee, served the supper.

The after-supper program opened with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," and music was contributed by William Phillips, and William Galienne, of Huntington Beach. Mrs. Hadley Pryor was the accompanist.

Prof. McGinnis, of the Whittier college, was scheduled to appear on the evening's program, but owing to a misunderstanding was not present, much to the disappointment of the men congregated. In the emergency several local men gave short impromptu talks. W. H. Stake, brother-in-law of R. M. Triebaud, president of the organization, took "Harmony" as his subject. Rev. J. R. Carpenter spoke on "Community Interest;" Tony Stefanzzi on "Unity and Peace." A reading and a musical reading were contributed by Lester Johnson.

With R. M. Thiebaud in the chair, a short business session was held, at which John Peavey reported that the Wintersburg county branch library, which movement was sponsored by this organization, is being well patronized, about one-half the books having been taken out in the few weeks since the opening. E. Ray Moore, for the road committee, reported that it was not possible to have the Wintersburg boulevard improved with shoulders at this time, owing to the amount of road work being done in other sections.

A vote of thanks was given the three bakeries of Santa Ana, for their donation of one dozen loaves of bread each for the banquet.

Plans for a future banquet were discussed and the secretary, John Murdy jr., was appointed to see further as to some of the suggested plans. The secretary was also authorized to pay the librarian, Miss Julenne Blaylock, for her services.

BREA

BREA, March 18—Fourteen members of the Brea Woman's club have joined the literary section of the club and held their first meeting at the home of Mrs. Phebe Spensley on Monday night. Members are Mrs. Spensley, chairman; Mrs. Beatrice Livingston, secretary, and Mesdames Hecki, Stella Fanning, Nettie Negley, Mildred Phelps, Clara Close, Mayse Barnett, Edna Shaffer, Maude Sayles, Mable Kuenzli, Jessie Whitmer, Maude Will and Ella Miller. Meetings will be held each two weeks but time and location has not been definitely decided as yet. Since the club year is so short, ending in June, only current literature will be studied, supplemented with various contests and discussions tended to stimulate interest along this line.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Martin, of Santa Ana, will be interested in learning that a son was born to them on the morning of March 11, at a maternity home in that city. Mr. and Mrs. Martin lived in Brea for several years and have many friends here. Both Mrs. Martin and the son are reported as doing fine.

Because of a conflict with the date chosen by another woman's club in the county for a reciprocity luncheon, the reciprocity pot luck luncheon date for the Brea Woman's club has been changed from March 29 to March 22. Members only are invited and each one is to bring a generous covered dish. Hot rolls, dessert and coffee will be supplied. A splendid program will follow the luncheon.

The birthday party of the Brea Woman's club, scheduled for March 22, has, therefore, been postponed to March 29, at which time each member is privileged to bring a guest and is reminded to bring a silver birthday offering. This party is to be held in Sewell hall at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. An informal program will be presented.

Odd Fellows of Brea will observe "Education Week" at their next regular meeting on tomorrow evening, in an effort to stimulate interest in public school work. Following the opening of lodge, a recess will be declared at which time addresses will be heard from Principal I. W. Barnett, of the Brea-Olinda union high school, and Principal W. E. Fanning, of the Brea grammar schools. Other interesting features are being planned for this program to which the public is invited. According to reports, this feature is being observed by all Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges in the state.

Eight girls of the local high school, four from Brea and four from the Olinda district, were chosen to represent the school in the meeting of the Girls' league held in Orange on Wednesday afternoon. They were Ruth Livingston, Victoria Reed, Evelyn Wallenius, Mildred Chanslor, Ella Armstrong, Frances Geminger, Loraine Duncan and Grace Viets. With representatives from the various high schools of the county, these girls enjoyed a meeting of the league and the conference and entertainment that featured it.

Sale of Vodka In Yarkutsk Halted

YARKUTSK, Siberia, March 18.—Sale of vodka has been forbidden for two months in the Yarkutsk republic because the vodka bill of more than $1,000,000 last year interferred with collection of taxes. It is likely that the prohibition will become permanent. The Yarkutsk republic is inhabited by farmers and deer-breeders and is larger than France.

EMPLOYES OF WURLITZER ARE MADE PARTNERS

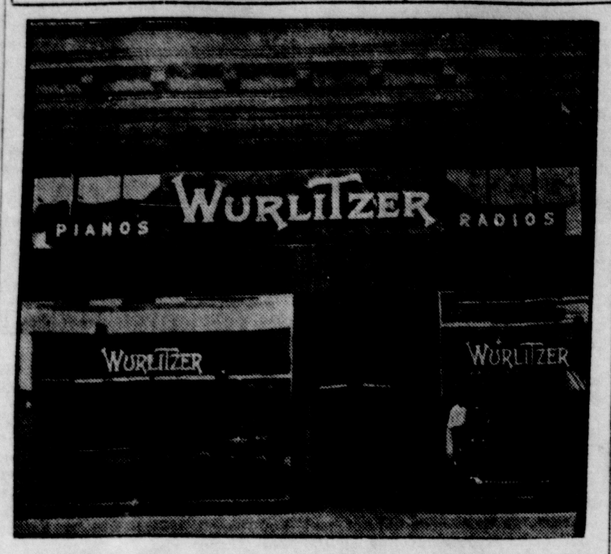
Like most great business organizations of the present day, the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, has worked on the theory of making the employe a partner in business rather than just an employe. Upon the success of the individual is based the success of the company.

Among many of the benefits offered Wurlitzer employes is an opportunity to purchase the preferred stock of the company on any plan of time payment the employe may desire. This stock is a regular seven per cent issue which pays a much higher rate of interest through a unique plan of bonuses worked out on the basis of the length of time the employe has been with the company, and the amount of stock owned in relation to salary paid.

It is pointed out that many fortunes have been acquired through Wurlitzer employes systematically "saving" Wurlitzer preferred stock and several members of the board of directors are men whose first financial interest in the company was made possible through this plan.

However, unlike many national organizations the buying of company stock is not compulsory, but is left entirely up to the individual and many of the company's big executives are not stockholders. Other features of the organization are a pension system, sick benefit, life insurance and other benefits instituted for the welfare of Wurlitzer workers.

NEW HEADQUARTERS HERE OF WURLITZER COMPANY



WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, March 18—From the standpoint of official dignity, at least, Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, who went out of political life with the demise of the sixty-ninth congress, probably will not be missed by the president of the senate.

Although Vice President Dawes never made public comment about it, he doubtless has been somewhat pained by Senator Underwood's past demonstrations of unfortunate manners.

The veteran Alabama senator had his own way of addressing the senate. General, when he spoke, he arose from his front row seat on the center aisle, stood in front of his desk and faced the senate with his back to the gentleman in the chair.

To sticklers for senatorial courtesy and all that, this was very bad form. But it always proved effective, for it enabled Underwood to utilize his keypoint location to its full advantage, whereas if he had merely faced the chair he would have had his back to everyone else in the senate. Some senators have purposely picked the more central desks as the best positions from which to deliver their oratory.

Others walk all over the place, speaking or not. Copeland of New York is the champion roamer—he claims it's good exercise. He never stands at his desk and often addresses particular senators during his speeches by planting himself directly in front of them.

Former Senator France, of Maryland, was an incurable walker, too, but he always walked up and down the rear of the senate chamber, next to the wall, when unburdening himself.

Caraway, of Arkansa, ranks next to Copeland. He paces the floor like a restless lion, parking his hands in his pants pockets with coat unbuttoned and generally gazing toward the carpet. His voice is likely to be heard from any part of the chamber.

Most senators, however, prefer to stick to their own desks and to speak from them. The folks in the gallery generally have no way to identify them except by numbered charts of the floor which are presented to them and thus, if senators don't watch out, they are likely to have someone else making a speech from their own desks which will be credited to themselves and which expresses a point of view opposite to their own.

Heflin and King speak oftener than any other two senators. Heflin, on his feet, is generally found to be speaking against some of his "enemies" or denouncing some measure. King most often opposes some piece of legislation and probably has opposd more bills than any other senator.

Congress has gone home, but the offices of congressmen and senators continue to receive letters from back home urging passage or defeat of the radio bill, the McNary-Haugen farm bill or other legislation long since disposed of. Of course these letters—sometimes they're telegrams—grow fewer and fewer as the news gets around that it's all over.

A week after the radio bill had gone to the president, Senator Mayfield received 11 telegrams urging him to vote for it and nine on the day following. Most of them came from Amarillo, where considerable static apparently had been experienced.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—President Coolidge is not at all bashful, personally, about posing for photographs.

In fact, it is generally suspected that he is rather fond of it.

But you may recall that you have yet to see a picture of the interior of the president's new temporary home, the Patterson mansion on Dupont Circle.

It is very likely that you won't. And it's the president's fault.

As soon as it was announced that Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would reside in the home of the former Countess Gizycka, now Mrs. Elmer Schlesinger, a great many bright young men engaged in the business of taking photographs bent every effort to obtain photographs inside the temporary White House.

Mrs. Schlesinger herself had no objection, it appeared. She was rather proud of the old home, in fact. But Mrs. Schlesinger was powerless. Orders had come from the White House that it was not desired to have such pictures appear in the newspapers.

No reason was given for this reluctance, officially. The president of the United States seldom has to give explanations for anything of such a nature.

As the time approached for the president to desert the White House pending repairs, and to move into the Dupont Circle place, efforts were redoubled to obtain the interior views. These efforts likewise came to naught. The camera boys could stand outside and shoot as much as they desired, but they couldn't step inside.

The only suggestion of an explanation, which comes from persons who have been inside the house, is that the president feels the interior would hardly square with the Coolidge tradition of Vermont simplicity. Anyone who has ever been inside the old Coolidge homestead in Plymouth, Vt., with its huge, lengthy stovepipe bisecting the sitting room, will get the point.

A desire has been manifested from the direction of the White House to stress the innate simplicity of the Dupont Circle place. But, under the circumstances, that is a rather difficult task. The mansion is vastly more ritzy than any private residence your correspondent has ever seen in the state of Vermont.

It is hardly likely that publication of interior views of this little palace would have any effect on the popular conception of President Coolidge, and the chances are that the president's objections are due to a feeling of modesty. If it were his own, personal dwelling, it might be different.

Photographers are popular with the president and the president is popular with the photographers. In the first place, he is nearly always glad to oblige and in the second place he seems to know so much about the technique of photography that the boys say he himself would make an excellent photographer. He knows just how to stand to get the best benefit of the light and always helps pull groups together when it's that kind of a picture.

WURLITZER LEADER WITH PIPE ORGANS

Who has not heard a Wurlitzer organ? Who does not think "Wurlitzer" when organs are mentioned? Among the great achievements of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company has been the popularizing of the pipe organ, admittedly the greatest instrument of all time.

Organ music in the motion picture theater is taken for granted nowadays. One expects to hear an organ in a cinema house as surely as he expects to see a motion picture, yet few of us ever have occasion to pause and consider the development of the pipe organ in this country.

Only a few years ago organs were considered an accessory to a church and the suggestion of hearing an organ elsewhere, especially in a theater, was ludicrous. Organ music was thought to be essentially religious. What a great change has taken place can scarcely be conprehended without some appreciation of the staggering volume of business done in the last few years by the Rudolph Wurlitzer company in its organ division.

Now nearly every great theater in every great city and the best theater in nearly every town in America boasts a Wurlitzer organ and headlines the instrument just as it does its first-run pictures and personal talent. America has got to know the organ, to like its music and demand it for entertainment principally through the efforts of Wurlitzer.

WURLITZER CHIEF INDUSTRY LEADER

Howard Wurlitzer, president of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, is quoted as being the mightiest man in the music industry. Under his direction the company has grown to first place in sales volume in practically every division of the musical instrument business.

An interesting phase of the business is the fact that the company has been controlled by the Wurlitzer family from its very beginning in 1856, when it was founded by the late Rudolph Wurlitzer, father of Howard Wurlitzer.

One-Seventh of Students Normal

PORTLAND, Ore., March 18.—Approximately one-seventh of Portland's school students are normal, according to a report filed by Dr. Helen A. Cary with Dr. John G. Abeele, city health officer.

The report disclosed that 6166 pupils were given complete medical examinations and only 870 were found to be free from disease and affliction of some sort.

The weights of 45,768 pupils were taken and it was found that 2023 children were suffering from malnutrition.

Among the pupils given a medical examination, 1980 cases of defective teeth were found, 1691 cases of diseased tonsils and 1464 cases of defective thyroid glands.

WAMPAS STAR TO HELP GREET STORE GUESTS

Assisting the Rudolph Wurlitzer company in receiving their guests at the opening of their Santa Ana store tomorrow evening will be Miss Sally Phipps, charming young Wampas Baby Star of 1927. Miss Phipps, as gracious hostess of the occasion, will welcome each visitor upon arrival and distribute minature Wurlitzer pianos.

The magic wand of a fairy godfather was responsible for the unexpected entrance into pictures of this little 17 year old high school girl whose success has been so phenomenal.

Discovered Talent

It was Frank Borsage, noted film director and close family friend, whose professional eye noted the sparkling vivacity and charm of the auburn haired, brown eyed youngster when she came to Los Angeles ten months ago to take up her studies at the Fairfax high school.

Upon his invitation, little Miss Phipps with a school girl friend visited the Fox lot after school one day to witness actual work on a motion picture set. She was prevailed upon to appear in a short camera sketch and returned a few days later to see the short length of film that led to her first motion picture contract.

Plays in Comedies

In the past months she has played the lead in a half dozen comedies, appeared prominently in "Bertha, The Sewing Machine Girl," and played the leading feminine role in "Love Makes Them Wild," a feature picture just released in the east. Then came the crowning achievement of her brief career when the Wampas selected her as one of the lucky thirteen upon whom to bestow their favor for 1927.

At the present time Miss Phipps is starring in the "Midnight Kangaroo" a delicious comedy being made by Fox to whom she is under contract.

The Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. is most happy to have Miss Phipps present at the store's opening and cordially invites Santa Ana residents to call between 8:30 and 9:30 o'clock to meet her personally.

HEAD OF BRANCH HERE IS GRATEFUL

In reference to the opening of the new Wurlitzer music store at 420 West Fourth street tomorrow, Thomas Cave, local manager says, "I want to thank Santa Ana merchants and citizens in general for the wonderful spirit of welcome shown me and my organization from the very first moment we announced our intention of permanently locating here.

"We certainly shall strive to make the service we render this community an expression of our appreciation for the wonderful cooperation we have received."

The formal opening of the new store is announced as taking place from 8 until 10 p. m. tomorrow evening although the store will be open for business tomorrow morning at 8:30 o'clock. It has been predicted that one of the greatest crowds ever to witness the opening of a store in Santa Ana will be in attendance.

TAKE OVER PLANT

HANKOW, March 18.—The Cantonese labor union has taken over the British Cigaret company's factory. This was done because the company refused to accede to a demand by the workers for an increase in pay.

NO MIDDLEMAN TO CUT INTO PROFITS

"Direct from factory to home" is one of the national selling slogans of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Co. Few if any national music organizations enjoy the distinction of being manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer of a complete line of musical instruments. Among the great Wurlitzer factories are the grand piano factories at De Kalb Ill., and North Tonawanda, N. Y. Other Wurlitzer factories are located in Elkhart, Ind., Chicago, Ill., and at other points.

Wurlitzer is among the best known trade names in the country today and the firm is listed as one of the biggest national advertisers in the entire music industry. Wurlitzer pianos and other musical instruments are nationally advertised and nationally priced.

MELBA WILL SING

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 18.—When the Duke of York opens the federal parliament at Cannaberra May 9 on the occasion of the official inauguration of the new capital, Dame Nellie Melba, noted singer, will lead in singing the national anthem.

THE LIFE OF CHRIST Jesus: Loving and Beloved

SKETCHES BY KROESEN

At Nain, Jesus met the funeral procession of the only son of a widow, and touching the bier restored the young man to life. (Luke VII : 11-15)

John the Baptist sent two disciples to ask Jesus, "Art thou he that should come? Or look we for another?" (Luke VII : 19)

Jesus told them to tell John how he was healing the sick and restoring the dead to life. (Luke VII : 22)

While Jesus was the guest of Simon the Pharisee, a sinful woman washed his feet with her tears and anointed them with ointment. Simon was scandalized, but Jesus said, "Her sins which are many are forgiven." (Luke VII : 36-50)

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

(REAO THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinymites enjoyed their meal, and Clowny said, "Well, now I feel like taking quite a cozy nap, out there beneath the sun." The man who fed them laughed aloud and then replied to all the crowd, "'Tis better, after eating, if you exercise and run."

So, all the bunch jumped up to play, but Clowny found a pile of hay and said, "I'll just flop down a while. I'm much to tired to stand. I think right here's where I belong. Now please don't let me sleep too long." And, as he stopped his talking, he was lost in slumberland.

The rest played 'round an hour or two, and then the first thing that they knew, they, one by one, began to feel their eyes grow very weak. At first it started quite a fuss. Then Scouty said, "Why, what ails us is that we've simply grown too tired. A nap we'd better sneak."

They joined poor Clowny in the hay just at the end of this bright day, and everybody slept real sound until the break of dawn. When morning came they all arose and quickly dusted off their clothes. They stopped to thank Tom's father, then the Tinymites were gone.

They walked along the road 'til noon. 'Twas day, of course, but even so, the moon was in the sky. Their eyesight had to be real keen, or else the moon could not be seen. It's often faint in daytime, but you'll see it if you try.

And then they came upon a cat. He had a fiddle and he sat a-playing funny music while the queer cow did her trick. And then wee Scouty stopped to shout, "This cow and cat we've read about, in Mother Goose's Nursery Rhymes. I think them very slick."

by EDNA KENT FORBES

JEWELRY

Fortunately, there is much latitude given to the word "jewelry" at the present time. It is now somewhat of a frivolous accessory and just another way to add color; however, if you own a jade, a cornelion, an amethyst, or any other beautiful old string of these semi-precious stones, you have a possession that should be made the most of at this time.

Most of these strings are too short to count much for display just now., but their length can be almost doubled by having them restrung with a cord of their own color and a knot between each bead. An interesting pendant, which may not be costly, may be found in most curio shops, and the length increased again this way.

A nice idea is to follow up the color of any of these necklaces, and repeat it in your clothes, or in ways of decoration. You can duplicate the colors of these beads throughout all materials, and even in leather, so belts, bags, ties, will all help out in the effect, giving variety to what would otherwise be a very plain outfit.

Never wear cheap beads for they ruin everything else. You can get very artistic necklaces now that do not flaunt themselves as being precious, but nevertheless they are beautiful and their metal-work suggests real craftsmanship. Among these there is nothing lovelier than crystal, and if you must have but one necklace choose this, for it can be worn equally well with dark serges or rich materials.

Avoid earrings unless you have a classic profile, and even then keep them for very dressy occasions.

wool understockings that come to be worn under the silk.

A hot water bag will keep your feet warm through the night.

The stew of mutton with vegetables is ideal for the fireless cooker and in lieu of the fireless a large double boiler can be used. The whole meal is planned for the convenience of the cook after an afternoon "out." If she washes her endive in the morning and puts it in a tightly covered pail her only work at dinner time is to make the bacon dressing, set the table and serve the meal.

Tomato Omelet

Four eggs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons hot water, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 cup hot tomato puree.

Beat yolks of eggs with salt and pepper until thick, gradually add hot water, beating until mixture is thick. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into yolks. Melt butter in frying pan turning pan to completely coat with butter. The pan should be hot but not hot enough to discolor the butter. Pour omelet mixture into pan and cook over a moderate fire for eight minutes. Place in hot oven for two minutes. When firm to the touch the omelet is done. Spread over top of omelet hot canned tomatoes well seasoned and rubbed through a strainer.

TRY VAMPING YOUR CHILD!

It was about half past three in the afternoon of a dark, rainy day. I had dropped in unexpectedly to visit a friend and found her in an old dress and gingham apron, polishing furniture.

"I'm so very, very glad to see you!" she cried. "It's a wonderful day to sit by the fire and chat. Sit down, won't you, and look over a magazine while I run up and dress. I'll only be a few minutes."

"Oh, don't dress!" I begged. "You are all right. No one will see you but me and I've seen you mussed up before. Wash your hands and take off your apron and come and sit down. I'm dying for a good gossip."

"I must dress," she said firmly, looking at the clock. "It's almost time for the children to be home from school."

"The children!"

"Yes! I always dress for them. I want to look as pretty as I can when they come. You see—I—I—sort of vamp them," she said, with a conscious flush. "I don't want my girl and boy to learn to think of me as just Mother, a useful piece of furniture that makes life comfortable and helps them with their lessons. I want them to think me the most—or almost—the most beautiful thing in the world. It's all ttle conceit of mine. perhaps a little cowardice. Call it what you like, but I can't help thinking that when women lose their children's interest and love, it is often their own fault."

She went up and fixed her hair and put on a red dress. When the children came in they cried, "Oh, mother! How pretty you look. We love that dress. And won't you always wear your hair that way?"

I've thought about that episode a lot since. Why not vamp our children? I think it's a fine idea. They take such pride in us and need we always be commonplace to them? Sometimes yes! But when we're old, won't it be nice to hear them say, "My mother has always been the loveliest woman I ever knew."

"Just Folks" by Edgar A. Guest

TREES ON SECOND AVENUE

So many motors up and down
Go rushing day by day
The trees we planted, as a town,
The city cuts away.

Those great arms grew until at last
Their fingers seemed to meet
To shelter everyone who passed
Along that lovely street.

In June the song birds twittered there
In autumn all who strolled
Along that peaceful thoroughfare
Walked 'neath an arch of gold.

But progress strode into our town
And talked of greater things
Of population and renown
And all that commerce brings.

And beauty sickened in the smoke
And loveliness turned pale,
The elms and maples seemed to choke
In that on rushing gale.

Today the lovely elms are down,
"We need their room," they say,
The trees we planted as a town,
The city cuts away.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

By ALLENE SUMNER

"There's entirely too much silly dish-washing," says Rosa Lewis, greatest cook of Great Britain, they say—the lady who has found the way to such famous stomachs as those belonging to King Edward, King George, the Prince of Wales, the Kaiser, et al. Rosa, story has it, ordered a half chicken, an artichoke, toast and coffee in a New York hotel—yes, we have her with us today—and the waiter brought her what she ordered, along with a ladle, seven dishes and a saucer, and 17 pieces of silver.

Rosa sent back four dishes, the saucer, two forks, two spoons, two knives and the ladle. The saucer especially peeved Rosa. "Of course if you folks drink from a saucer!" And I'm for Rosa. I fed shrimp wiggle from a chafing dish, hot rolls, olives, sherbet and cake and coffee to 6 people last night, and we had 93 different objects to wash. Curses!

SEAT SIZES

Can you get along with a 16-inch seat? If you can't, you'd best look not upon the tutti-frutti ice cream when it is tutty, for they do say that pretty soon there'll be a law permitting us to sit on only 16 inches' worth of space in public—that means in street cars, theaters, churches, movies, mebbe even in taxi cabs.

It began in London. The Ministry of Transport decreed that 16 inches was enough for anybody, and if not, why not? The Ministry recalled that when King Edward VII was crowned in Westminster Abbey 16 inches was all the seat space the onlookers drew. If then, why not now? The answer might be "But they did not eat whipped cream and oil dressings in those days!" One reason why there are civil wars!

SHEEP AND GOATS

Men must sit on one side of the church, women on the other, according to a rule of the new First Methodist Church of Revere, near Boston. No doubt the brethren fear the distractions of sex appeal if the frails and stalwarts sit together. But here's wagering that self-consciousness induced by the separation will cause many more minds to leave the sermon than if the congregation sat according to the usual practice.

Oh, well, if the sleuths don't find it, Irving can sit himself down some night after supper and write a little song called "Wrist Watch Blo-o-es" and get his wifie a brand new one, maybe with bracelet and ring to match. And I don't doubt that when the nose is nicely healed and everything, "the little woman" will brag about her jealous husband, who loved her so much!

MUGS AND ANKLES

Millions for faces but not one cent for ankles are spent yearly by American women,' say "figgers." And someone remarks, "What folly! when men look at an ankle before a face." We will have a revival of that old question—do women dress to please women or men? Only the question now goes — do women "pretty up" their faces to please women or men?

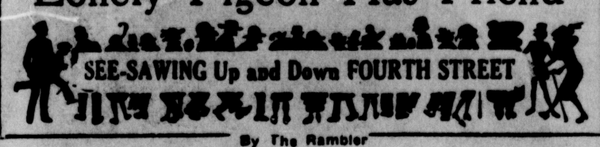
Mabee Has Real Grievance

FAMILY'S FORSAKEN CLOCK 'COMES TO LIFE'

Lonely Pigeon Has Friend



By The Rambler

Jack Mabee, well known Santa Ana automobile dealer, has a real grievance.

Jack was one of the countless thousands who attended the Coulter-forth Handicap last Sunday and also was listed among the 150 or more who ran afoul of John Law on their way back through Orange county.

According to the traffic gendarmes who ticketed him, Mabee was scurrying along the highway at a speed of 65 miles an hour.

Being a prominent member of our citizenry, the facts having to do with Mabee's detainment and his subsequent acceptance of summons interested the men with noses for news and the story was given a "play" in the papers.

"Hey!" Monsieur Mabee exclaimed. "Where do they get that way?"

Mabee spread the paper before his auditors.

"Can you tie that?" he continued with emphasis. "Here I romp along that old highway to the tune of 75 miles per kitty and the darned cop and the newspapers only bill me for 65. That isn't such a good 'ad' for my Paige. Anybody that ever owned one knows that a Paige can turn better than 65 any old day. What a fine how-do-you-do that is."

Everytime Roger Dunning, 1022 West Pine street, foreman of the Santa Ana city sewer department, hears the monotonous toll of an old clock, a spooky feeling comes over him—and not without good reason.

This memoir dates back to a time some 35 years ago when Dunning was a lad in Madisonville, Ohio.

The Dunnings owned a clock that had been imported from England many years before. It was an old-fashioned instrument, with wooden wheels and weights suspended at the end of long cords.

When the clock went out of commission one day, it was relegated to the family junk heap—stowed away in the family basement.

Almost a year later, the Dunning household was aroused out of sound slumber one morning at 1 o'clock. A terrible commotion emanated from the basement. Dunning's father rushed to the cellar to locate the trouble and, for all he knew, to catch a burglar.

But it was only the old imported clock that had suddenly, and without warning, "come to life."

As Dunning's father prepared to leave the basement the old clock struck once—a single stroke, designating the hour of one, which it was

Ten minutes later, a messenger arrived at the house with information that a sister-in-law of A. G. Dunning, father of the Santa Ana man, had died exactly at 1 o'clock.

A Homing pigeon, temperamental and lonely, is one of the best friends of W. A. Strong, proprietor of the popcorn and peanut stand in front of the Smoke house, 314 North Main street.

The pigeon is unnamed, unowned and, as far as anyone knows, has no abode other than a nest atop the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings bank from where all day long he bobs his head from side to side and watches the stream of humanity ebb and flow through the city's chief arteries.

Homeless, companionless and, undoubtedly, "pigeon penniless," the Homer has little to compensate him unless, unlike his native ituition, he derives pleasure and satisfaction from watching throngs pass beneath his station.

Once daily, however, the brown bird knows the meaning of kindness and happiness.

At a certain hour each morning, the pigeon establishes himself on the rim of the banking structure, watches intently for Strong to make his appearance on the street and then flutters down to the sidewalk where he shyly plucks peanuts from the open hand of his only friend.

Other persons, pedestrians especially, have attempted to feed the bird but always with disastrous results as the pigeon will flap back to his post above the financial district—and wait until the coast is clear and his friend comes to the curb again with more peanuts.

200 Athletes from 15 Prep Institutions Scheduled to Send Representatives

Santa Ana high school remained a slight favorite today to annex premier honors in the sivth annual Southern Counties Interscholastic track and field meet, scheduled for Huntington Beach tomorrow afternoon, as Coach Harry Sheue and other Huntington Beach officials labored late to get everything in readiness for the classic.

HAHN IS NEAR MILE MARK IN WIN OVER WIDE

NEW YORK, March 18.—Edvin Wide, Swedish distance runner, ran against the hands of a clock in an attempt to set a new world record for the mile at Madison Square garden last night, but Lloyd Hahn, Boston A. A., ran against a man. Hahn won.

The American miler finished nearly a dozen feet ahead of the Nordic school teacher and just one-fifth of a second behind the world record for the indoor mile—4 minutes, 12 seconds flat, held jointly by Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray. Hahn's time was 4:12 1-5.

Wide, who had set down in advance the speed he planned to make for each quarter mile, failed to stick to his schedule and discovered too late that Hahn was showing his heels too far ahead for a Swedish sprint to overtake him.

Hahn might have broken the record had he put on more speed in the middle of the race, but he stuck to the rule of the track and figured the man h had to beat and not the time he had to do it in.

Ray Dodge, Illinois A. C., won a special 880 yard run in 1:59 1-5.

INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE TO WORK FOR OWN GROUNDS AND EQUIPMENT HERE THIS YEAR

That Santa Ana's indoor baseball season will be operated under a different organization this summer than last and that the schedule will be materially abbreviated was indicated at a meeting last night of spokesmen for organizations that were represented in the city league in 1926. No concrete action was taken but a committee was elected to act for the entire league in preparing for a renewal of the popular evening pastime.

The committee will wait on the executive committee of Santa Ana post No. 131, American Legion, which sponsored the association of teams through the entire season last year, and endeavor to reach an agreement that will be satisfactory to all concerned.

Indoor ball enthusiasts who attended the pow-wow were appreciative of the systematic and business-like way in which the leagues were conducted in 1926 but it was the concensus that the city needs a strictly indoor baseball organization if the sport is to continue to make headway here.

Will Build For Future

Such an organization, it was pointed out, could handle the financial side of the activity through its managers and begin building for the future so that in time, probably within five years, the league could own its own diamond and all of its equipment.

Money that was cleared last summer reverted to the American Legion post and the league has absolutely nothing to show for its work.

Approximately $300 was turned over to the World war veterans, it was understood. The enthusiasts at the meeting let it be known that they were glad to co-operate with the Legionnaires but all concerned, most of whom were members of the local post, felt that little was accomplished for the future of the game.

Co-operate With Legion

The committee will attend the next meeting of the Legion's executive committee, explain the situation and outline plans for the future so that the league's attitude will not be mistaken. The indoor baseball association had no agreement with the American Legion relative to this season's play, it was shown, but wants to make clear its position in hoping to upbuild the activity and at the same time to explain that it has no complaint with the post over the management of the 1926 season.

Those at the meeting were unanimous in declaring that the season was too long last summer and that a schedule, beginning late in May or early in June and concluding in September, would be more satisfactory to players and fans alike.

SEMI-PRO ACES FACE REPUBLIC SUPPLIES NEXT

Semi - professional baseball's choicest deceiver, Dave Salazar, will be seen in action at Huntington Beach Sunday afternoon when Joe Rodgers leads his Republic Supply company club against the highly touted White Mysteries at the Ocean boulevard ballwick.

The White Mysteries, sponsored by the White King Soap company, are reputed to be the fastest things in Southern California semi-pro ranks and will take the lot a hot favorite to play havoc with Rodger's men who have lost only twice in something like their last 20 starts.

Salazar is a veteran as years go but he can still baffle the youngsters with his hard ones and his sinkers. Onlyc last Sunday he bested "Wheezer" Dell in a 5 to 2 pitching duel at Arcadia, establishing the Mysteries as unofficial semi-pro monarchs of this section.

Salazar's battery mate is Dave Skiles, another old-timer of parts. Irvine ball fans will remember this combination as chief participants in a 1 to 0 game between El Monte and Irvine that went 12 innings before El Monte, with Salazar in the turrent, won.

CLUB FLAG TOURNEY WON BY MRS. BOWN

Mrs. H. L. Bown reached the nineteenth hole at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday and it entitled her to first place in the women's flag tournament. Her margin of victory was one foot over Mrs. Ed Holmes, whose final putt stopped that distance from the cup on the same hole. Mrs. O. A. Jacobs was third.

Mrs. Bown had a 40 handicap and Mrs. Holmes played with 48.

L. A. CLUB TEAM TO MEET GOLDEN BEARS

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—The Los Angeles Athletic club Mercuries will start northward tonight, to engage the University of California Golden Bears at Berkeley tomorrow.

Whether Charley Paddock, the "fastest human," will compete in the sprints is a matter of conjecture, as "will and won't" statements have been the order of the day of late. Paddock, however, is billed as a member of the Mercury relayists and in this post should give his followers in the bay district their required thrill.

ORANGE LEAGUE MAGNATES MEET TONIGHT

ORANGE, March 18.—Indoor baseball enthusiasts today were requested by Claude Potter, American Legion post commander, to meet with the Legion athletic committee in the Legion hall tonight to discuss the formation of an indoor baseball league for the coming summer season.

The meeting is called for 7:30 o'clock. Team representatives and other interested parties are expected to attend.

A new problem which must be solved before the league can get under way is the playing field location. The high school field is to be sown to turf during the summer months and will not be available it was reported.

Cobb's Temper Flares, Macks Lose by Forfeit

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18.—Ty Cobb's temper flared in an exhibition game between the Boston Braves and his new club, the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Athletics were leading in the fourth inning when Cobb was ordered off the field by the umpire. He refused to leave and the game was forfeited to the Braves.

The Braves didn't care about accepting a forfeit and the clubs agreed to play another contest. Thus the first three innings were thrown out and they started over again.

SHADE K. O. WINNER OVER TILLIE HERMAN

CHICAGO, March 18.—The attempt of Dave Shade, California middleweight, to ascend to the championship, was one step farther along today following his knockout of Tillie ("Kid") Herman last night.

Shade proved without doubt that he had overcome the effects of pneumonia which forced him out of fighting for more than a year.

Starting in the first round with his catlike tactics of weaving back and forth, shooting hard lefts and rights, Shade pummeled Herman through every round. Herman was in distress in the second round and in the next four rounds he took one of the worst beatings of his life. When the seventh round was called Herman failed to respond and Shade was awarded the fight on a technical knockout.

SQUEEZE PLAY ENABLES POLY TO WIN AGAIN

A perfectly executed squeeze play in the eighth inning of a game with the Garden Grove baseball team enabled John Secrest, Santa Ana high school second sacker, to score the run that won, 12 to 11, for Poly here yesterday, chalking up another victory on the perfect score sheet of Coach Bill Foote's ball club.

Santa Ana's chances to win that game were slim at the end of the second inning when the Garden Grove team held a 9 to 0 lead.

Jordan was the starting Poly deceiver but the Grovers smacked his curves so effectively that he was replaced by Wendell Vance at the end of the second round. The nephew of the famous "Dazzy" toiled the next three frames, holding the visitors to one run. Then Coach Foote sent Jack Blakeney, his prize portsider, to the mound for the last two spasms. The victory was officially credited to Blakeney.

Bomo Koral, third base custodian, started the hitting spree that enabled the home guards to overcome the aliens' long lead. Koral came up for his licks with the hassocks choked in the third and rode a fast ball against the left field screen, inches short of a homer.

Warren Sullivan, shortstop, poked one of Natland's slants over the right field wall for a round trip to third.

When the Santa Ana ball players came up for their knocks in the last of the seventh, the score was tied, 11 to 11. Secrest and Blakeney walked. Secrest advanced to third on an error and when Orville Schuchardt laid one down he had little difficulty in romping over the rubber.

MANY SCHOOLS IN COUNTY TO SEND ATHLETES

Young Paddocks to Vie in Junior, Midget, Senior, Intermediate Divisions

Future Charley Paddocks, Paavo Nurmis and Harold Osbornes, 400 strong, making up in ambition what they lack now in dimensions, will parade into the calcium glare here tomorrow afternoon in the largest and most pretentious athletic event of its kind ever attempted in Orange county.

This, the annual Orange county grammar school track and field meet, will be conducted at Poly field, beginning at 1 p. m. Four meets will be carried on simultaneously and every effort will be made to complete the card at a reasonable hour. No admission fee will be charged.

The addition of competitive events in the midget class, making provision for the smaller lads, will swell the entry list by almost 100, it is believed.

Many Cities Enrolled

The bulk of the athletes will hail from Frances E. Willard and Julia C. Lathrop junior high schools in Santa Ana, Garden Grove, Huntington Beach, Anaheim, Orange, Fullerton and Tustin but boys also are expected from San Juan Capistrano, Brea, Cypress, Buena Park, Orangethorpe and numerous other small centers.

Each school is limited to three entries in the dashes of each division, and to two entries in the field events of each division, so officials will be able to conduct the meet with celerity.

More boys compete in this annual county grade school classic than in any other sporting event during the entire school term. By grouping the lads in four different divisions—midget, junior, intermediate and senior—it is possible to arrange them against athletes of their own ability rather than overmatch them as was often the case at similar contests years ago.

Five Events to Division

Each division will be limited to five competitive events including the relays.

Seniors and intermediates enter the 70 yard dash, basketball throw for distance, high jump, broad jump and a 420-yard relay in which each of six runners negotiates 70 yards.

Juniors and midgets compete in the 50-yard dash, broad jump, high jump, soccer throw for distance and a 300-yard relay in which each of six runners travels 50 yards.

HELEN WILLS BACK ON TENNIS COURTS

PASADENA, March 18.—Helen Wills, America's queen of netdom, returns to major competition today in the Hotel Huntington tournament.

The Berkeley girl, forced to relinquish defense of her national title last summer on the advice of physicians, appears in excellent condition for the singles and doubles play.

Miss Wills told the United Press that she had definitely decided to follow art as a career, spending considerable time yesterday in viewing the collection of famous original paintings in the Huntington galleries.

Following a visit to a film studio, Miss Wills denied that she would forsake her art and tennis for a career under the klieg lights.

Joe Wilhoit, while playing with the Wichita Western league club in 1919, set a new world's batting record by hitting safely in 69 consecutive games.

Forty-five years back, George Gore of the Chicago Nationals stole seven bases in a ball game. That was in 1881.

Thirteen years later, to be exact, August 31, 1894, Billy Hamilton, the Ty Cobb of his day, who holds the record of 115 bases stolen during a season, equalled the record set by Gore. He played for Philadelphia against Washington.

Hamilton's performance of stealing seven bases in one game is 33 years old. Since he gave that sensational exhibition of baserunning, no modern player has threatened the mark except Eddie Collins.

That may occasion considerable surprise to a lot of the fans, who perhaps do not now consider Collins a speed merchant. True, his legs have gone back on him, and today he would be called slow, but baseball has had few greater baserunners than Eddie Collins.

Twice has Collins stolen six bases for a modern record. Both performances came late in the season of 1912. Playing for Philadelphia against Detroit on September 11, he first threatened the record mark. On September 22 against St. Louis he repeated the trick.

"I came within a whisker of equaling the record of seven stolen bases in one of those two games," remarked Collins to me recently.

"Which one I cannot say. However, one play on which I was called out was very close. I didn't think I was touched but the umpire did and that settled it.

"Had I been declared safe, as after events proved, I would now share the baserunning record for a single game with Gore and Hamilton."

Bear and Breeding are considered almost certain winners. Poly hopes for its speedy captain to race to victories in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes and for Breeding to crack Carnahan's 4:44 Southern Counties meet record in the mile.

Breeding After Record

Breeding negotiated the four lap grind in 4 minutes, 33 5-10 seconds at Glendale Wednesday and is in perfect condition to take a crack at the Carnahan mark. If the weather is clear and there is no wind for him to fight, it is believed he will better 4:40 and possibly cut his own record down to near 4:30.

Bear was clocked in 10 seconds flat in the Glendale meet and if he repeats that performance tomorrow he will break Virgil Elliot's meet 100 yard mark by a tenth of a second.

The Moffat brothers, the Jacques brothers, Ted Stephenson, Wylie Carlyle and Roger Hearn also are counted on to help swell the Poly point total.

The Huntington Beach track is in excelent condition and there will be nothing to stop wholesale record assaulting, barring bad weather, in the opinion of Sheue.

The meet will begin at 1 p. m.

LOCAL HOCKEY GIRLS DEFEAT SEASIDE TEAM

Scores made by the Misses Gayle Baldwin and Sherrill Spurgeon in the first of the inter-school hockey matches of the Orange county circuit enabled Snta Ana high school's girl team to decisively defeat Huntington Beach at Huntington Beach yesterday. The final score was 10 to 0. Of that total the two Poly girls each accounted for four goals.

At the close of the inter-class hockey games, Miss Alverda West, coach, cut the hockey squad and selected a team to represent the Poly institution against other schools. Virtually two complete elevens were used in the game with Huntington Beach.

Miss Virginia Brannon, who was elected captain, was one of the stars of the offense. On the defense, the Misses Janet Wilson and Alberta Broomell performed conspicuously.

Santa Ana scored in every quarter. The first quarter ended with Santa Ana in possession of two goal points and that lead was increased gradually. In the third quarter, Miss Baldwin alone drove four scores into the Huntington Beach enclosure.

The team that was started by Miss West consisted of Huston and Baldwin, wings; Cone and Brannon, foward insides; Spurgeon, center; Pea, Nicholson and Prichard, halfbacks; Broomell and Bagley, backs and Ford, goal.

BRIEFS from the TRAINING CAMPS

AVALON, Catalina Island—Coach Mike Doolan accompanied by the Chicago Cub rookies directed their course toward San Diego today, where the yannigan aggregation is billed to appear Sunday in an exhibition game. Reports that Manager Joe McCarthy is ready to wield the axe have caused both rookies and regulars to work overtime in making a convincing showing.

LOS ANGELES—Manager Marty Krug was to send either "Doc" Wright or Rube Yarrison against the Chicago Cubs today in the exhibition game at Wrigley field. The Angel pilot announced that his twirlers are in condition to work the whole nine innings in this week's games, but in the event that all goes well he will hold the opening slabster down to five innings.

SANTA MONICA—Manager Oscar Vitt and his Hollywood Stars looked over the Angel-Cub clash today at Los Angeles, the former aggregation as a seasonal foe, and the latter as rivals in an exhibition contest Sunday.

CALISTOGA—George Boehler and Leo Dickerman, of the Oaks, opposed each other in a regular-yannigan practice game yesterday and engaged in a mid-season mound duel. Each allowed but six hits, but Boehler of the regulars wont out when Shinners doubled, took third on Reese's bunt and scored on Valla's single.

SAN JOSE—"Doc" Prothro, Portland's slugging third baseman, has signed his 1927 contract and as a result Tom Turner, Beaver owner, is breathing more freely. Prothro will take his first workout today in a game with the University of Santa Clara.

SAN FRANCISCO — The Seals made a clean sweep of the Denver exhibition series yesterday by winning the fourth game, 13 to 3. Roy Johnson, new Seal outfielder, rapped out a home run with the bases loaded.

SAN FRANCISCO—The Missions arrived today for a six-game series with Denver and Pittsburgh. Manager Bill Leard was confident the team would show greater hitting strength than it did a week ago against the Denverites. Eckert, Gregg and Christian were left in camp.

Don squad has been strengthened by the return of "Pete" Twist, sprinter, who has been out on account of illness.

The entire squad will make the trip. Athletes that Coach Harris is counting on to be point winners include Audrey ("Tiny") Reinhardt, Lon McIntire, Donald Squires, Gerald Twist, Ralph Rozelle, Ray Griset, Faris Edgar Lloyd Morris and Spencer Stewart.

GARY BUYS HOUSE

NEW YORK, March 18.—Having leased his Fifth avenue home for an apartment house, Elbert H. Gary has bought himself another private house on the same street. It is that of the late Maj. Willard D. Straight, built after his wedding to Dorothy Payne Whitney. The site alone is valued at half a million. Major Straight's widow, now Mrs. Leonard K. Elmhirst, refused higher offers from interests which desired to build another apartment house.

DEATH RECALLS FAMOUS COURT STRUGGLE HERE

The death, in Los Angeles, of Luther G. Brown, attorney, brings to the minds of old-time residents of the county a court case famous in the annals of early Orange county.

Brown, in the '90's, was a school teacher at El Modena. He and his father quarrelled with a neighbor, Murray, the village blacksmith. Brown struck Murray over the head with a shovel, inflicting a wound that all but brought death to Murray. Brown was tried on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to committ murder and was acquitted.

Leaving this county, Brown entered the practice of law in Los Angeles and became prominent in legal, educational and political affairs. At one time he was president of the Los Angeles board of education. He figured spectacularly in the defense of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, in San Francisco. The graft investigations and prosecutions brought Francis J Heney, who was shot in court; Hiram W. Johnson and Fremont Older, editor of the San Francisco Bulletin, into national prominence. These three were associated with the prosecution, an outstanding result of which was the conviction of Abe Ruef.

Brown was a member of the Jonathan club of Los Angeles. His mother lives in Glendale. He leaves two brothers and a sister. The funeral will be held in Whittier from the Friends church, of which he was a member. Brown died as the result of a fall down a flight of steps in his home in Los Angeles. He was 58 years old.

19 Are to Share Estate of $250

OAKLAND, March 18.—Nineteen heirs, 14 of them in the Azores, two in Massachusetts, two in Hayward, Calif., and two in Lemore, Calif., must divide the $250 estate of John Reposa, who died here on February 6, it was revealed when the will was filed. To make the division even more complicated, only $50 of the estate is in cash, the remaining $200 being in Kern county property. The law allows $20 for attorney's fees in Alameda county, another $20 in Kern county, and other necessary expenses in closing the matter may reduce the total to as little as $125, it is believed.

PROTEST FLOGGINGS

ATLANTA, Ga., March 18.—Georgia floggings have aroused church people of 81 congregations of that state to such an extent that an appeal has been made to the governor to bring those guilty to justice.

Southern California Gardens

By RUSSELL S. ADKINSON

Synopsis of Planting

The writer has been dealing with the various things to plant with the approach of the proper time for each, and it now appears that a review of the field is necessary.

To those not familiar with our plants and conditions, it may not be clear that some plants nave quite a wide range of time for planting, and as this is ideal weather a little information may be of value.

Fruit trees may still be planted, provided good stock can be obtained. There seems to be somewhat of a shortage this year, as the planting season has been in full swing for some time, naturally the supply is diminishing. The citrus fruits are a little more plentiful. Avocados will be very difficult to find.

The fact that roses are already established in cans in most nurseries makes it possible to plant them at any time. In order to obtain the best selection, it is advisable to choose them soon. With t few more days of warm weather it will be possible to select them in blossom, as many are budding now. Planted soon, you will receive the benefit of this year's bloom. A number of planters do not seem to realize that they will receive any benefit from roses the first year planted.

Should the party from whom you purchase your roses not have them established in cans, a little care should be exercised in handling. Both root and top growth will be appearing on a healthy bush and because of this should be well wrapped in wet paper or moss until ready to plant. Also a good watering at planting time is necessary.

Bedding Plants

The term bedding plants is used in various ways, but in general applies to those plants placed in beds within the garden for effect and flowers. Often the same plants are planted in borders or single rows. They may be either annual or perennial. Some of them are listed below as ready for immediate and future planting.

For sun or part shade, those available are:: Stocks, snapdragons, gaillardia, marigold, larkspur, carnations, pansies, violets, petunias, columbine, verbena, calendula, bachelor's button.

Hedges

All types of hedges and wind breaks can be planted at this time. A wonderful growth will be obtained this season if planted soon. The most important varieties are: Nepoleuse, privet, Japanese privet, Japanese boxwood, Monterey cypress, eucalyptus, and tamarix. For best results, the former three should be trimmed frequently.

Eucalyptus is very difficult to obtain at present and it seems that it will be at least 30 days before the present supply will be increased materially.

The tamarix will readily start from unrooted cuttings this month. Use a 12-inch cutting, inserting all but two or three inches in the ground.

Parking Trees

All types of parking trees may be planted to advantage now, as they are always balled or canned. Some varieties are scarce. The cocus plumosus probably will be difficult to obtain for four or six weeks yet, when the annual digging of them begins. They are grown by but few nurseries and they usually take out the quantity that is sold during the year just as they begin the season's growth.

Shrubs

Practically every shrub that is used in Southern California can be transplanted now with good results. There is such a large field of the berried and flowering shrubs as well as those with foliage value, that I shall not attempt to enumerate them at this time.

REVIVAL OF KNEE BREECHES URGED

PARIS, March 18.—Now that the feminine world of fashion has decreed that the short skirt has come to stay along with bobbed hair, there is a movement among men of fashion to abolish the trousers and revert to the knee breeches of our great grandfathers. If women have gained by cutting half a yard of the bottom of their skirts, these Beau Brummels argue, why should men persist in wearing pantaloons which make their legs look life an elephants?

It is interesting that the world "pantaloons," regarded generally as being of ancient French lineage, did not acquire French naturalization until less than a century ago, about 1830. It came from a personage in popular Italian comedies named Doctor Pantalon, who was supposed to live in the San-Panteleone quarter of Venice. He was always depicted as a drunken debauchee, wearing enormous trousers entirely covering his shoes. Previous to the entry of the word 'pantalon" into French the knee breeches were known as "culottes de hussard," or huzzar trousers brought into fashion by the Hungarians.

Men who could not boast of well formed calves welcomed the new garment. Advocates of a change to the old style point out that women were courageous enough to adopt the short skirt even though some of them did not possess sightly limbs as others. They ask if men are not brave enough to do the same.

CAMPAIGN OPENS

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—Inauguration of a campaign by the state department of agriculture to insure that all cheese sold in California is up to the standards required by the dairy laws has been announced by Dr. J. J. Frey, chief of the bureau of dairy control.

CONGRESSMAN SEES SUCCESS FOR DAM BILL

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—"The Boulder dam will pass the next session of congress," was the message brought to both houses of the legislature yesterday afternoon by Congressman W. E. Evans, of Glendale.

The upper house called a recess of five minutes to hear Congressman Evans' report on the Boulder dam situation. He said that although the cloture vote was unfavorable, the fight was a success and that much progress was made by proponents of the measure.

"There is enough strength in both houses of congress right now to pass the bill," said Evans. "The Boulder dam bill is the most talked of measure in Washington and will get an early vote at the next congressional session."

Among the bills passed in the senate yesterday were the following:

Kline bill, allowing county water district director salaries and expenses, to meet a particular condition in Riverside county.

Baker bill, including a record of all known previous offenses instead of two former convictions in indictments or information.

FORBID BOBBED HAIR

MANILA, March 18.—The provincial board of Occidental negros province has adopted a resolution forbidding bobbed hair and European dress for the women there. The board demanded a return to Filipino styles as "more modest."

Promotion hadn't always passed by

HE COULD remember when the whole office had called him "the coming man." . . . What a difference now! He was barely getting along! His pep, his energy, all his old-time fight were gone. His prospects shattered! What had happened?

Constipation is the cause of much unhappiness and ill-health. It wrecks strength. It saps vitality. It sickens the mind and body! Yet, it can be relieved—yes, prevented! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring safe relief—prompt prevention!

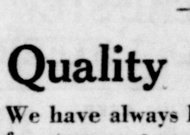
Why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the intestines—at the same time it gently distends them, purifying, removing wastes and poisons. In a part-bran product the quantity of bulk is usually too small to be effective. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN—because it is 100% bran.

No need to risk habit-forming drugs!

How different is ALL-BRAN from drugs and pills—whose dose must be constantly increased to remain effective! ALL-BRAN is delicious with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Let it soak a few moments to bring out its full crisp flavor. Mix it with other cereals. In soups. Try the recipes on every package.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.



Don't risk part-bran substitutes. Insist on genuine Kellogg's — the original ALL-BRAN. Sold by all grocers. Served at hotels, cafeterias. On diners. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Individual Chicken Pies, each 25c

Um-m-m those tasty, delicious chicken pies are keeping us busy baking them.

If you have not tasted them, you have missed a very rare treat.

Tomorrow is another chicken pie day, and being Saturday, we will again triple our baking, but even at that we advise you to be here early or to phone and have them set aside for you.

It's the simplest thing in the world! There's only one requirement—and that's to know exactly what you want. In any canned food, quality is bought through knowledge—not by chance!

That's why it's so important—so really worth your while—to know the quality for which DEL MONTE stands and to see you get this brand.

On fruits, vegetables and many other prepared foods it stands for uniform, dependable goodness and flavor—the same advance assurance of satisfaction—the same high quality—no matter when or where you buy.

Be sure you say

SOLONS LEAVE EXPLAINING TO SECRETARIES

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Nearly all our congressional lawmakers have hied themselves away to rest from their labors, but there is no let-up for Washington's alibi squad.

The alibi squad is the secretarial corps, remaining in the senate and house office buildings.

The boys and girls were frightfully busy all through the session, answering constituents and others who sought to sway votes for some bill or other with the reassuring assertion that the senator or congressman was studying the measure carefully with the best interests of the home folks ever in mind.

Theoretically, they would have a chance to stop for breath following the lamented demise of that last congress, but actually they have enjoyed nothing of the sort.

What happened was that the senators and congressmen went away and left the secretaries to do the explaining. Under the circumstances attending the wind-up of the nation's affairs, on March 4, there are plenty of explanations to make.

Lots Of Inquiries

The mail bags that once contained requests and recommendations for legislation are now filled with inquiries as to what happened to this bill and that bill and if not, what the heck?

Some of the northwestern states know perfectly well what happened to the McNary-Haugen bill, but many of their citizens are writing to learn what became of the Norbeck seed-grain loan bill for benefit of drought-stricken regions. The mix-up is due to the fact that congress voted to appropriate and then didn't appropriate, the appropriation being lost when the deficiency bill was filibustered to death.

Numerous other appropriations similarly failed of provision and pensioners and other beneficiaries are frantically communicating with their representatives to find out where they stand. All departments of government were more or less affected by the filibuster and what makes the alibi squad's work so tough is that, in many instances, the departments don't know just how they're going to operate in the particular respect which the deficiency bill would have covered. The first days of figuring were rather chaotic.

It appears that the folks back home lose track of nearly everything that goes on here in the last few days of a session and then depend on the senatorial and congressional offices to give them a fill-in. A surprising number of queries is being received regarding the fate of the postal rate reduction bill, which was passed in different form by both houses and died because the conference report was only made at the last moment.

Broadcasters Panicky

Various broadcsting stations, becoming panicky lest they be forced out of business by the new radio commission, which must reduce the number of stations, are writing frantically to learn their chances for survival. The alibi squad, of course, can give them little information and is forced to fire back copies of the bill at them. The same treatment is given to bankers inquring regarding provisions of the new McFadden banking law, who are writing in large numbers.

Others—many of them with families in Europe—ask to be straightened out on any changes that may have been made in the immigration laws before congress quit.

On top of all this is the normal routine of requests for special information on particular subjects—the student who must write a theme, the housewife who must address the local woman's club on a matter of national portent next week, the man who wants to raise fur-bearing animals or poultry, debating societies which much have material to work with.

HUNTERS USE KITES

PIERRE, S. D., March 18.—Taking a leaf from "Bed Time Tales," hunters near here are employing kites in rabbit hunting. The kites are drawn over the territory being worked, frightening the animals before them until they enter the ambush of the marksmen. The bunnies mistake the kites, for large hawks, it is believed. Anyway hunters are reaping small fortunes from the sale of hiles gained in this way.

VIENNESE DYING OUT

VIENNA, March 18.—The Viennese are dying out because they don't want children. Gayety and intemperance are blamed for the fact that the death rate is 40 per cent more than the birth rate. Each year shows improvement in health statistics, but a still greater loss in births. Thirty-two thousand persons died last year, and there were only 23,000 births.

NEW PEST HITS WHEAT

WALLA WALLA, Wn., March 18.—A new weed pest, a native of Siberia that appeared first in 1924, has struck the entire wheat country of the northwest. It spreads rapidly and has such deep roots that eradication will prove difficult.

Sense vs. Nonsense

We make it a rule that our employees must be healthy before we hire them, but we do not require a doctor's examination any more than we ask an employe his or her political or religious affiliation.

It is against the religious belief of many good people to be examined by doctors.

People who are in the best of health sometimes have deformities, of which they are self-conscious, but which do not interfere with their daily employment.

Very few women would care to submit to a doctor's examination for satisfying of the whims of some employer.

This organization respects the political and religious beliefs of all its employees, regardless, and does not lay down arbitrary rules in the employment of its people that will conflict with any of their ideas of either.

Do you realize, madam, that 90% of all the merchandise in the modern retail grocery store today is packed in sanitary sealed packages?

Do you realize that there is no greater possibility of contamination from foodstuffs in sanitary packages and cans than there is in contamination from silks, calico and other dress goods?

We respect the profession of medicine, but we are not co-operating by setting up any barriers to employment with this company that will redound directly to their benefit.

If you are going to wait, madam, until you get some contagious disease from the articles you purchase in a Daley's Inc., store, believe me, you had better prepare now to live to a ripe old age!

Why not require a medical examination of our favorite household pets in the homes with our food—far more sensible, indeed.

WOMEN ATTEND SCHOOL: LEARN TO DRIVE NAILS

BALTIMORE, March 18.—There is an age-old tradition to the effect that no woman can drive a nail straight. The tradition leans to the idea that this is the fault of the woman and not the man.

But in Baltimore there is a group of women who are busily refuting this far-flung belief. They are not only driving nails with an accuracy and precision that has proven them quite equal to any man, but they have mastered other problems hitherto considered entirely a man's job.

These women are members of the class in household mechanics which meets every Monday afternoon at the Clifton Park high school, learning to give first aid to the injured water pipe, the broken electric iron, the chair that has collapsed with the weight of years—and members of the family.

Under Smith-Hughes Act

Fifty per cent of the expenses of the classes are born by the federal government, which maintains a fund for such vocational work under the Smith-Hughes act. Remaining expense has been assumed by the Baltimore public schools.

Every Monday afternoon these women learn the use of carpenters' tools. Chair caning is no secret to them and the dripping spigot is simply something that can and will be corrected without the expenditure of time by the local plumber and money by themselves.

Since November they have gone into the tin shop at the school and learned how to solder. Tin cookie cutters were in demand just before Christmas and each member of the class made cookies that had been cut by a little tin design she had fashioned by herself.

"One day last autumn my icebox sprung a leak," said one of students. "There hadn't been any instructions at that time in tin work and soldering, so I followed my usual course and called the plumber.

Fails to Find Leak

"He arrived and regarded the interior of the icebox with great gravity for a long time. He could not find the leak despite his lengthy peering. Then he decided he needed a candle to conduct his examinations and he had to go out and get the candle.

"As he had brought along a pair of overalls which he put on when he began the business of peering into the icebox, he had to take them off before he went for the candle—and put them on again before he did some more exploring. However, he discovered the leak. Then he had to go back to the shop to get the material necessary to its mending.

"Again were the overalls taken off and put on again. However, he finally got to work, to my great joy.

"But my happiness was premature. Suddenly he realized that it was time for his luncheon and he left my icebox flat. But after an hour and a half he returned and finished the job, having used more than one entire morning and about two square inches of zinc. Later I received a bill of $5 for the job.

"That is one of the things that can never happen again," she continued. "I know how to solder, I know how to mend my pots and pans, I know how to put on a washer and I know what to do to give first aid if the water pipes burst."

Can Cane Chairs

Among the various odd jobs the members of the class have learned to do is that of chair caning. This has proved quite valuable to one young women, who went rooting around her mother's cellar one day and discovered five old but valuable chairs badly in need of caning.

"It would have been expensive to have them done," she explained, "so I fixed them up myself, and now they are quite lovely."

A plain 10-cent wooden bowl is transformed through a knowledge of color and design into a thing suggestive of Mexican or Indian ware. A bit of paint changes a cheap bit of crockery into a lovely flower vase; narcissus bowls blossom where there was only a piece of indifferent glass.

"The idea is," explained the instructor, "to give women a practical working knowledge that will enable them to cut down expenses on the many little improvements and renovations that must constantly be made about the house and also to show them how to beautifuly their homes at a minimum of expense.

Program Elastic

"We have no cut-and-dried program and quite often the thing studied is something that has been suggested by an individual member of the class who has brought a certain problem to me.

"For instance, one of the students has an electric lamp that has been out of commission for some time. If she takes it to an electrician she will have to pay quite handsomely for having it gone over, when all it needs is tightening up.

"This will give us the opportunity to study the little things that go wrong with the electric system. We can learn how to wire a socket, to strip and wind the wires, make a fire underwriters' knot—in short, give expert attention to the things that must be done when the electric iron burns out."

Already the women of the class have a working knowledge of plumbing, including soldering, the use of carpenters' tools and of painting and chair caning. Following this it is planned to invade the mason's field and cements will be studied.

LIVES ON DIET OF RATS

NORRISTOWN, Mich., March 18—In a cave on the edge of a quarry near West Conshohocken, an Italian who goes by the name of "Joe" has been living for 12 years, undiscovered. When contractors began working a steam shovel near his abode, he crawled out and protested the intrusion. Police, investigating, found him in a primitive state, living on cats and rats.

In the semi-barbaric Malay Islands, chess is a favorite pastime. The game is played on boards carved on the floors of the village meeting houses.

EAT MEAT for HEALTH

This Family Eats Meat Three Times Every Day

There is at least one family in this country which has meat at every meal. That's Uncle Sam's family of 1100 cadets, in training to be future officers, at West Point, N. Y.

Ham, bacon or sausage are found on the breakfast menu, while for dinner there is either pork, veal, beef or the not-to-be-forgotten hash.

For any one meal, depending on the cut served, the finest of America's young manhood consume 750 lbs. of ribs of beef, 550-660 lbs. of pork loins or 650 lbs. of beefsteak.

The cost of the military institution's meat bill for one day is, for example, $107.94 for 514 lbs. of fresh ham and $63 for 350 lbs. of beef, or $170.94. On Thanksgiving Day the future generals declared war on 1236 lbs. of turkey, costing $693.16.

SANTA ANA FRATERNAL AND PATRIOTIC ORDERS

ST. PATRICK'S IDEA PREVAILS AT ELKS PARTY

A gilded harp, shamrock leaves, pipes, potatoes and other articles pertaining to St. Patrick's day were much in evidence Tuesday night when members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks gathered for the last dance and card party to be held under the regime of Exalted Ruler William McKay and his staff of officers.

The ballroom was well filled and much enjoyment resulted from the special dances planned by the dance committee, which included Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Abbey, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Johnson and Mr. an Mrs. Barney Crawford. Chapman's seven-piece orchestra provided the music.

Twelve tables had been arranged for bridge and 500 in the card rooms, where Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Rossiter, Mr. and Mrs. Park Roper, and Mr. and Mrs. Archie V. Herr were hosts. Mrs. Fred Lentz and F. R. Pitner held high scores in bridge, with Mrs. Pease and Mr. Glidden second. In 500, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marsile held high scores. Each received an attractive gift.

As midnight approached, serpentine was distributed among the dancers and paper hats among the card players and added to the merriment of the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. McKay aided in their guests' enjoyment of the evening as they proved their abilities as perfect hosts at making all the guests feel at home. Others on the reception committee were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Sleeper and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newcomb.

KNIGHTS, SISTERS HOLD CARD PARTY

Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters spent a pleasant evening recently when the Knights were guests of the Sisters at a card party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sanborn, of Tustin. The Sanborn home had been decorated with many baskets of spring flowers

Tallies and place cards displayed the St. Patrick motif.

Following an evening of 500, it was found that Mrs. Austin Wyatt and James Campbell scored high, with Mrs. J. A. Gardner and Mr. Woodbeck second, and Mrs. E. E. Frisby and J. A. Gardiner low. Attractive prizes were awarded.

It was announced that a pot luck supper for the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters would be held next Tuesday evening, 6:30 o'clock, in G. A. R. hall. Members of the lodge were requisted to bring one covered dish.

PRESIDENT IS HOST TO SHILOH CIRCLE

The officers of Shiloh circle, Ladies of the G. A. R., were entertained by their president, Mrs. Annie Arnold, of 405 South Birch street, Wednesday, at a St. Patrick's luncheon. The luncheon motif was apparent in the place cards, flowers, sprays of shamrock with tiny clay pipes attached and the small green snakes.

Following the luncheon the entire party accompanied by Arnold to the home of her neighbor, Mrs. Julia Garrison, who is a past president of Shiloh circle. Mrs. Garrison has been confined to her home for some time. Previous to her illness, she was a prominent worker in the organization.

Returning to the Arnold home, the guests spent the afternoon in sewing and chatting.

Guests included Mrs. A. Betz, Mrs. Arletta Phillips, Mrs. Mary Hardcastle, Mrs. Estelle Ludwig, Mrs. C. L. Chase, Mrs. Frank Blackeetr, Mrs. Edith Kneerl, Mrs. Mattie Conkle, Mrs. K. S. Hendricks, Mrs. Louise Potts, Mrs. June Dunning and Mrs. Kate Sutton.

Workman Led to Death by Bird

BULWAYO, South Africa, aMrch 18.—A honey bird recently lured a native workman at Nchanga to a deadly snake hidden in a tree. The snake struck the man who died within a few minutes.

This adds strength to the popular belief that the honey bird sometimes maliciously leads its victim to a lion, leopard or snake instead of a store of honey.

It is understood that the workman saw the bird fluttering from tree to tree and followed it in the hope of finding a store of wild honey.

Monument Will Mark Fort Site

PORTLAND, Ore., March 18.—A monument to old Fort William, in the form of a cutstone shaft, will be erected on the lower Columbia River highway near Burlington. The fort was established by Nathaniel Wyeth, who was attempting to save the Oregon country for the United States. Later he abandoned the fort, returned to Boston and made a vast fortune.

Following the initiation of the candidates, an Irish program was presented, which included a number of songs and several readings by Mrs. Flora Dolbee.

Refreshments of green ice cream, cake and coffee were served.

A number of the members remained after the adjournment for the meeting in order to enjoy a short dance, music for which was provided by Mrs. Joy, lodge musician.

DINNER HELD BY CAMP, AUXILIARY

St. Patrick's day was celebrated by members of Calumpit camp and auxiliary when they met last night in G. A. R. hall for a dinner, the main course of which consisted of Irish stew. Members who attended the dinner furnished the stew and other dishes on the menu were provided by the refreshment committee, headed by Mrs. Della Markwalder.

The Rev. Percy Wise Clarkson, rector of the Episcopal church, Orange, delivered an address as the principal number on the program. Other numbers included exhibitions of various phases of Boy Scout work presented by scouts, under the direction of Roland Dye, scout executive.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the auxiliary, the usual business session was held, when three new members were initiated.

Members of the auxiliary are planning to go to Watts, Tuesday night, March 22, when the Tom C. Galbraith camp will be host at a booster meeting, which will be attended by members from camps throughout this district. The department drum corps and auxiliary drill team also will be present.

Calumpit camp and auxiliary will give a card party, Saturday night, March 26, in G. A. R. hall.

MRS. ERICKSON GUEST OF HONOR

When Mrs. Margaret Erickson arrived at the home of Mrs. H. F. Towner Tuesday afternoon, she had no idea than that she was attending a regular meeting of the Women's Benefit association, so that it was with surprise that she found herself guest of honor. Following the usual business routine, the social, planned as a farewell courtesy by Mrs. Towner, Mrs. Margaret Culver; Mrs. Hattie Peters and Mrs. Pearl Nelson, was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Erickson are to leave Santa Ana soon for Medford, Ore., where they will make their home in the future. The Ericksons have resided in Santa Ana for many years.

Following an afternoon of sewing and chatting, members of the association presented Mrs. Erickson with a thermos bottle. Refreshments bespeaking the nearness of St. Patrick's day were served by the hostesses.

Those present included Mrs. Mary Schlasman, Mrs. Docia Jasper, Mrs. Anna Clark, Mrs. Alice English, Mrs. Etta Ericks, Mrs. Cora Wood, Mrs. Dora Spangler, Mrs. Lena Lacy, Mrs. Dixie Weekly, Mrs. Olive Lopez, Mrs. Mary Culver and Miss Evelyn Snodgrass.

HE TAUGHT CROOKS

LONDON, March 18.—A "university" for the higher education of cracksmen has been discovered in the east end of London, it is reported. A skilled locksmith, an elderly man with an excellent reputation, was hired to lecture at a sum considerably larger than the salary of the best professors in real colleges.

Lying, cheating and theft are practically unknown among the Eskimos.

DAUGHTERS OF GOLDEN WEST ARE HOSTESSES

Following the regular business meeting, Tuesday night, Santa Ana parlor No. 235, Native Daughters of the Golden West, entertained a large number of members and friends, including several Native Sons, at a St. Patrick party in El Camino hall, which was gaily decorated in green for the occasion.

Mrs. Marcelle Phillips was elected to membership and the application of May Salter, of Buena Park, was received.

The matter of changing the meeting place and the night of meeting was discussed and action will be taken at the next meeting, April 5, when all members are urged to be present. The chance will be made in order to take a hall with the Native Sons' parlor, in order to obtain greater co-operation.

Mrs. Stella Stiffler was chairman of the entertainment committee and the program included a number of Irish features. It opened with the singing of "Wearin' of the Grenn," by the company, accompanied on violins by Ruth Newman and Kathryn Copeland, with Mrs. Stiffler at the piano.

Miss Thelma Wilber sang "Old Erin," and Miss Melmoth Stanley, in Mexican costume, gave a lively dance. Miss Melba Harlin, as an Irish colleen, pleased with an Irish jig and the black bottom dance.

Mrs. T. N. Hubbard rendered "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," and "End of the World," and Miss Elizabeth Conklin gave some old-fashioned fiddling of well known airs.

The surprise of the evening came when Ernest Rubins, William Sundstryn, Bill Burke and Russell Daley arrived with their instruments and furnished excellent dance music. Refreshments were served.

Co-Eds Are to Let Locks Grow Long

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 18.—Co-eds at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, and the University of Missouri, Columbia, seem to be competing in letting the hitherto popular locks grow long again. Girls at both institutions started to let their hair grow, much to the disgust of tonsorial artists in both towns.

A recent check on the Missouri campus revealed that 60 per cent of the girls either had long hair or were "expecting to have in the near future.

Few persons ever heard of Queen Jane of England. Yet Lady Jane Grey was queen for 10 days in 1553.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist some Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful of powder or four tablets in water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acids and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powdered or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is said by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Adv.

DRY ISSUE MAY PLAY BIG PART IN CAMPAIGNS

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Prohibition may play a large part in the selection of presidential nominees of both political parties next year.

The Republican tussle over the issue will start in Boston April 8, when Senator William E. Borah, Republican, Idaho, champion of the drys, meets Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, New York, in formal debate.

To whip up sentiment on the issue for the 1928 presidential elections, Borah will set forth the dry position and demand a dry candidate, while Butler will espouse the wet cause from a party standpoint.

The Democrats already are scrambling for convention delegates and arguing over the dry question. The eastern wets are active on the stump, urging selection of a wet presidential nominee as the chief hope of the party. Dry Democrats in the senate, to counter this activity, have signed a formal resolution stating that prohibition is not and should not be an issue.

The wet wing of the Republican party, up to now, has been weak. Most of the Republican leaders throughout the country have been considered drys and the wet delegations from the east have made no attempt to start a party conflict over the question.

The situation in the Democratic party is almost the opposite. The leaders, Gov. Al Smith, New York; Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, Maryland, and Senator James A. Reed, Missouri are wets. The wet wing is not confined to the east, but includes several prominent western state leaders.

Opposed to this group is the following of William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, and a leading candidate in 1924. McAdoo according to politicians, has not clearly indicated a resumption of leadership of his old group and it is split between several men. There is, therefore, little possibility of a wet Republican nominee next year, but a better than even chance of a Democratic one, in the view of political prophets here.

Town Has Natural System of Sewers

REDMOND, Ore., March 18.—Redmond claims the distinction of being one of the very few communities in the world with a sewer system made by Mother Nature. Centuries ago lava caves were formed under the present site of Redmond. Now when a home owner wants a sewage disposal system he punches holes in the earth until a lava cave is located. Pipes are run into the cave and it serves as a natural septic tank.

CAMELS ONCE USED BY U. S. ARMY IN WEST

SALT LAKE CITY, March 18.—The U. S. army once had a camel "navy"?

Finding of the skeleton of a dromedary near Millard, Utah, recently, recalled the army's extremely unsuccessful venture in better transportation across the American deserts vit "ships of the desert."

When Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, was yet a member of the U. S. senate, he developed a "bug" on camels, visioning the animals would be a picturesque and valuable feature to the American desert.

Congress couldn't see it, but the idea appealed to popular imagination. People visioned swift camels carrying the mails to the railroadless Pacific from the east in record time, eliminating the long sea route around the horn.

When Davis became secretary of war, he sent an army major to Cairo to buy up a herd of camels. Cairo camel dealers, taking unfair advantage of the major's knowledge of the animal, unloaded a worthless number of mangy, flea-bitten camels at a high price. Later, however, the major had better luck in Smyrna.

Forty dromedaries were finally landed at a Texas seaport. They were used to haul military supplies from Texas to Arizona, and later their journeys took them into Southern California, Nevada, Utah and Colorado.

Each animal could carry more than 1000 pounds in provisions and military equipment, finding its own subsistence in even the most barren country, at the same time going without water for a week.

Then came the Civil war and the army neglected its camel "fleet." The herd was sold to two Frenchmen, who tried using them between Nevada points, without much success. The animals finally were turned loose as worthless. Left to shift for themselves, they roamed for several years over Utah, Arizona and Nevada, taking to the desert like ducks to water. One was reported to have roamed as far north as Virginia City, Nev. What eventually happened to them, no one knows.

Much Motorings Harmful to Dogs

PHILADELPHIA, March 18.—Overindulgence in "joy-riding" by dogs whose owners have automobiles has resulted in epidemics of conjunctivitis and rhinitis, it has been revealed through experiments at the University of Pennsylvania's veterinary school.

Conjunctivitis, Prof. William Lentz of the veterinary faculty explained, is inflammation of the mucous membranes of the eye socket, and rhinitis is inflammation of the membranes of the nasal passages. Both diseases attack motoring canines who expose themselves to a constant rush of air for long periods, Dr. Lentz said.

Boston bulls, pekingese and spaniels, with their large, protruding eyes and flat noses are far more susceptible to both diseases than are their long-nose brethren, such as the setter, collie, and police dog. The ordinary mongrel, without motoring friends, is virtually immune from the diseases, Dr. Lentz declared.

Grape Industry Is Described At Fresno Hearing

FRESNO, March 18.—Technicalities and a detailed description of the grape industry made yesterday's session of the interstate commerce commission's hearing on the grape car plan the most uninteresting of the hearing.

L. G. Haight, Fresno district manager of the California Fruit Exchange, called to the witness stand by the attorney for the Fresno County Farm bureau, an intervenor in behalf of the defendant railroads, testified at length on the grape industry.

The slow progress made may upset the expectations to complete the hearing this week.

SLEUTHS RAID BOOTLEG TOWN IN SWAMP LAND

NORFOLK, Va., March 18.—"Hidden City," bootleg metropolis concealed in an almost impenetrable wilderness of swamp land in Dare county, North Carolina, has fallen before an attack of federal prohibition forces.

Warned by outposts, stationed in high trees, overlooking the water approaches, the bootlegger inhabitants, however, escaped before three coast guard rum chasers, carrying more than a score of prohibition agents, could land the expedition. The raid of the stronghold, called by dry agents, the wettest spot on the Atlantic coast, nevertheless, proved successful in the destruction of several hundred gallons of liquor and twelve stills valued at more than $50,000.

The raiders returned to Manteo, N. C., suffering from hunger as the expedition, which lasted 10 days, had been caught in a blizzard without sufficient provisions.

Although the bootleggers made their escape into the nearby pathless morasses before the raiders landed, they evidently were but a few jumps ahead, for many of the stills were operating and hot.

The prohibition agents reported no attempt had been made to conceal the stills as the bootleggers were confident no raiding party would be able to enter the swamp land, many of them being set up on the banks of creeks plainly visible. Some of the stills were so large that the mash was heated in engine boilers, the smaller stills being equipped with empty gasoline drums for this process.

EUROPEAN TIME FOR U. S. URGED

BERKELEY, March 18.—"I'll meet you at 20:45 tonight. That will give us plenty of time to catch the 21:20 express."

Such a conversation would be common, if a suggestion made by Prof. Russell Crawford, astronomy department, University of California, is adopted in this country.

Professor Crawford is author of a book, soon to be published, in which he advocated the 24-hour time system now being used by most European countries. He asserted that the American system is confusing, and recommended that the continental plan be made universal.

It would, he said, save time, expenses, and eliminate the confusion of distinguishing between a. m. and p. m. Under the plan the first hour after midnight would be designated as hour "one," each hour advancing a number until at 11 p. m., it would be hour "23."

Youthful Bandits Sought by Police

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Police here are searching for two youthful bandits, who chloroformed Mrs. Anna Fox and, after gagging her invalid husband, looted the Fox home of $100 in cash and jewelry.

Mrs. Fox was overpowered when she answered the door bell. The bandits dragged her to a rear bedroom, where her husband was lying ill, and demanded $10,000.

According to Mrs. Fox, the money was to have been left there by Jack Cabrillo, a real estate broker, for safe keeping, but making a last minute change in plans, Cabrillo decided to take it elsewhere.

Five Indicted On Smuggling Count

LOS ANGELES, March 18.—Jack Knight, an aviator, and four others, said to be implicated in an attempt to smuggle Chinese from Mexico to California by airplane, are under indictment here charged with conspiring to violate the immigration laws.

Knight was arrested when his plane, alleged to have been carrying four Chinese, was forced down near Murietta Hot Springs, Riverside county.

Cloudy Morning Blackfoot, an Indian; P. W. Jones, R. B. Grotemat and Virgil Adair were the others named in the indictment.

Power Firm Gets Permit for Water

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—The state division of water rights has announced the issuance of a permit to the Yosemite Power company, of San Francisco, for rights to use waters of the Tuolumne river, at Heardin. Expenditure of $5,500,000 is contemplated on the electric power plant. The permit was protested at a recent hearing of the division.

ASSEMBLY ADOPTS CABINET MEASURE

SACRAMENTO, March 18.—Governor Young's "cabinet" plan of state government was given unqualified approval by the assembly yesterday afternoon, when it adopted the measure providing for the cabinet.

Under the cabinet plan, the nine heads of state departments would form the governor's council and meet with the executive regularly to discuss problems of state government.

The bill was presented by Assemblyman B. J. Feigenbaum, of San Francisco, who also secured passage of his measure creating a new state department, the department of natural resources. Four divisions will be grouped in this department, including the fish and game commission, mines and mining, parks and forestry.

Music with Meals Is Given Laborers

LENINGRAD, March 18.—Music with their meals is to be provided for factory workmen of the Leningrad district. The directors of industry believe that the rest period in the middle of the day will be more restful if musical distraction is offered and the experiment is to be tried, in the hope of speeding up a factory production.

EVENING SALUTATION

Let fortune's bubbles rise and fall;
Who sows a field or trains a flower,
Or plants a tree is more than all."
May I reach
That purest heaven, be to other souls
The cup of strength in some great agony,
Enkindle generous ardor, feed pure love,
And in diffusion ever more intense!
So shall I join the choir invisible
Whose music is the gladness of the world.
—George Eliot.

WESTMINSTER FOR LIBRARY

Many changes have occurred at Westminster in the last three or four years and more are in sight. One of the first communities founded in the county following the breaking up of big ranch properties in the late '60's, Westminster always has stood high in the county for good citizenship. The town is located on a highway that is much travelled, a highway on which the travel will never grow less.

Just now Westminster is planning a new library building. This week a demonstration was held for the purpose of firmly fixing the idea that this building is a necessity for the betterment of the community.

A campaign is to be started soon for the purpose of raising money for the cost of construction. It is hoped that there will be no difficulty in bringing the campaign to a successful termination so that Westminster may have this added attraction and convenience, another step in the community's development.

DISINTERESTED WITNESSES

Three bills before the Ohio legislature deal with the expert witness problem in trial courts. One of them, already passed by the lower house and waiting for senate action, would provide that in civil actions, the judge of the trial court may appoint not more than three disinterested, qualified experts to investigate and testify under oath and to make a fair and impartial examination and a true report. Their compensation is to be fixed by the county and collected as part of the court costs.

The other two bills make like provision for criminal and insanity cases.

All three of the bills have the approval of the American Bar association and the American Medical association. If they become law and are properly enforced, they should hit directly at one of the outstanding abuses of present court practice.

The conflicting testimony of experts hired by the opposing sides in any law case has come to be a ridiculous and disgusting spectacle. It has not only helped to foster the popular conviction that the "whole truth" is never sought by either side in a trial, but has also helped to bring about distrust of the whole procedure. It is obvious that the experts on both sides cannot be equally well informed or equally honest when their testimony is directly contradictory. If such testimony is to mean anything at all or to have any value in the forwarding of justice, it will have to be disinterested as well as authoritative and honest.

CANDLES AND THEIR POPULARITY

Candles, a French visitor remarks, are a sign of wealth in America. The more money people possess, and the more electrical apparatus they have in their homes, the more they ignore it and use candles. And when they do use electric lights, it is usually in the form of imitation candles.

It does seem curious, when you consider how glad our grandmothers were to get away from the use of candles. The kerosene lamp was a great blessing, the height of luxury, and supremely beautiful. Then in turn it seemed ugly, and gas lights were luxurious and beautiful. Then gas lights became ugly and messy, and electric lights were luxurious and beautiful. Now, completing the circle, with electric illumination grown cheap and commonplace, for all its artistic possibilities, we are getting back to candles again for social illumination. It is a familiar thing to see wax candles burning on the dinner table under the electric chandelier, sometimes along with the electric light.

Yes, it is amusing. Yet there is another side to it. Candles are interwoven with the old memories of the race. There is more poetry in a candle than in an electric bulb. And what is more purely beautiful and nearer perfection, in this imperfect world, than the flame of a candle?

SIMPLER TAXATION

A joint congressional committee on taxation is going to try to devise a simpler income tax law. That would be almost as great a blessing as another tax reduction. Greater, indeed, to many citizens. The small taxpayer often spends more time and trouble on his tax report than the payment itself amounts to, even after several years of experience.

It is necessarily a rather complex business, this figuring out a system of income taxes which will take account of every kind of income, provide for all proper exemptions and give the government its due share without doing any injustice to the taxpayer. It is hard, too, to devise a simple tax report form. The treasury department, on the whole, has done pretty well with the law given it for administration. The law itself can probably be simplified so as to make the task of both treasury and public somewhat easier.

As matters stand, it is said that most of the congressmen themselves have to ask legal advice in making out their tax reports, because they don't understand the operation of their own law.

PRICE LEVELS STEADYING

Commodity prices in this country, economists find, have fluctuated only about five cents on the dollar, one way or another, during the last five years. This seems to be a natural fluctuation, due to temporary causes rather than any basic cause.

It means that the value of the dollar which measures prices appears to be stabilizing itself at a new level, which may be around 65 cents, compared with its pre-war level of 100 cents.

This represents a gain of 25 cents in the dollar from its lowest level, which was around 40 cents when prices reached their peak in 1920.

If this new level is held, it will be fortunate. Most of the readjustments necessary to accommodate business and finance to the situation have been made by this time. It matters far less what the level of values is than that the level should be steady.

AIR BASE IN HAWAII

The United States navy, by agreement with the army, is planning to develop a great aviation center in Hawaii. By a curious coincidence, the island chosen for this purpose is named Ford island. It is not apparent that Henry Ford, who is today the leading commercial exponent of aviation, has anything to do with it.

Hawaii, our half-way station across the Pacific, and always regarded as a natural site for a naval base, is likewise a natural site for an air base. From there, a great air fleet, capable of long-range operations, might command the greatest of oceans, maintain ready communication with our homeland and the Philippines, and keep in touch with western Asia.

Plan Should Be Adopted

Sacramento Bee

One of the most important tasks before the present California legislature is the reorganization of the state government as outlined in certain bills sponsored by Governor C. C. Young.

The underlying principle of every change proposed is one that common sense and federal practice during the whole history of the United States alike approve.

Governor Young wants the various executive departments of the state government simplified, their functions more clearly marked and their heads more directly responsible both to the people and to the governor. To achieve those ends he has outlined a system which would in effect be almost completely analogous to the president's cabinet.

It is obvious that such a clarifying and centralizing of functions as would result from application of the governor's plan is entirely desirable. It would expedite business and save money. It would bring the various departments directly under the eye of the governor, eliminate overlapping of authority, prevent the waste of time which is the inevitable result of the present scatteration of boards and departments.

The governor also proposes the creation of a new department of natural resources, to be governed by a director and responsible for forests, parks, fish and game and mining; and a department of public health to centralize the functions now exercised by the state board of health under one head.

The legislature should give to all these proposals, and to several others included in Governor Young's program, the consideration and the action they deserve.

That the state government as at present organized is unnecessarily cumbersome and wasteful there can be no doubt. Nor can there be any doubt that most of Young's recommendations would result in increased efficiency and decreased cost to the people.

DON'T TRY TO BREATHE YOUR WAY TO HEALTH; IT CAN'T BE DONE

Among the peculiar follies of the physical culture movement none has seemed so completely preposterous as the notion that systems of breathing of one tye or another are important in the causing of any disease or in curing the majority of complaints.

While breathing is not automatically regulated by the human body in tne same manner as the beat of the heart may be, it is, to a large extent, an automatic function controlled somewhat by reflexes.

One can breathe as deeply or as fast as he wishes to, but when he is running or engaged in feats of strength, the lungs automatically take in as much air as they can to equal the demands made upon them for supplying oxygen to the blood.

Normally a person inhales air through the nose, which removes dust and dirt and warms the air. When a person breathes through his mouth he has not these safeguards.

Systems of breathing that have been proposed include "vitalic breathing," abdominal breathing, rhythmical breathing and other schemes for controlling the breathing rate and volume. All of these systems are irrational and cannot possibly benefit the general state of the body. One does not live for the lungs alone.

Recently a promoter of a breathing system, who visited my office, said that according to his notion the secret of health was rhythmical deep breathing while engaged in long walks. He showed a body which was largely a barrel-shaped chest, but unfortunately a brain that was not developed in proportion.

Actually it is possible through breathing too rapidly to produce a stopping of the respiration, and it is possible by breathing in too shallow a manner to produce changes in the blood that are not healthful. Overbreathing results in introducing too much oxygen and a state of alkalosis due to reducing the amount of carbon dioxide in the blood. The carbon dioxide in the blood is the regulator to some extent of the breathing rate.

Oxygen cannot be kept in the body in quantities to be used as occasion demands; the amount is regulated by the nature of the blood. A person should develop as much lungs as he needs for his normal life, exactly as with the heart or with any other organ.

One of the great dangers of too much athletics is the overbuilding of certain tissues which are not called on later and hence degenerate. Enough exercise should be taken to see that the lungs have a certain amount of regular ventilation and development, but breathing systems should in general be deprecated.

The Beauty of Evening

By MAURICE DE GUERIN

Nothing can more faithfully represent this state of the soul than the shades of evening, falling at this very moment. Great clouds just edged with silver cover the whole face of the sky. The sun, which set but a few moments ago, has left behind light enough to temper for a while the black shadows, and to soften in a measure the fall of night. The winds are hushed, and the peaceful ocean, as I come to listen on the threshold of the door, sends me only a melodious murmur which softly spreads over the soul like a beautiful wave over the beach. The birds, the first to feel the influence of the night, fly toward the woods, and their wings rustle in the clouds.

The coppice, which covers the entire slope of the hill of Le Val, and resounds all day long with the chirps of the wren, the gay whistle of the woodpecker, and the various notes of a multitude of birds, has no more sound along its path or within its thickets, unless it be the shrill call of the blackbirds as they play together and chase one another, after the other birds have hidden their heads under their wings. The noise of men, always the last to become silent, gradually dies away over the face of the fields. The general uproar ceases, and not a sound is heard except from the towns and hamlets, where, far into the night the children cry and the dogs bark.

Silence enwraps me; all things yearn for rest except my pen, which disturbs perchance the slumber of some living atom asleep in the folds of my note-book, for it makes its little sound as it writes these idle thoughts. Then let it cease; for what I write, have written, and shall write, will never be worth the sleep of a single atom.

DAYS

This day was good! It brought me a new friend,
And so enriched my life, where there was lack:
But yesterday I hold a better day—
It brought an old friend back.

All days are good, and some especially dear—
Of all the fleeting days of yester-year
Is that bright, golden, glory-day
Not one has failed! But best of all in this review,
That brought me—You!

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

"It is hard to believe, when one walks down the streets of Los Angeles, or any large city, that hold-ups can be of such common occurrence," declared Tall Son thoughfully as we lingered over the coffee cups after dinner last night, in the Little Gray House.

"But Al was telling me a funny story in regard to a hold-up in Los Angeles" he continued. "It seemed a member of his family was accustomed to wear a twenty-dollar gold piece as a watch charm, and one evening when he was hurrying home, a stranger stopped him and asked for the right time. After he had given it, the man said very courteously, 'Pardon me, but it is really dangerous for you to wear that goldpiece as a watch charm. Sometime, someone is going to take it away from you.'

" 'Oh I don't believe so,' replied the man, 'I have worn it a long time and have always been safe. I guess it is all right.'

" 'Well, I doubt it,' replied the stranger. 'In fact I am warning you that you are going to lose it. Someone is going to take it away from you. . . . and don't forget that I am warning you,' and suddenly the man felt something poke him in the ribs as the stranger stepped closer to him. The something was a revolver, and its holder calmly stripped the gold-piece from the chain and pocketed it, and just as he walked away, he said very pleasantly, 'Let this be a lesson to you, —don't forget that I warned you this would happen.' "

Dear Patcher Lady: 'Tis comin' spring, an I've been thinkin uf that peace "The Bare Foot Boy." Mebbie my woman has too, cause she's darnin socks; but I cant see no cents in lit, fer I think it would be more sensibl to go bare-footed like the boy. Here's my pome I wrote the other day after my woman put up them darned socks.

WHEN MY WIFE DARNS SOCKS

When e'er my wife sits down to darn
(I mean with socks and hank of yarn)
Her tongue as well as hands are stirred,
She does not pause from word to word.
She tells me this, she tells me that,
And how she stands and will stand pat;
She glares at me to make it sure,
And faster talks, and yet talks more

Then suddenly, twixt breath or two,
"Silas is something wrong with you?
You have not said a single thing,
What do you think the crops will bring?"
And when I draw my pipe to tell,
She's more than past her halting spell,
She plies her needle with more rush
And talks as though she'd never hush.

Dear Patchy Quilter: Did you ever hear the unneeded fable about the needed knee? No, we have heard it now.

Impatchionately yours,
Pat. . .sh.

. . . Time was, once when a lady's knees were positively private. Adventure Rolls-Royced right up to the man who saw one. Of course, the stage knee never was fabled. In the decades that "have went" waste before our eyes, many a deplore deplored we at the attempt of stage managers to cash in at the box office on the chorus girls' knees.

But Dame Fashion is a wren, a trickster, a gambler. She takes our sweethearts and fantastically girds 'em. What fabled pen to tell intelligently the telling tale of the wasp-waist corset, the bustle, the mutton-leg sleeve, the hoop skirt and the hobble skirt.

" 'Arf a step! 'Arf a step!
'Arf a step honward!
'Ampered by hobble skirts
'Opped the Four 'unnerd!"

And do not forget the long, long train a street sweeping. Patience where is thy virtue!

But pendulums swing aft as well as fore. Now what! Skirts that show the knees and not, maybe. Show dimpled knees, knocked knees fat ones to offset the lean, bowed knees and what-have-you! It's hardly decent for a family man to enfeebly try to enfable the fabulous truly fabulous.

So to continue gaspingly to spark the old pun flivver, we need knees whether we live by kneading or the needle. Neither does the Negro neophyte negotiate his nefarious negations except on knobby knees.

Tra-la-la! "Me, too!"

BATHTUB MUSIC

When I hear the sound of singing
Come rumbling through the walls,
It does not make me curious,
Nor startle me at all,

Nor am I ever tempted
To do or say things rash,
For the singing is accompanied
By a most tremendous splash,

And after that I hear a sound
Like rub-a-dub-dub-dub,
And I always know its Stubbydee
A singing in his tub!

A deep melodious baritone—
A range from high to low—
A melody that's full of pep,
Expressing nothing slow.

Combined, they stir emotions
Quite the opposite from wrath,
As I "listen in" while Stubbydee
Is singing in his bath.

You never could convince me
That there's malice in a man
Who takes his bath to music
On the self-made warbler plan!

It's hilarious and inspiring—
Leaves a joyous aftermath,
And I'm glad I have a neighbor
Who sings while in his bath.

The Monkey Cage

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

MOST folks include the big apes, the chimpanzees, gorillas and orangoutangs under the name of "monkeys" when as a matter of fact it's a wrong usage for there is more difference in physical structure between the monkeys and the apes than between the apes and man. The monkey's native home is the warm regions of both hemispheres. They live in communities in the trees with a wise old male for a chief. When in captivity they are happier in groups in cages than alone, for they like company and fun. In the forest morning and evening seems to be monkey playtime for they leap and swing and chase each other through the trees like a bunch of school boys. Because they are so droll and companionable they never fail to attract a crowd of children, big and little ones, at the zoo.

AT the zoo, to guard the monkeys
There's a tall fence made of wire,
And it's there we hang and watch them
All the day and never tire.
There's a funny monkey, Jocko,
And his little monkey cousins,
With his aunties and his uncles
And relations by the dozens
Who jump and clamber in and out
And all the time they climb about
They jabber, jabber, jabber.

Our most favorite monkey, Jocko,
Seems to know a treat we're bringing
'Cause he reaches through the wires,
By his great long tail a-swinging;
And then he tries to thank us
By his chatter loud and frantic,
And politely entertain us
With some specially funny antics.
Then while he feasts there on a limb
The others beg a bite from him,
And jabber, jabber, jabber.
